

SEEK EMBARGO ON THE EXPORT OF MUNITIONS

New Jersey Officials to Demand Federal Action as Result of Big Explosion—More Arrests

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Representatives John J. Eagan and James A. Hamill of New Jersey announced this afternoon at the conclusion of a conference of city, county, state and federal officials on the Black Tom munition explosion which caused loss of life and heavy property damage that they would go to Washington tomorrow, accompanied by Mayor Fagan of Jersey City, to demand an embargo on the export of munitions from Atlantic coast ports.

MORE ARRESTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Three additional arrests are expected today as a result of the investigation by New Jersey and Jersey City officials of the great munition explosion on Black Tom Island Sunday. With three men already held in jail on charges of manslaughter, a warrant had been issued for the arrest of E. L. Mackenzie, president of the National Dock & Storage Co., at whose pier the disaster started. The commissioner of public safety of Jersey City, Frank Hague, said that two railroad presidents, E. B. Thomas of the Lehigh Valley, and W. G. Bester of the Central railroad of New Jersey, probably would be arrested today.

Want Shipments From Other Ports

The New Jersey authorities declare that the $20,000,000 blast still be the end of the danger in which seven million persons have lived in this section for the last year, during which ammunition has been pouring through Jersey City for the use of the entente allies. They say that three-fourths of the ammunition shipped from America to Europe is loaded on board ships here, and they have begun proceedings with the determination to compel its shipment from points remote from New York.

Dispute Authority

The New Jersey authorities intend also to dispute the authority of the interstate commerce commission to regulate the traffic in ammunition.

A conference was held today between state and federal officials to plan to eliminate the danger of a repetition of the disaster.

Millions Shipped Daily

It is declared that about 3,000,000 pounds of explosive are transhipped daily from railroads here to steamers lying in Gravesend Bay. Rules of the interstate commission require that the explosives must be unloaded within 24 hours after reaching the piers. New Jersey officials believe many of the railroads are violating this law.

McKenzie Arraigned

McKenzie arrived at Jersey City police headquarters in charge of detectives and was taken to court for arraignment.

Another Body Found

APPEAL TO PRESIDENT FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

WOMEN SEEK SUPPORT OF SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—An appeal to President Wilson to support a suffrage amendment to the federal constitution was made today by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, and Mrs. Frank M. Roosevelt, vice president of the organization and chairman of the congressional committee.

RE-DISTRICTING HELD UP

JUDGE CROSBY GRANTS INJUNCTION AT REQUEST OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Upon the petition of Herman Horrel, secretary of the republican city committee and other republican party leaders, Judge Crosby of the supreme court today issued a temporary injunction restraining the proposed re-districting of this city into new representative districts. A hearing on the injunction was set for Friday. The republican contention that the readjustment of ward lines, in charge of a special commission, has been worked out to the disadvantage of their party.

DOUBLE FUNERAL

Victims of Drowning Accident Buried This Afternoon

The double funeral of Gemes Babin and John Keahagias, the two boys who lost their lives while bathing in the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon, took place this afternoon from the funeral parlors of Undertakers Joseph Albert & Son in Aiken at 1:30 o'clock. The funeral procession, headed by two white hearse, wended its way to the Greek Orthodox church in Jefferson street, where at 2 o'clock a double service was conducted by Rev. Hariton Panagopolis. The bearers were playmates of the two boys. Burial was in the Edison cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Panagopolis. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Joseph Albert & Son.

CHALIFOUX'S ON THE SQUARE

TO DRESS WELL IS A SCIENCE

It requires lots of study and thought. It requires a little time and trouble—looking about—finding the store that offers the best values.

Don't you know some man who always looks particularly well? Why do you suppose it is? It is because he understands the art of dressing—because he appreciated a good clothing store, and buys here year after year. We have spent time, money and brains in making this store what it is, but we have never had cause for regret.

BRITISH DRIVEN OUT OF FOUREAUX WOOD

Germans Violently Counter Attacking in Somme Region of Northern France — Petrograd Announces German Line Broken on Kovel Front—Fleet of German Airships Drops Bombs

The Germans are violently counter attacking in the Somme region of northern France and, according to the official report from Berlin today, have driven the British out of Fouraux wood, northwest of Evai.

London Reports No Change

London reports the situation along the Somme front virtually unchanged since the Anglo-French attack of Sunday. The repulse of a German attack near Bazentin-le-Petit is claimed. Paris announces the breaking up of two strong attacks by the Germans south of the Somme, near Lihons.

On the eastern front, where unofficial advisers declare the Tautonic forces defending Kovel and Vladimir-Volynski are hard pressed by the Russians, Berlin declares the attacks on the German lines have been fruitless. Petrograd, on the other hand, announces that in the bend of the Stokhod, the Kovel front, the German line has been driven back and all counter attacks in the Kovel and Lutsk regions repulsed.

Russians Advance

In Galicia the Russians have made progress west of Bucacz, forcing the Austrians back in the Zlota Lupa region towards Halicz according to Petrograd. More than 1000 prisoners were taken here by the Russians.

Another Zeppelin Raid

Seven Zeppelins and aeroplanes are said to have taken part in last night's air raid on the eastern and southeastern coast of England. No report of casualties caused or damage done has been issued. One Zeppelin apparently was hit by anti-aircraft guns, according to London advices.

Russians Push On

The Russian drive on the eastern front is attaining such momentum that it is threatening to wreck the entire Tautonic defensive line south of the Pinski marshes, according to unofficial reports through Rome today.

Germans Evacuating Kovel

Petrograd despatches last night credited the Russians under General Kaledines with having crossed the river Stokhod in their advance toward Kovel, the key to the German positions in Volhynia, along a 27 mile front between the Kovel-Sarny and Kovel-Rovno railways. Today's unofficial despatches report the removal by the Germans of their heavy guns and supplies from Kovel and the evacuation of Vladimir-Volynski, 30 miles to the southwest, which also is threatened by the Russian advance westward from Lutsk.

Austrian Army in Danger

To the southwest, in Galicia, the success of General Sakharoff in capturing Brody, is declared in unofficial advices to have been followed up by a Cossack raid which destroyed railways behind the Austrian army, threatening it with envelopment.

Berlin Is Confident

Berlin despatches express confidence that the Tautonic resistance in the Kovel region will withstand the Russian pressure, the new front to which the German and Austrians have withdrawn west of the bend in the Stokhod being 25 miles shorter than the old one, and considered far easier to defend.

Turks Reach Eastern Front

Turkish troops are arriving on the eastern front, presumably in readiness to be thrown into the counter stroke against General Kaledines which General von Linsingen is planning.

SEVEN ZEPPELINS AND OTHER AIRSHIPS RAID ENGLISH COAST TOWNS

LONDON, August 1.—Last night's raid on the eastern and southeastern counties of England was carried out by seven or more Zeppelins, accompanied by aeroplanes, according to reports of observers who sighted the aircraft returning homeward.

No details of the raid have been received.

One of the Zeppelin airships which raided the eastern and southeastern counties of England last night was picked up by searchlights and heavily fired upon, says a southeast coast correspondent of the Central News agency. It is believed the airship was hit as she appeared to stop, tremble and then dive.

It was officially announced this evening that there were no casualties whatever as the result of the projectiles dropped by the Zeppelin airships last night.

A correspondent who explored the districts visited by the Zeppelins writes:

"The damage done was wanton and indiscriminate. The whole of it was of little value and certainly of no military importance.

"Directly the airships struck the coast they separated for various points of penetration. When anti-aircraft guns were drawn out, the Zeppelins immediately turned tail seaward. Their pilots seemed to be mystified."

An official account of the raid says that:

"The number of bombs was at first greatly exaggerated owing to a majority of them falling in thinly inhabited districts and having been heard at great distances. The actual number found to date is about sixty."

GEN. VON BOTHMER'S ARMY DEVELOPED BY RUSSIANS—GERMAN WITHDRAWAL

LONDON, August 1, 12.30 p. m.—General Count von Bothmer's army is reported to be almost enveloped by the Russians in Galicia, says a despatch from Rome to the Wireless Press. Cossack divisions, after the occupation of Brody, are said to have destroyed the railways behind the Austrian army.

The Germans are withdrawing from Kovel their heavy artillery, food and munition depots, says another despatch from Rome to the Wireless Press. The city of Vladimir-Volynski in Volhynia, is said to have been completely evacuated by the Germans.

WAS OVERCOME BY GAS DROWNED AT LAKEVIEW

MRS. J. HARRY LEIGHTON OF WILDER STREET IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Mrs. J. Harry Leighton of 352 Wilder street, was accidentally overcome by illuminating gas at her home early this morning. Dr. Edward O. Tabor, who lives in the vicinity, was called and attended the woman. Her condition is serious.

Later in the morning a neighbor telephoned the Humane society that a fox terrier belonging to Mr. Leighton was acting in a peculiar manner and Assistant Agent C. Frederick Gilmore responded and found the canine with very little heart action. He tried to revive the dog, but life seemed to be almost extinct. The animal was then taken to the police station and after an ineffectual attempt was made to increase the heart action Mr. Gilmore ended the dog's suffering.

TROLLEY STRIKE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—City officials fear that the street railway companies operating surface lines in this city are nearing a deadlock with labor leaders and a general strike. Already thousands of people are compelled to walk all or at least part of the way up or down town because of the strike which has tied up the lines of the Third Avenue Railroad company.

Officials of the New York Railways company, which operates a large percentage of the street railway lines of the city, said today that efforts had been made by the Amalgamated Association of Street & Electric Railway Employees to extend the strike to the employees of that company.

A tie-up of this system would deprive Manhattan of virtually all its surface transportation.

In an effort to avert an extension of the strike, Mayor Mitchell called a conference of representatives of the railway companies and the employees at his office this afternoon.

898 DIE OF PARALYSIS

All Previous Mortality Records Broken Today — 57 Children Killed in Last 24 Hours

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—All previous mortality records in the epidemic of infantile paralysis were broken today. During the 24-hour period ending at 10 a. m., the plague killed 57 children in the greater city and 129 new cases were reported by the health department. The great increase in the number of deaths is attributed to the season's worst heat wave.

Health experts fighting the epidemic said that with the return of cooler weather today they were confident the number of deaths and new cases would show a decided falling off.

Since the plague got its start on June 25 there have been 4123 cases of the disease, 898 of which proved fatal.

FOR NAVAL CRUISE

BOSTON, August 1.—Divisions of the naval battalion of this state from New Bedford, Springfield, Marblehead and Newburyport which did not participate in the recent cruise, reported aboard the battleship Kearsarge here today, preparatory to a tour of duty in company with members of the Maine naval organization. The Kearsarge was to sail for Portland, Me., late today.

BATTLE WITH U-BOAT

BRITISH STEAMER ARRIVES—COMMANDER TELLS OF BATTLE IN MEDITERRANEAN

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The British steamer Clodmoor, just in port from Genoa, Italy, had a battle in the Mediterranean with a German or Austrian submarine, her commander, Charles Hunter, reported today. He believes that he left the submarine in a sinking condition.

ALDERMAN PUTNAM WANTS MORE FIREMEN

Statement Presented to City Council Showing Need of More Fire Fighters

The municipal council at a regular meeting this forenoon voted against repealing the jitney ordinance for Paige street and consequently Alderman Putnam still has the right of way for his jitneys at the corner of Paige and Bridge streets. At the last meeting of the council a petition was presented, asking that the ordinance be repealed. The petition bore the signatures of over 600 voters, and D. J. Donahue, Esq., spoke in favor of the petition. At that time it was voted to instruct the city solicitor to draft an order for the repeal of the ordinance, the mayor voting against it. Mr. Putnam was absent. When the order was read this morning, Mr. Putnam enquired as to its meaning, and then he and the mayor voted against it. Messrs. Morse and Connelly voting in favor.

Commissioner Putnam gave a long statement concerning fire protection in this city and he told of his intentions to appoint five or six new men.

County Commissioners Met in Cambridge Today and Gave Out Copies of New Plan

Special to The Sun

EAST CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 1.—The county commissioners met this forenoon to rearrange the representative districts in Middlesex county and immediately after the meeting had been called to order the report was given out. The story appearing exclusively in The Sun of Thursday last relative to the commissioners' plan of rearranging the representative districts in Lowell was correct, as usual, in every detail.

The constitution requires that the county commissioners shall assemble on the first Tuesday of August at a public town in the county and proceed, as soon as may be, to divide same into representative districts. Although

HUGHES ATTACKS WILSON

Outlines Campaign Issues in Acceptance Speech Demands "Protective Policies"

FEATURES OF MR. HUGHES' SPEECH

Declares the republican party restored, alert and effective. Preaches "America first and America efficient."

Condemns President Wilson's diplomatic appointments, especially the replacing of Ambassador Herrick at Paris.

Administration's dealings with Mexico "a confused series of blunders."

Policy toward Mexico should be to "insist in a firm and candid manner upon the performance of international obligations." A short period of firm, consistent dealing will accomplish more than years of vacillation.

Stands "for the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea."

Declares firm stand on "strict accountability" would have averted the Lusitania tragedy.

Charges administration has been remiss in protection of American property and American commerce, and has failed to use the resources at our command.

Blames administration for unpreparedness shown by militia movement to Mexican border; says policy of army increase has been vacillating; incompetent naval administration imposed upon the country.

Demands adequate national defense; adequate protection on both Western and Eastern coasts.

Calls present prosperity a "fool's paradise," predicts industrial depression under democratic tariff at end of war. Declares for protection.

Strongly indorses woman suffrage.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Charles E. Hughes made his eagerly awaited speech of acceptance as republican candidate for president last evening and outlined the leading issues of his campaign. He attacked the present administration, more especially for its conduct of Mexican affairs and for its foreign policy, condemned alien intrigues on American soil, came out for a program of domestic reforms, including adequate national defense, and endorsed the republican suffrage plank.

A Message To Thin Weak Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Pounds of Solid, Healthy Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good nourishing food. The reason is just this: My body cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste."

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—eager and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. A scientific way of working to overcome this sinful waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to try Sargol, the famous flesh building agent that has been so widely sold in America in recent years. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and see if your cheeks don't fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh form over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. The Lowell Pharmacy and other good druggists have Sargol or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces, as stated on the guarantee in each large package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

NOTE: Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

restored, alert and effective; the administration's policy in Mexico has been "a confused series of blunders; a firm stand on 'strict accountability' would have averted the Lusitania tragedy; present prosperity is a 'fool's paradise' which under a democratic tariff would disappear at the end of the war; the administration has been to blame for the unpreparedness shown in the sending of the troops to Mexico, and the country will have to adopt adequate protection of our coasts."

Declaring at the outset that the present time is "perhaps more critical than any period since the Civil War" and that the republican party is ready to be the "agency of national achievement," he condemned the foreign relations policy of the present administration and especially the diplomatic appointments. He then turned to Mexico which he dealt with in detail, giving it more attention than any other subject of his address.

After intimating that President Wilson should have recognized Huerta and criticizing the mission of John Lind he dealt scathingly with the Vera Cruz incident, saying after a strong summing up of the main points: "What a travesty of international policy!" Continuing in a like vein, he accused President Wilson for a misplaced friendship for Villa and painted a harrowing picture of internal Mexican conditions for the past three years. He criticized the sending of the troops to Mexico and gave his conception of a desirable Mexican policy as follows:

"The nation has no policy of aggression toward Mexico. We have no desire for any part of her territory. We wish her to have peace, stability and prosperity. We should be ready to aid her in binding up her wounds, in relieving her from starvation and distress, and in giving her in every practicable way the benefits of our disinterested friendship. The conduct of this administration has created difficulties which we shall have to surmount. We shall have to overcome the antipathy needlessly created by that conduct and to develop genuine respect and confidence. We shall have to adopt a new policy, a policy of firmness and consistency, through which alone we can promote an enduring friendship. We demand from Mexico the protection of the lives and the property of our citizens, and the security of our border from depredations. Much will be gained if Mexico is convinced that we contemplate no meddlesome interference with what does not concern us, but that we propose to insist in a firm and candid manner upon the performance of international obligations. To a stable government, appropriately discharging its international duties, we should give ungrudging support. A short period of firm, consistent and friendly dealing will accomplish more than many years of vacillation."

Dealing with the subject of our relation to the European war, Mr. Hughes accused the present administration of lack of firmness in protecting American life and property, saying, in part:

"We have had brave words in a series of notes, but despite our protests the lives of Americans have been destroyed. What does it avail to use some of the strongest words known to diplomacy if ambassadors can receive the impression that the words are not to be taken seriously? It is not words, but the strength and resolution behind the words that count. Had this government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said 'strict accountability' we meant precisely what we said, and that we should unhesitatingly vindicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania. There we had ample notice, in fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whitening away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and decisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would understand."

I do not put life and property on the same footing, but the administration has not only been remiss with respect to the protection of American lives; it has been remiss with respect to the protection of American property and American commerce. It has been too much disposed to be content with leisurely discussion. I cannot now undertake to review the course of events, but it is entirely clear that we failed to use the resources at our command to prevent injurious action, and that we suffered in consequence."

On the question of preparedness Mr. Hughes said: "It is apparent that we are shockingly unprepared, and he accused the administration of following rather than leading in the recent agitation for better things. In a general way he espoused a stronger army and navy, industrial mobilization and all that is involved in the term 'preparedness.'"

Leading up to the subject of business and commerce after the war, the candidate said that he believes in the "organization of peace and this, said, includes a return to protection for American industries. He was very specific in his treatment of this phase of his speech, as the following excerpt will show:

"It is plain that we must have protective, upbuilding policies. It is idle to look for relief to the democratic party, which as late as 1912 declared its platform that it was 'a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, had no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue.' We are told in its present platform that there have been 'momentous changes' in the past two years, and hence repudiating its former attitude the democratic party now declares for a 'non-partisan tariff commission.' But have the 'momentous changes' incident to the European war changed the constitution of the United States? Is it proposed to use a tariff commission to frame a tariff for revenue only? Is the opposing party ready to confess that for generations it has misread the constitution? Is that party now prepared to accept the protective principle? Rather, so far as the tariff is concerned, it would appear to be without principle. Witness its action in connection with sugar duties. He re-affirmed of the doctrine of a revenue tariff, its dysentery proposal, and its formulation in lieu of protective duties of an 'anti-dumping' provision, the terms of which are sufficient to show its ineffectiveness."

The various other issues in his campaign outline were dealt with briefly. Mr. Hughes came out in favor of "the conservation of the just interests of labor; federal workmen's compensation laws; conservation of agriculture; government of the Philippines 'with a full recognition of our international duty' votes for women; according to the method prescribed in the republican platform; administrative efficiency, civil service reform and economy in the budget. He closed with the following summary:

"We live in a fateful hour. In a true sense, the contest for the preservation of the nation is never ended. We must still be imbued with the spirit of heroic sacrifice which gave us our country and brought safely through the days of civil war. We renew our pledge to the ancient ideals of individual liberty, of race or creed, of unswerving loyalty. We have a vision of America prepared and secure; strong and just; equal to her tasks; an exemplar of the capacity and efficiency of a free people. I endorse the platform adopted by the convention and accept its nomination."

Mr. Hughes had an engagement also to address at luncheon a number of republican newspaper men who came here to hear his acceptance speech.

HUGHES' CAMPAIGN ON

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE
"The Good Bad-Man" with Douglas Fairbanks, the light comedian, playing the title part, is on exhibition at the B. F. Keith theatre. The first half of the present week. Years ago, notwithstanding the great heat, the theatre held large crowds which greatly enjoyed the thread of the unusual story and the excellent acting of the star and his support.

"The Good Bad-Man" touches an unusual theme, to wit, the brigandage of a man who has society because he firmly believes that he is fatherless. This particular man hadn't known much about his early life, but there had always occurred to him the belief that a great wrong had been committed somewhere. In his warped way he decided to "get even" with the world. He held up "cross-country" express, loaded stages and generally caused bother. But, somehow, in all of his quick work his foot consisted only of thoughts. He gave these to little waifs he knew and it pleased him greatly to see them laugh at his gifts. "Passin' Through" was the name this laughing bandit took, and it suited him rather better than did any other. He not only got to be the despair of the federal marshals, but one of the people who dislike to him. New, in the course of time, he returned for a ticket punch, the sort that conductors on steam trains use. And this he gave to a girl waif, who sort of attracted him. "Even good bad-men run against snags and one day a big marshal placed 'Passin' Through' under arrest. And the marshal's name was 'Bob Evans,' a big bulk of a man with an eye as quick as lightning. The name occurred somewhere in a letter which 'Passin' Through' had in his heritage from his mother. He had been told to ask 'Bob Evans' if he ever ran across him, just what the tragedy was which had befallen his mother. And the marshal told him. Years before, 'Passin' Through's' mother had been a western dance hall employee, and there she chanced to meet a good man, and him she married. But the keeper of the hall, 'Bud Frazer,' had wanted her too. He wanted her so badly that after her marriage he just naturally killed her husband—'Passin' Through's' father—on sight. And then he lounded her.

And then he lounded her.

The actual of this story made the young bandit more anxious than ever to do some bold work, and he set on the trail after 'Bud Frazer,' a member of the last. There is more to the story than this for the natural love affair of 'Passin' Through' for the girl waif—a part admirably played by Jessie Love—was the concluding chapter one of great interest.

Although Fairbanks is known far and wide as a comedian, he is not mis-cast in portraying a hero. His 'Passin' Through' is a mighty cleverly drawn character, with brief touches of unmistakable humor. From every canon as the federal marshal also does some exceptionally good work.

"Tangled Threads," the tenth chapter of 'Victoria's Romance,' in which Miss Billie Burke is appearing, shows the suspicion deepening in the heroine's mind that her dear lover was not all that he seemed. She thought him to be. Unable to piece together the odds and ends of evidence as in his past life, certain facts make a clear impression on her. But the murderer of the man is not suspected. Miss Burke does some splendid acting in this chapter.

"Dash of Courage," with Harry Gibson as the master crook, is the crime of the Triangle-Knox comedy, which runs along at the usual pace. The master crook enters the picture, he manages to get away with a town and is entertained by the police of the place as the man who first put the town on the map. A keen money and valuables before he is finally caught.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Rita Jolivet, who is the star in the photo-drama, "An International Marriage" is a sure-enough countess. At yesterday's performance she portrayed the part of the American daughter of a multi-millionaire with compelling power and great attractiveness. A very interesting story goes with this play in which the complications of the suitors for the hand of Florence Brent, this rare beauty, make quite a contest. The third suitor, a quite capable American, follows the other two, a duke and a count, abroad and shows up their deceitful and devious conduct and subtle ways and solves a seemingly impossible tangle in a masterly way. This love story of international complications and situations is a most attractive setting for beautiful Rita Jolivet, who played with convincing reality and irresistible charm, displaying her great ability to express strong emotion. As usual, "Charlie Chaplin" pleased in his own version of "Carmen" which was a four-reel knockout. The pretty Mary Pickford appeared in a different setting in "Ramona," a re-issue of a Biograph in one reel. It was most interesting to see the difference in her pictures then and now. Screaming as usual were the audiences at the comedy, "Harold, the Nurse Girl." Some very beautiful travel pictures and other films were shown. This program will be repeated today and tomorrow.

While vaudeville the nature of which is offered at the big summer resort costs a great deal more than the average musical comedy production, the management of the road as well as the theatre wishes to present that which is the more approved and regarded less of the cost, thus the offering of the varied form of entertainment two weeks successively. The largest Monday crowd of the season was in evidence yesterday and if this can be taken as a criterion, the attendance for the week should prove to be vastly superior to any previous week.

There is every form of vaudeville entertainment on the week's bill that one could wish for, and in addition there are several of the latest films from the movie world. While the greater part of the bill is of comedy singing and talking yet there is enough of novelty work to give the bill a versatile appearance.

The vaudeville for the week consists of the following acts—Weston and Marian Dancers de Luxe, Dick and Alice Healey in song and talk, the Zarr Carmen trio of "Hoopologists," Lew Fitzgibbon xylophone artist and Lorenzo Cox in "Original Silhouettes."

An added feature at the dance hall for the week will be the presenting of the latest society terephorean steps by The Van Dikes, an event scheduled for every evening during intermission.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Koren capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

HOT WAVE HITS WAR ZONE

Allied Soldiers Made Attack in Sweltering Mid-Summer Heat—Fearful Carnage

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN THE FIELD, July 30, via London, July 31.—French and British soldiers made today's attack in sweltering mid-summer heat. The first real hot wave of the season struck northern France last night, and this morning British and French infantry co-operated in an action north of the Somme, in front of Guillemont and Maurepas.

Persistent bad light, which did not permit the gunners to register their targets, had delayed any important infantry action. Yesterday the light became better as the heat grew tropic and offensive operations were renewed.

Every day the Germans have been increasing the number of guns and men in the Guillemont sector which is among the last portions of high ground they hold. By prisoners taken from German battalions, or ten thousand men, have been identified on a front of 2000 yards where the Germans are still in their old second line fortifications with maze trenches and deep dugouts built long ago and strengthened since the offensive began. The Germans appear to regard this sector of critical importance since the British broke the second line on the adjoining front for a length of two miles on July 14.

Fight Under Broiling Sun

Part of the British attack struck from the bloody Trones wood and the other part on the flank while the Germans tried to man machine guns as usual after a British bombardment. The Germans resisted the British bitterly, fighting under the broiling sun as if every inch of ground was precious.

The British got possession of the railroad station which they had reached in a previous attack, and this time, according to last reports, were still holding it. Some of the attackers got into Guillemont and reached the church, where the Germans, swarming in dugouts, outnumbered the advance party which fought against their foe on all sides. It was one of those hand to hand and hide and seek conflicts in the village ruins of indescribable ferocity. The British had to retire from the edge of Guillemont, but made good a considerable advance southward on the flank of the town, where, through the hot night, fighting continued.

Fearful Carnage

Perspiration made white water courses in the dust of the men's faces today and their eyes looked out through masks so thick that their faces seemed to be covered with some kind of armor. Motor trucks passed like phantoms in thick clouds on the road. Gunners, stripped to their skin, kept on serving their guns at top speed.

Soldiers who reached Guillemont speak of the fearful carnage among the Germans from the British gunfire, owing to the masses of Germans concentrated under the British bombardment before the infantry attacks. They said they could hear the moans of the German wounded for water above the bombing and rifle and machine gun fire. With the news of the shooting of Capt. Fryatt fresh in their minds, the British went into the charge in a fury, swearing they would avenge his murder.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Appropos of all the talk concerning the high cost of living in these enlightened days, a glance at the columns of "The Sun" of a quarter of a century ago, reveals the fact that it also costs considerably more to bury the dead today, than it did quarter of a century ago. The Sun of quarter of a century ago, this date, had a lengthy article headed "Burial Reform," in which it presented an argument favoring less extravagance and ostentation at funerals. In its article The Sun compared the prices charged by undertakers of that day with those charged 25 years prior to that time or half a century ago, together with comparative costs for hacks, flowers, etc. In each case a big increase in cost being noted. Among other things, The Sun said: "One item of expense now entering into the cost of burials is the embalming. Nowadays most bodies are so prepared, thus dispensing largely with the 'clumsy, ice-boxes so common in former years'."

The embalming process was then coming into general use, and as usual with reforms of a radical nature, at first met with much opposition on the part of those who didn't understand it. Old timers will recall the unsightly ice-boxes referred to, and popularly called "freezers," in which bodies were placed on ice to preserve them. Those have all passed away and the younger generation has never seen one, and it's just as well. If embalming is a barbarous process, freezing was 100 times more so. The added expense of embalming is one to which nobody now will object, but just ask any old time undertaker and he will tell you of the trouble he once had trying to convince the friends of dead persons that embalming was a better process than that offered by the "freezer."

Reference to the "freezer" recalls the old story of the variety stage about the party who were travelling on a railroad train one hot day and were "crazy" with the thirst. The best the railroad offered them was some lukewarm water and when one of the party remarked that he'd give a dollar for a piece of ice, a little Hebrew, who overheard the remark, suddenly left his seat and went into another car, returning in a short time with a good sized piece of ice, for which he was paid a dollar.

A short time afterward he was offered another dollar if he could get more and he went forth and returned with a second piece. Later, when made a third offer, he again disappeared, but returning empty-handed said to the startled company: "I can't get any more; the undertaker says he can't spare it, as he's going a long distance." Perhaps some will recall the peck of trouble that a local provision dealer once got into, as the result of idle gossip. An undertaker moved next door to him, and some was started the story that the undertaker used to preserve bodies in his neighbor's big ice-chest. They were actually some people easy enough to believe the yarn and the dealer was in "Dutch" with some of his customers, for a time, as a result.

In regard to the cost of hacks at funerals, the old Sun said: "The cost of hacks was only $1.50 in 1891. It is now $3 in the forenoon and $2.50 in the afternoon, and yet the local hackmen claim that they charge less than is charged in other cities." Today, the hackmen charge $4 flat, regardless of the time of the funeral, though the cemeteries are no farther away. The hackmen today will tell you that they have to pay their drivers more, and that's a fact; and it is also a fact that since the industrial boom struck Lowell all the hackmen have difficulty in getting drivers when there is a large funeral. In days gone by men and boys hung around stables and picked up odd change driving and doing chores, but they have all gone in for steady employment during recent years, and drivers are scarce throughout the city.

The old Sun concluded, its article with the following observations: "Reform in funerals is earnestly needed. It will not come in its entirety until those whose pecuniary ability to afford the most expensive funerals no one doubts, direct that their burials shall be as unostentatious as possible. Probably it will not do to expect a return of the old fashioned coffin, but if the real rich would insist upon being buried in the simplest and less expensive styles of caskets, the example might be powerful on the less well-to-do. It is the poor and the very poor who suffer most from the extravagant ideas pertaining to burials and it rests with the rich to set an example of Christian simplicity. A profusion of flowers, especially when they are wrought into the foolish shapes now affected, is vulgar, and any expense that is not in keeping with the means of those responsible for the burial is positively wicked. Extravagance in the employment of carriages, of flowers, of funeral trappings generally is to be condemned without cessation. We need better customs and there is no better work for the true reformer than to assist in promoting them in this matter of burials. Let every respect be shown to those who have gone before; but let it not be displayed by costly extravagance that we cannot afford." Some people will say that the above holds good today, while others are of the opinion that the reform asked for in the above has taken place to a certain extent and there is a more general simplicity to the funerals of today than there was quarter of a century ago. The editor's belief that the rich should set the example to the poor might have caused the remark from some, that neither in life nor in death do the poor get close enough to the rich to observe how they do things within their home circles.

Ho, for the Beach!

While riding from Lynn to Nahant in a public conveyance, a short time ago, the chauffeur upon learning that I came from Lowell remarked: "Do you know that the Lowell people are beginning to come back to Lynn beach? It's a fact. For several years but few of them showed up here during the summer and we thought that they had left us forever, but a couple of years ago we began to notice them coming again, and this year there has been quite a number of them here."

Then he said: "Do you remember the old days when the Irish societies of Lowell came down here every year?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer, he replied:

"Those were the lively days around Lynn and Lynn beach. We made some money in those days. The Lowell people were good spenders. They always came down for a good time and they had it, and paid for it. They were no pikers; those Lowell people!"

The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society of quarter of a century ago occurred at this time of year, and the old Sun reported it as follows: "The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society was held at Lynn Wednesday, and it was the most successful ever conducted by that organization. Early in the morning, as usual, the band paraded the streets to arouse from their slumbers all who intended making the trip, and soon the crowds were seen winding their way to the Boston & Maine depot. The company provided 25 cars, all of which could find at the time and although these were crowded, there were enough left behind to make another decent picnic. In about half an hour after 15 additional cars were despatched, while many took regular trains and went by way of Boston. The procession from the depot at Lynn to the beach was a leading attraction that was witnessed by thousands. For weeks previous, some of the Lynn people had been making preparations for the carnival and yet the supply of edibles at some of the hotels was exhausted early in the afternoon. The day was spent in roaming about the beach, bathing and dancing, everybody seeming to enjoy the occasion as much as possible. It is estimated that at least 3500 persons were present. The party returned to Lowell about 9 o'clock, the return in the cars apparently being not the least enjoyable part of the trip. John Doherty filled the part of chairman of the day with his customary solicitude for the comfort and good treatment of all. Post 42 band furnished music throughout the day. Charles H. O'Donnell was the treasurer and was loaded down with cash on his return home. In the afternoon Lynn bathing suits were at a premium, the price set upon them being from 50 cents upward and then not half that wanted them could get them."

For many years the late John Doherty ran the annual picnic of the Benevolents at Lynn beach, and with such pronounced success that none ever disputed his right to be the boss. As soon as the leaves appeared on the trees in the spring window-cards would appear on the land announcing the annual picnic to take place some few months later, for John believed in preparedness even in those ancient days, and gave the picnicers plenty of time in which to prepare for the event. Then, without doubt, he had heard the old song, "You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear." Mr. Doherty took no chances on mother's forgetfulness, but had a hand through the streets at sunrise on the morning of the picnic going up one side street and down another playing their heads off in an effort to wake up everybody. In fact before the band had left for the beach at all, it had done a hard day's work. The picnicers got to be such monstrous events for the city of Lynn that all the factories and workshops made it a practice to shut down half a day on what was called in that city: "Lowell Irish Day." While the other Irish societies also held their annual picnics the one event that nobody missed was the "Ho, for the beach," for as such it became known locally as that line headed all announcements of the event, and hence long ago an unkind wag dubbed the event "The Annual Wash," a name which stuck to it until it went into history, and which quarter of a century ago drew down the wrath of the editor of the old Sun, in the following remarks: "It may be that the name is somewhat intensely humorous in alluding to the excursion of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society to the 'Annual Wash.' In fact there must be or the cheap newspaper wits who feed the local columns of carelessly edited sheets would not so frequently employ it. But to self-respecting people who are Irish or of Irish extraction, and yet at the same time not unduly sensitive it carries a sting that its pleasantness doesn't hide."

When bicycles were new Says the Sun of quarter of a century ago: "An old man of Irish extraction, employed in sweeping the streets, was considerably shocked the other day upon seeing a woman by past him on a bicycle. Dropping his broom and retreating back a few steps as he saw the lady disappear, he said that it was the first time that he had ever seen a man wear petticoats. He would not believe that a woman would ever think of 'walking on wheels.'"

The bicycle craze was only beginning quarter of a century ago, and not many women had taken to it at that time, hence the old gentleman's astonishment. A few years later, however, everybody was riding a bicycle and so numerous and popular were the bikes, that the city of Lowell in repaving Bridge street built a bicycle path along the curbline in that street from Merrimack square to 15th street. And now the bicycles are rarely seen.

Chalfoux in Birmingham The Sun of quarter of a century ago reprinted from the Birmingham, Ala. News, the following:

"Bully for you. That's what Birmingham feels like saying to J. L. Chalfoux, the enterprising First avenue clothiers and to S. Berthea & Co., the live real estate agents. The latter succeeded yesterday in closing a deal with J. L. Chalfoux & Co. for the sale of the 100x1000 feet lot on the southwest corner of First avenue and Nineteenth street for $30,000 cash. It is the intention of the purchaser to commence the construction of a five-story brick building on this lot at an early date and push it to completion. J. L. Chalfoux & Co., have not yet had an anniversary in Birmingham and therefore their purchase is another and convincing proof of the recognition by all live business men of the solidity of Birmingham."

That was probably more money than they had seen in one time in Birmingham since the war. Mr. Chalfoux went down there 25 years ago and woke up the town. He showed the natives some eastern methods of doing business and in a short time had them all "feeding out of his hand" as it were. Some of these days his son Harry may go down and show them a chip of the old block.

THE OLD TIMER.

REBECCA WARREN DEAD WAS PUPIL OF URSULINE CONVENT—FATHER WAS PRESIDENT OF OLD LOWELL BANK

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Rebecca Bennett Warren, the last surviving pupil of the famous Ursuline convent in Charlestown, which was burned by a fanatical mob in 1834, died early yesterday at the Hotel Bristol, where she had made her home for years. She was in her 95th year.

Mrs. Warren was one of the best known of Boston's oldest residents. She was the daughter of Joshua Bennett of Billerica and Boston. He was a large real estate owner in Boston and Lowell, and president of the Old Lowell National bank.

Mrs. Warren had no brothers. Her only sister was Mrs. Ellen B. Holden, mother of the late Hon. Joshua B. Holden of Boston. Mrs. Fannie A. Tinkham, mother of Congressman George Holden Tinkham, was a niece.

She and her sister, Mrs. Holden, and many other non-Catholic Boston girls attended the Ursuline convent in 1821 and 1832. During her life Mrs. Warren gave freely to public and private charities. A few years ago, after she had made a gift of $5000 to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Cardinal O'Connell called on her to express his thanks.

She had an interesting life, having spent many years abroad, meeting and being entertained by royalty. She was a Unitarian and a member of the Second church, Boston. She was possessed of considerable wealth, owning much real estate in the North and West ends.

Last Friday Mark McCann of the City Hall garage received a telephone call to go to the Mammoth road and upon arriving there found a truck and it was towed to the garage in Moody street where it was stored. When one called for it Mr. McCann became suspicious and notified the police.

Lieut. Martin Maher was assigned to the case and found that the registration number had been granted to Mr. Higbee of Hyde Park. The latter was notified and when he came to this city he identified the automobile as

HEAVY DAMAGE TO CROP

Reduction of 1,350,000 Bales in Prospective Production — Sensational Advance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Heavy damage to the growing cotton crop between June 25 and July 25 has caused a reduction of 1,350,000 bales in the prospective production. The August cotton report of the department of agriculture, announced today, indicates a production of 12,916,000 equivalent to 500 pound bales, compared with 14,266,000 bales forecast from the condition of the crop June 25.

The condition during the month dropped 8.8 per cent to 72.3 of a normal. SENSATIONAL ADVANCE NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A sensational rapid advance of about $1.75 per bale followed the publication of the government's crop report on the cotton market here today. Just before the official condition of 72.3 per cent against $1.1 last month and the 10-year average of 78.5 was published, a canvass of local exchange members indicated an average of expectation of 76.5 per cent and the government report was also far below the most bullish of recent private figures.

HEAVY DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Condition of the growing cotton crop on July 25 indicates a total production of 12,916,000, equivalent 500-pound bales the department of agriculture today announced in its August cotton report. That compares with 14,266,000 bales forecast last month by the bureau of crop estimates basing its calculations on the condition of the crop on June 25 and with 11,191,500 bales, last year's final production, 16,124,930 in 1914, 14,158,486 in 1915, and 12,703,421 in 1912. The final output, however, will be larger or smaller than above forecast according as conditions hereafter are better or worse than average conditions.

Condition of the crop on July 25 as compiled from reports of agents and correspondents in the cotton belt was placed at 72.3 per cent of a normal, compared with 81.1 on June 25, 75.1 on July 25 last year, 75.1 in 1914 and 75.3, the 10-year average on July 25. During the month stormy weather caused some damage to the crop. In the first week weather was favorable in most places and the crop made satisfactory growth but owing to earlier unfavorable conditions some fields were irregular and in places the plants were small and backward. Soil weevil were reported damaging the crop in Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Louisiana.

High winds and heavy rains of a tropical storm did serious damage in portions of the central and east Gulf states during the second week. Much of the crop in the lowlands was flooded and uplands were badly washed and the crop otherwise injured. In extreme western Florida the crop was damaged from 25 to 50 per cent by the storm. Continued rains favored boll weevil increase and prevented much needed cultivation. In the western portion of the belt and northern part east of the Mississippi, weather was generally favorable and the crop made good progress. During the latter part of the month some damage was sustained from floods in the northeastern section. The weather west of the Mississippi was favorable but in the east it was less so, especially in the lowlands. Increased damage by boll weevil was reported.

Statistics compiled by the bureau of crop estimates show the value of the 1916 cotton crop was 10 per cent more than that of 1914 while the production was 39 per cent less. Total value of the 1915 crop was $794,000,000 compared with $720,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop. The 1915 crop was valued at $1,027,000,000. Lint was valued at $628,000,000 for the 1915 crop, paying producers about 11.22 cents a pound as calculated on averages based upon monthly prices and monthly sales. For the 1914 crop the lint value was $591,000,000, paying producers about 7.33 cents a pound. The value of seed of the 1915 crop was $168,000,000, paying producers $33.60 a ton compared with $129,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop's seed which paid producers $17.50 a ton. The increase in the price of the seed over 1914 was greater than the increase in the price of lint.

NEW REP. DISTRICTS

the constitution manifestly requires that this work be done on the first Tuesday or soon thereafter. It is apparent that the Middlesex commissioners had already done the work because when they assembled this morning Chairman Levi S. Gould handed out to newspapers printed copies of the new plan.

The first district includes wards 1, 2 and 3 of Cambridge which at present elect two democratic representatives. Under the new plan only one representative is allowed, so the democratic party is Natick with one representative, republican.

The eighth district includes the towns of Ashland, Holliston, Hopkinton and Sherburne and is allowed one representative who will undoubtedly be a republican.

The ninth takes in Marlboro with one democratic representative and the 10th includes Roxbury, Hudson, Maynard and Stow. It is a republican district and is allowed one representative.

The 11th is changed by the addition of the 12th into the 11th. Bedford is taken from the 11th so that the new 11th will consist of Acton, Bedford, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Hittiston, Tyngsboro and Westford. It will have one representative who will be a republican. The 12th will be unchanged except that Ayer takes the place of Tyngsboro. It will include Ashby, Ayer, Dunstable, Groton, Pepperell, Shirley and Townsend. This district will be represented by one representative.

The 13th district will be unchanged except that Bedford is dropped out and put in the 11th. The new district will include Concord, Lexington, Sudbury, Wayland and Weston, all of which will be represented by one representative.

The Lowell Districts
The 14th, as already explained, will consist of wards one and nine of Lowell and will be allowed two representatives. The 14th is made up of wards three, six, seven and eight of Lowell and will have three representatives. It is a republican district. The 15th district will include wards four and five of Lowell, both of which are strongly democratic.

The 16th is practically a new district and includes Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Tewksbury and Wilmington with one representative.

The 17th is changed by the addition of Stoneham which at present is in a district by itself. Under the new plan it goes in with Reading and Woburn and the district will be entitled to two representatives.

Waverlet continues a district by itself with a single representative, the number being 18 instead of 21 as before. The city of Everett, likewise will continue as before, with two representatives in a district numbered 20 instead of 24. The same is true of Malden, which is taken away from Waterbury to make up the new 25th and Waterbury is left a district by itself to be known as number 25. All districts from 16 to 24 inclusive are safely republican.

In the 25th will be a district by itself numbered 27. Belmont is taken away from Waterbury in the old 30th and is joined with Lexington to make up the new 25th and Waterbury is left a district by itself to be known as number 25. All districts from 16 to 24 inclusive are safely republican.

REJECTS ENGLAND'S OFFER

Germany Refuses to Permit Passage of Supplies Into Poland Under Conditions—Note to U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Germany has informed the United States that on account of the "impracticable conditions" imposed by Great Britain upon the shipment of foodstuffs from America into Poland, further negotiations for co-operation in Polish relief work are devoid of purpose.

Owing to favorable harvest prospects, however, the imperial government says it apparently will be unnecessary after Oct. 1 next.

The German position is stated in a note handed to Ambassador Gorard on July 29 and made public today at the state department. It apparently is a final rejection of Great Britain's offer made in a recent communication, the essence of which was to permit the passage of American food supplies into Poland on condition that the occupying Teutonic armies would not seize or remove native products.

No mention is made of President Wilson's personal letter to Emperor William, similar to those sent to other European rulers, appealing for joint action in arranging to feed the starving Poles.

The text of the note follows: "From the very beginning the imperial government declared its readiness to offer its assistance in order that the distress apparent in those parts of Russia which are occupied by German troops and systematically wasted and deprived of all victuals for the use of the remaining inhabitants by the retreating Russian hosts be eased by the relief work of the United States of America, which is organized on such a great scale.

The imperial government has particularly offered all guarantees consistent with the requirements of war that the imported foodstuffs will only serve the needs of the population of the territory occupied.

Accordingly the American relief might have been realized several months ago with the same provisions as in northern France, had not the government of Great Britain prevented its accomplishment by clinging to its unfounded and impracticable conditions. In this way it has become practically impossible to convey a considerable amount of foodstuffs from America to Poland for the execution of the term set as the end of the relief work is October 1. Accordingly further negotiations are devoid of purpose.

"But on the other hand, thanks to the intense culture of the land effected by the imperial government, by using the means available and every effort possible, in the occupied territory and owing to the favorable harvest prospects, a relief action after October 1, 1916, can apparently be dispensed with. The fact that the population of Poland and Lithuania will to some extent suffer until a new crop is lodged and later on will some times have to put up with straightened circumstances can, therefore, not be laid to the blame of the imperial government but to that of Great Britain."

TRAFFIC OFFICER HURT

GIRL DRIVER MISTOOK TRAFFIC OFFICER'S SIGNAL—TWO BONES FRACTURED

Officer William Pierce of Salisbury was painfully injured when an automobile owned by Thomas O'Neill of Newburyport and driven by Mr. O'Neill's daughter ran into him, knocked him down and ran over his right leg, while he was performing his duties as traffic officer at the Centre Sunday afternoon.

There were two girls in the car and they were rounding the curve at the eastern end of the Centre, near the pavilion, having started for Newburyport, when Officer Pierce gave them a signal. Pierce claims he signaled for them to stop, but the girls say that he reckoned for them to proceed. Pierce turned his back on the machine that the girls were in and turned his attention to another car that was backing into a space for parking. He stepped backwards into the path of the O'Neill car and before they could bring the car to a stop they had run over his legs.

He was taken into the machine and carried to the police station and Dr. Mullin of Amesbury was called. After making an examination, Dr. Mullin ordered his removal to the Anna Jaques hospital in Newburyport and he was found to have some small bones in his right foot broken and his right leg wrenched.

DISCUSS NAVAL PROMOTIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Navy department bureau chiefs were today called before house conferees considering the naval appropriation bill for opinions on a senate amendment proposing promotion of captains and rear admirals by selection by a naval committee instead of by seniority. Conference between house and senate members will be resumed tomorrow. Promotion by selection is designed to get younger and more competent men for active fleet duty in the higher positions.

FOR LAWN TENNIS CLIP

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—William M. Johnston of San Francisco and Joseph J. Armstrong of Philadelphia were favored by the best weather of the tournament for their final match for the Longwood lawn tennis cup at the Longwood Cricket club today. Johnston, who is the national champion, has played strongly throughout a series in which many experts have succumbed and Armstrong has figured as the winner in some of these upsets.

TWO PAINTERS DROPPED ALDERMAN IN COURT

NOT FROM PAYROLL, BUT FROM THE ROOF—TWO MEN FELL 25 FEET

Edward Miller, living at 35 Alblon street, and William E. Giroux, residing at 313 Moody street, both painters, had a narrow escape from being seriously hurt this morning about ten o'clock when the ladder they were working on parted and both men were thrown to the ground 25 feet below. Fortunately they escaped with slight bruises and a shaking up. The men were painting a building belonging to John P. Quinn in Gorham street, near Moore street, and had a large extension ladder suspended by ropes from the ridgepole of the roof. The ladder was about 25 feet above the ground when suddenly without warning the ladder parted and both men were precipitated to the ground. Those who witnessed the accident expected to find both men badly injured but after an examination it was found they were suffering from bruises and a general shaking up.

COMMISSIONER WOOD CHARGED WITH VIOLATING ORDINANCE HE MADE HIMSELF

HAVERHILL, Aug. 1.—Alderman Roswell L. Wood, a municipal councillor and the commissioner of streets and highways, applied at the office of the clerk of the district court yesterday afternoon and insisted that a complaint, charging him with a violation of the traffic ordinances which he himself made, be called for a hearing in court today. His request was acceded to and witnesses were summoned last night. The alderman was charged by Traffic Officer Frank E. Kelly with having violated the traffic ordinance several days ago on Elm corner, when it is said the alderman turned from Main street to Water street. Alderman Wood has engaged Judge John J. Ryan to appear in court for him today. He also notified City Marshal Mack that he desired him to personally prosecute the case on behalf of the police department. Patrolman Kelly, the complaining officer, will resign from the police department this week.

TWO AMERICANS SAVED

WERE PASSENGERS ON DUTCH MAIL STEAMER SUNK BY MINE

THE HAGUE, via London, Aug. 1.—Frank W. Mahin, the American consul at Amsterdam, and his wife, Mrs. Abbie Mahin, were the only American passengers on board the Dutch mail steamer Koningin Wilhelmina, bound from Flushing for Sheerness, which was sunk by a mine yesterday morning off North Hinder Lightship. Both were saved. This information was given to the Associated Press by the Zealand Steamship company.

FUNERALS

MURPHY—The funeral of the late Edward A. Murphy took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home, 349 Broadway and was largely attended, including a delegation from the Flushing club, the following delegation from Lowell: F.O.E., Michael Kelley, William Scanlon, Andrew Teague and William Kennedy. From the local Bottlers No. 150, William Bagley and Harry L. Hemery. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 9:45 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. James Kerrian. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were John E. Murphy, John J. Maher, Joseph L. Cronin, Thomas Mahoney, James Kane and Patrick Royal. At the grave Rev. Fr. Kerrian read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

IMPORTANT DECISION POLITICAL CALENDAR

Special to The Sun
STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 1.—Injured employees who develop a mental condition which leads them to believe that they are unable to work, are entitled to recover compensation under the terms of the workmen's compensation act, even though the physical incapacity is as a matter of fact ended, under a decision handed down yesterday by the industrial accident board.

This decision, the first of its kind and one which undoubtedly opens the way for payments of much greater benefits to injured workmen, was reached in the case of Merceri Mario of Monson, formerly employed by A. D. Ellis & Company of that city.

Mario was employed as a picker tender; on Jan. 17 last he suffered an injury to his right knee and shoulder, and it was admitted by the insurance company that the injury was one for which compensation should be paid. Payments were made until March 20, when the company stopped them on the ground that the employee was able to return to work.

He immediately brought the matter to the attention of the accident board, and as a result an arbitration committee was appointed to determine the facts.

Before this committee evidence was introduced to show that the man made no attempt to work in the mill where he was injured, but gave up after ten minutes. Later he tried to work as a farm hand, but again had to quit. It was found that Mario could raise his right arm to the level of his shoulder, but no higher. One of the physicians testified that the man "is not working both because he lacks the desire to work and because of the pain in his arm; he lacks the desire to work because he is afraid it will hurt him. His mental attitude is such that he believes he has a great deal more pain than the injury would warrant his having; and this is as disabling as if the actual pain existed." His general appearance indicates that his condition is really on him, and his mental condition is getting worse.

Accepting this testimony as final, the board finds that the injured employee is entitled to receive payments until he recovers such light work as he can do. While it may be true that physically he was able to return to work on Mar. 6, 1916, the board says, "his mental attitude growing out of his injury was such that he himself did not feel that he was able to work, and his mind dwelling upon his troubles exaggerated him to a point where he was unable to work because of this neuroathetic condition. We find that this condition of neuroathetic exists, and flows from the accident."

The employee is advised, however, that he should accept any position which may be offered him in which the work will be light, and his failure to do so will justify the suspension by the company of further payments.

License Suspended

Following receipt of a copy of the record of the Lowell court, showing that Robert J. Ledwell of Somerville paid a fine of $25 last Wednesday after being convicted of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the highway commissioners announced yesterday that Ledwell's license to operate motor vehicles in this state has been revoked for a period of one year, as required by the new law, which went into effect July first.

BABY KILLED BY RUNAWAY

MOTHER AND TWO BOYS ARE INJURED AT LYNN—HORSE WAS CRAZED BY FLY BITE

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—A baby was killed, its mother and two boys injured, and a dozen pedestrians fled in panic yesterday, when a runaway produce team dashed through River street place, Lynn.

The baby was Zimond Sherys, 4-months-old son of Mrs. J. Sherys of 8 River street place. The two boys injured were William Duggan, 3 years of age, of 65 Camden street, and Geo. McMahon, 7 years of age, of 39 Spencer street. All of those injured will recover.

Young Duggan was wheeling the Sherys infant in its carriage across the place. The horse, standing quietly in the street, suddenly became crazed, presumably from the bite of a fly. Despite all efforts of George McMahon, who was on the seat of the wagon, the horse ran wildly down the narrow street. Mothers and children fled from doorsteps.

The Duggan boy started running, but became confused and ran in front of the maddened horse. Its hoofs struck the carriage and the infant was hurled through the air.

Mrs. Sherys, who had witnessed the accident from a window, ran from her home and attempted to snatch the baby as it fell. The wheels of the wagon bowled her over and she sustained cuts and bruises.

The onward rush of the horse crushed the carriage and threw the Duggan boy to one side of the road. The impact and the swerving of the team threw the McMahon boy from the seat to the sidewalk. Both boys were cut and bruised.

An ambulance was called and the baby hurried to a hospital. It was dead when the ambulance arrived there.

Five minutes after the start of its wild dash the horse was peacefully munching grass in a neighboring street. Neither the horse nor the team was damaged.

LADY LOOKABOUT

I have been wading through reams of reports of the National Convention of Teachers recently held in New York city, trying to discover the word that would express the spirit of the convention. The word I have decided on is "practical." The thirty thousand teachers in attendance at the convention came out strongly for the practical side of education and the teacher who clings to the old-time idea that the function of the public school is "to train the mind," is hopelessly out of the running. A clear-cut distinction is made between the social and human sides of a child, and his intellectual side. It is the belief of present-day educators that training, which gives power, should be added to teaching which gives merely information; to the training of the mind should be added training of the body and of the conscience. To emphasize these features of education, pressure should be brought to bear upon vocational training, manual training, agriculture, home economics, and the education of immigrants.

It has been said of woman that she cannot generalize, that she can specify only. I should not be true to the records of my sex if I did not at this point stop generalizing about the keynote of the convention, and bring home to my own city an application of what I have gathered from the voluminous reports. Here in Lowell strong emphasis is brought to bear upon vocational training, manual training, and home economics in both day and evening schools. Agriculture has been enthusiastically taken up in the lower grades, and already our small farmers have been in evidence with their little exhibits at various fairs and contests. The State Normal school, in conjunction with the local school department, has already planned an extensive course in the education of immigrants, under the direction of state university extension bureau. So, all in all, home conditions compare very favorably with the ideals and aims of the country's foremost educators, and wherever we may be, we need not blush for the schools of Lowell.

Up to Mr. Hughes

Women all over the country are on the qui vive to learn the attitude of Charles E. Hughes on the question of equal suffrage. It is a live issue and one which cannot be evaded by a seeker of political preference. In his speech of acceptance to be given this week, Mr. Hughes must state clearly and without the possibility of equivocation, his actual position in regard to the Susan B. Anthony amendment. Many feel that he will pledge himself to its support without reservation, while more are confident that he will advocate state option. Needless to say, his election or failure of election depends largely on his position in regard to suffrage for women. The enfranchisement of women is no longer considered a radical principle. It has survived the period of its inception during which its sponsors met the ridicule of the world with a zeal which savored of the radical. It has passed the stage of last-borribly converting this one and that one, or by proving a case here and a case there. In the war-stricken coun-

—Recognizing Something New

Has Granted a Patent, Both on the Form of Flake and Process of Manufacture of

New Post Toasties

This remarkable recognition—no other corn flake on the market has achieved it—marks this new food as something distinctly different from "corn flakes" of the past.

What Is This Difference?

Compare New Post Toasties with the average corn flake—observe the tiny bubbles which cover their surface. These bubbles are caused by a new method of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat.

By this process the true corn flavour is developed in all its sweetness. Eaten dry they are a delicious morsel. With cream or milk they are a revelation to the taste. Note the "substance" of New Post Toasties. Unlike old-style "corn flakes" they do not break or "chaff" in the package. They do not mush down under milk or cream. They are wonderfully delicious.

And they come to you direct from the giant ovens of our three great Toastie Factories, untouched by human hand and triply sealed in a moisture-proof container which preserves their fresh Golden Goodness for your table.

tries, suffragists have abandoned their propaganda work, declared a great political truce, and at once offered their organized strength to their stricken country. They have taken up the work of the men who have been called to arms in agricultural lines. In trades hitherto considered solely the province of men; in the commonest and hardest of labors; on the battlefield as nurses with a self-negation, a fortitude and a bravery equalling if not exceeding that of the soldiers themselves. They have kept their countries on a "going" basis in the absence of their men. The trials and struggles through which they have passed during these two years have placed both men and women on a higher plane of thinking where much of pettiness and unreason are left behind. They are meeting on common ground, as it were, which it should be: brothers and sisters, born of the same mother, brought up sharing the same family life, receiving the same teaching, from their education and environment sharing the same views of life, why should man-suffrage prevail to the exclusion of woman-suffrage? Through war, trouble, and stress, the struggling nations are awakening to a sense of right and justice in regard to the position of woman in the economy of national life which was denied to these nations in times of peace and security.

There's Nothing New

Uncle Sam's discovery that preserving may be done without sugar is a timely one, but not altogether new. A practical housekeeper with whom I have been discussing the matter, has canned blueberries and other small fruit without sugar for many years, and finds the flavors fully as good as when the same fruits are canned with sugar. With the larger fruits, however, plums, pears and peaches, she finds the sugarless method unsatisfactory, as the flavor is impaired and the appearance suffers. She likened the result to serving vegetables without salt. No addition of salt can equal the saltiness done while the vegetable is cooking. So in the case of canning without sugar, no subsequent addition of sugar is quite as satisfactory as using sugar at the time of canning. If Uncle Sam could devise a plan for keeping the price of sugar normal during canning time, he would gladden the hearts of a nation of resentful housekeepers.

She's Over Seven

Ever since advertising became the important element it is, the great aim of merchants has been to produce striking advertisements. Various schemes have been resorted to in order to make the appeal striking, and in the humble opinion of Lady Lookabout, a Merrimack street merchant scored a climax a few days ago. The appeal was indeed striking, in fact it struck her on the top of the head. She was coming down the aforementioned street with eyes straight ahead, as you know women do in passing through a neighborhood of show-windows, when with a soft little ruck, a small girl's dress left its overhead mooring outside a store and landed plump on her head. Lady Lookabout looked about as usual, and the dress slipped to the ground. As she stood looking at it she observed a tag which said, "7 years." Clearly, the garment was not intended for Lady Lookabout, for, painful as it is for her to acknowledge it, many moons have passed since she was seven. She is over seven, emphatically, so she daintily (for her) stepped over the prostrate garment and proceeded on her way, doggedly "looking about" to keep herself from muttering—

"Of all the sad words of tongue or pen"—and so on—I cannot bear to write it.
Now if the progressive merchant had assailed the aforesaid lady with a charming bathing suit, decently long yet smartly short, possibly he would have made a sale, but while his method is most striking, his knowledge of the psychology of selling to women is bad—very bad.

The Boys Like 'Em

All the summer fashion journals, and all the smart ladies' furnishing stores, advertisements designate the present fashions by one word—"sports." There are sports hats, sports waists, skirts, coats, sweaters, boots, gloves, and vests; everything is sports, and running the limit as they do in color, they are positively refreshing to look upon, whatever the occasion. coats and sweaters of heavy silk, some in broad, brilliant stripes such as vivid green and white, red and white, black and white, gold and blue, and numerous other combinations. These brilliant coats and sweaters are worn over white skirts that are very short and therefore show considerable of the footgear. Sports hats to correspond with the coats add to these charming summer outfits.

THE JERSEY CONFLAGRATION

A fire that started on the Lehigh pier on the Jersey side across from the city of New York last Sunday exploded tremendous quantities of war munitions of the allies, inflicted a property loss estimated at $45,000,000, brought death and injury to many and afforded an awful lesson to the entire country. New York had never before seen anything so terribly spectacular. Blazing barges filled with shells drifted in the harbor, immense rockets exploded overhead, plate glass to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars fell from skyscrapers and stately stores and millions of startled citizens fled from the homes, fearing that an earthquake or some other destructive force would wipe out the entire city.

It may be days before the true facts of the fire will become known and they may never be known, but already the inevitable investigation is under way. As in all accidents to munitions for the allies, plots are suspected that it proved will place an enormous responsibility on the shoulders of those guilty. Yet, plots or no plots, the blame may be partly laid to the door of those who permitted such enormous quantities of destructive commodities to be in barges and freight cars so near to two teeming cities. Enough had transpired during the past two years to show the country the dangers attendant on the storing and transportation of high explosives and so far as precautions can go, New York and Jersey City should have been safeguarded.

In a glaring headline the New York World of Monday declared "Munitions Blow-up Due to Disregard of Law," and it remains for federal, state and city authorities to determine who broke the law. It is said that an independent transportation company tied a barge of high explosives to a railroad pier, but opinions differ as to whether the fire started on this barge or was communicated to it from a freight car nearby. A railroad agent, the superintendent of a warehouse and the president of a lighterage company will have to answer in the courts, but before the investigation is through, the courts may be face to face with a more complicated situation than is now anticipated.

Entirely apart from the awful destruction brought by the fire and the bursting shrapnel shells, the descriptive writers made the most of the sentimental value of the Statue of Liberty which, though bombarded by the fire fiends, held its light aloft over the terrible scene. If the fire was the result of a plot—and there have been many such—the triumphant statue may serve as a symbol; if it was due to carelessness and indifference, we may well ask if officials do not often abuse the liberty afforded by a democratic government. Whatever the investigation may prove, it will be long before New York forgets this experience which gave it a slight impression of what has happened in many great cities of Europe during two years of war. Here indeed was a spectacle that to New York was far more vivid than the bombardment scene from the Fall of a Nation.

PROTEST AGAINST BLACKLIST

The protest of the American government against England's blacklisting of American firms is more emphatic than was expected, but the ground is given for every firm deduction. England is told that her policy is unfair and illegal; that it would impose hardships on neutrals and have effects which are not apparent on a superficial reading; that it would hurt legitimate American business which has no connection with the war and that it might react in a far different way from what is expected. One of the strongest declarations is that the United States has a perfect right to trade with the central powers, under the rules of international law, "which the government of the United States deems the government of Great Britain to have too lightly and too frequently disregarded."

The note is a fair and dispassionate statement of facts and opinions but in sporting parlance it has "the punch." It is shall not suffice to show to England how foolish her blacklist boycott has been, England does not care to be shown and has not weighed the possible consequences of a policy that may so easily prove a boomerang. In her zeal to get back at Germany for the successful voyage of the Deutschland, England may have thought she could ride roughshod over American rights, but with easier reflection she may think otherwise. In this note President Wilson cannot be accused of using woe words, and there are intimations that it will have the desired effect, since to persist in the blacklist would eventually make England the victim of a sweeping American embargo. Incidentally, who can find in the note any proof of the political assertion that President Wilson is not a friend to business?

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

The New Bedford Mercury has decided to adopt the policy which The Sun has followed for years in refusing to accept liquor advertising. There are certain evils inseparable from the liquor business, and The Mercury like The Sun is doubtless unwilling to be responsible for them to the extent of offering the business the publicity of its columns.

In taking this step The Mercury like The Sun undergoes a very considerable financial loss as liquor advertising in any city like Lowell or New Bedford is worth thousands of dollars annually. What may have been The Mercury's experience in dealing with the liquor business we are not aware, although from a recent editorial in that paper, it would seem that some liquor advertisers thought they had a right to dictate the policy of the paper on certain matters pertaining to their interests.

Our New Bedford contemporary is to be congratulated upon taking a stand that will make it absolutely independent of the liquor interests. It is the attitude of perhaps most of the leading papers of this country and also of the more influential magazines. We firmly believe the day is not far distant when every decent and self-respecting publication will refuse the use of its columns for advertisements which in the most insidious manner invite both young and old to "put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains."

OUR YELLOW DAY

The old timers whose memories give them such conscious superiority over those of today had a chance to wag their heads and look wise last Sunday when the smoke from Canadian fires in our upper atmosphere gave us a repetition of "yellow day." It may not have been as the other day 20, or 30 or 50 years ago but it was yellow enough to get everybody talking about it and wondering what it portended. In the early morning there was a sort of orange glow in the air, like the light that comes through a stained glass window, and when the people were coming out of church it had changed into a garish light that made everybody look sickly and that hurt the eyes. It was like the light that is sometimes on land and sea when the sun is setting but it was not as soft and agreeable. Somehow, it seems to go with the times. So awful and in a sense unnatural have been the happenings of recent days that people almost expect to see the light of day streaming through a scarlet mist or obscured by a pall of darkness. These are morbid and decadent days and if one evening should send us a bloody dew or some morning should bring poison fumes from the trenches of France it would seem more fitting than the pure white light of day in this blessed land of peace and prosperity.

FOREST FIRES

No other country has forest fires in the same intensity as the countries of the American continent. Sometimes they sweep through the wooded areas of the United States and again they wreak havoc in the Canadian woods. At present a wide area of Ontario is being devastated, and it is feared that hundreds of lives have already been lost. From the meagre accounts obtainable it seems that the loss of life in most cases is due to the reluctance of householders to make their exit in time. They wait hopefully until all hope is cut off by walls of living fire. This is the season that the American government warns the people against carelessness in this same connection. The camp fire lighted for sport or the little cigarette stub carelessly thrown into the brush may start a forest fire that may occasion the loss of life and millions of dollars' worth of property. We are learning conservation of the forests as well as of everything else and nothing can conduce to this more than the hearty and intelligent co-operation of the American public.

SWIM AFTER DARK

Persons who walk through Dutton street these evenings after dark may hear muffled laughter from the canal bank, punctuated by an occasional splash. Investigation will reveal bands of boys and young men having a surreptitious swim in the canal waters. When the mercury is as high as it has been for the past few days it is hard to blame them, but it is not a pretty state of affairs that Lowell cannot do better for its boys than to permit them to steal a swim in the canal after dark. In the absence of a more pretentious bathing pool we might at least have set aside canal areas and invited our boys to swim under adequate supervision, but though this sounds well in theory it is not likely to be put into practice until the powers that be take a different view of Lowell's official responsibility in this direction. It is not to be supposed that the swimming in the canal is restricted to the evening but at any time it is a poor substitute for the supervised bathing which most progressive cities enjoy. The drowning of two more boys strengthens an argument for bathing facilities which is only too obvious.

PUBLIC SUFFERS MOST

The street car strikers in New York went on strike to punish the companies, but incidentally they are punishing the public—and the public suffers most. New York is notoriously a city of commuters and its myriads of workers live for the most part in the suburbs. No matter how just the claims of the car employees may be, the strike has brought about a situation that is well nigh intolerable. It has been held for a long time that a strike of large dimensions affecting the rights of the public would serve to show how the public will regard such a condition in future. If the present condition in New York should continue for any considerable time, the public may take steps to show that their rights should be considered by both sides in any controversy before final action is taken. This may prove the long-expected test.

Value of Sunlight

Sunlight is a great germicide. Our pioneer grandmothers did not know much about germs, but they acted on modern principles when they hung their milk pails and washers in the sun "to sweeten," as they said. Sunlight, as well as fresh air, should be used as a part of the general processes of housecleaning. The thrifty habit of shutting out the sun in order to keep carpets and draperies from fading indicates a large degree of ignorance of modern methods of sanitation. The airing and sunning of bedding every week, all the year around, is a most important part of good housekeeping, but one which is much neglected, especially by women who live in flats, where science is very often sacrificed to esthetics. Therefore it becomes imperative that at housecleaning time the under side of rugs, carpets, mattresses and cushions should be exposed to the sun and air for as long a period as possible. Sunlight is free to all. Plants will not thrive without it. Animals will not thrive without it. Only man shuns it and by doing he incurs unnecessary danger from tuberculosis and many other diseases. —Salt Lake City Telegram.

The Sausage Story

One evening the proprietor of a small restaurant on returning from another part of the building was somewhat surprised as well as dismayed to see a patron hurriedly arise from the table without waiting for his order, and leave the room.

"James," said the proprietor, addressing one of the waiters, "what made that man leave without being served?"
"He ordered sausages, sir," answered the waiter, "and I went out into the kitchen to get them."
"Yes, yes," impatiently interrupted the proprietor, "but what did that have to do with it?"
"Everything, sir," answered the waiter in meek voice. "In going into the kitchen I accidentally stepped on the tail of the dog, and the dog yelled, sir."

"Why, the United States is the richest country in the world," Mr. Tambo.
"No, it isn't. Ireland is the richest country in the world."
"And why is Ireland the richest country in the world, Mr. Tambo?"
"While the undertakers are gathering up the shattered remains of the late Mr. Tambo, Mr. Payne U. Rears will render the pathetic ballad, 'Here lies what's left of poor Jim Flynn. He's gone. He couldn't stop. He sang Raus mit der Kaiser in a German barber shop!'"

Boy Is About Night
Before he became bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Russell Wakefield, who is on a visit to the western front as the guest of Gen. Joffre, was a member of the London school board. One day he paid a surprise visit to a public school. Human anatomy was the subject under discussion at the moment. Dr. Wakefield took a hand in it.
"Now tell me," he asked one small boy, "what is a skeleton?"
The small boy looked earnest and very thoughtful for a second or two.
"Please sir," he replied, "a skeleton is a man with his inside out and his outside off."

The Glen of the Mist
My beautiful corral where cattle wander—
My misty corral! my darling dell!
Mighty verdant, and covered o'er
With wild flowers tender of the sweetest smell.
Dark is the green of thy grassy clothing—
Soft swelling thy hillocks most green and deep.
The cannaugh blowing, the darnel growing—
While the deer troop past to the misty steep.

Fine for wear is thy beautiful mantle,
Strongly woven and ever new,
With rough grass o'er it and, brightly gleaming,
The grass all spangled with diamond dew.
It's round, my corral, my lovely corral,
Where rushes thicken and long reeds blow.
Fine were the harvest to any reaper
Who through the marsh and the bog could go.

In every nook of the mountain pathway
The fragile-flower, may be thickly found—
And out on the sunny slopes around it
Hang berries, juicy and red and round.
The pennycuill and dandelion,
The downy cannaugh together lie—
Thickly they grow from the base of the mountain.
To the topmost crag of his crest so high.

And not a crag hut is clad most richly
For rich and silvern the soft moss clings,
Fine is the moss, most clean and stainless,
Hiding the look of unlovely things:
Down in the hollows beneath the summits
Where the verdure is growing rich and deep,
The little daisies are looking upwards,

AN "EAT-EM-ALIVE" KID

NASHUA BOY HAS EASY JOB BITING SNAKES, BUT WAS SHORT ON PAY

NASHUA, Aug. 1.—Jean Consigny, 16, of this city was brought back from Biddeford, Me. by Inspector Dean, as a runaway boy. He had been the girl "snake eater" of the midway shows which played on the local circus grounds week before last. He ran away with the show when it went to Biddeford a week ago. In the show he was supposed to be a "girl." He was dressed in red tights and put in the den of snakes. He was supposed to eat savage and apparently sink his teeth in the bodies of the snakes with which he was surrounded. For it he was promised $10 a week. But when the first Saturday came he did not get his $10 and being a good collector he applied to the Biddeford police to aid him in collecting his stipend for "biting snakes." It was then found by questioning by the Biddeford police that Consigny was on probation from the Nashua police court, and he was returned to Nashua.

627 DIE FROM HEAT

NORTH WIND BROKE MURDEROUS HEAT WAVE IN CHICAGO AFTER 10 DAYS

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The murderous heat wave which settled upon Chicago and vicinity 10 days ago was broken at 5 o'clock this morning, when a lake breeze, at first a faint zephyr, increasing to a stiff, cool wind, crept through the smothering torridity and brought relief to the sweltering thousands. Doubtless it saved hundreds of lives, for the endurance of many persons who had withstood the long siege was exhausted, and another day's fight would have overwhelmed them.

The north wind, sweeping off the lake and bringing relief to wretched Chicago, means trouble for the south and east, as the tropical heat is being driven in those directions. Forecasters say the wind will continue three days at least. In time it will reach the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys, but driven ahead of it will be the great volume of heat which has taken such heavy toll here.

HOW WAVE AFFECTED CHICAGO
Duration of unbroken heat, 10 days. Average temperature for month, 33 degrees—20 above normal.

Killed by heat directly, 325 persons; died of heat exhaustion and drownings, 302; total, 627.
Babies killed by heat, 176.
Seriously prostrated during heat siege, 2600.
Bitten by rabid dogs during heat siege, 37.
Horses dropped dead in streets, in five days, 620.

RISKS LIFE, SAVES GIRL

MRS. ADA V. TUOHNEY RESCUED TWO YOUNG WOMEN FROM DROWNING IN THE LAKE

WORCESTER, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Ada V. Tuohney, wife of Geo. V. Tuohney, the Boston wrestling promoter, saved two young women from drowning in Lake Quinsigamond here yesterday afternoon, after a thrilling battle that nearly cost her own life. But for the timely assistance of Mrs. Tuohney, the two girls would have perished.

The rescued young women were Margaret Walsh, 17, of St. John, N. H., daughter of the marine superintendent of the Canadian Steamship company, and Alice Childs, 19, of this city.

About 3 o'clock this afternoon the two girls were bathing on the short stretch of beach off Mr. Tuohney's cottage at the lake when the girl from a passing motor boat caught both to lose their footing. As neither could swim they were speedily out of their depth.

As they floundered in the water their cries for help were heard by Mrs. Tuohney. Without stopping to dress herself of any clothing she rushed out of the house and into the water and a few moments later was grappling with the struggling girls. The Childs girl at that time had hold of

The Walsh girl, so grabbing her Mr. Tuohney started for shore and safety.

She had proceeded but a short distance, however, when the Walsh girl threw her arms about Mrs. Tuohney, pulling her under and forcing her to let go the other girl. The latter caught hold of Mrs. Tuohney's shoulder and all went under the surface. By this time the Walsh girl had swallowed so much water as to become unconscious and released her hold about Mrs. Tuohney's neck. Exhausted by the struggle and buffeted by the two girls Mrs. Tuohney was unable to get in nearer shore and was in a serious predicament. She was then that her cries brought Mr. Mullen to the rescue. He rushed in the water, and getting the Walsh girl by the first started for shore. A human chain was formed by Mrs. Tuohney holding the other wrist with one hand and the Childs girl with the other, and all succeeded in getting ashore.

At the Tuohney cottage where all received medical aid, the Walsh girl regained her senses, but it will be several days before the trio fully recover from the effects.

WAR PRISONERS COST OF THE WAR

Germany's List Shows 50 Billions Spent in Europe During Two Years of Conflict

BERLIN, July 31.—The German government has issued officially the figures relating to the cost of the war, in a statement which reads:

"The central powers occupied 431,000 square kilometers, against 180,000 square kilometers a year ago. The enemy occupied in Europe 22,000 square kilometers, against 11,000 a year ago."

"The central powers and Bulgaria and Turkey captured 2,658,000 enemy soldiers, against 1,655,000 taken by the enemy. Of the total taken prisoner by the Germans, 594,700 officers and 243,000 men were French, 201,000 officers and 1,202,000 men were Russians and 947 officers and 30,000 men were British."

"The war booty brought to Germany, in addition to that utilized immediately at the front, included 11,054 cannon, 4,700,000 shells, 3450 machine guns and 1,556,000 rifles."

"According to the list of statistics of German wounded soldiers, 90.2 per cent. returned to the front, 1.4 per cent. died and the rest were unfit for service or were released."

"The military measures of the central powers in consequence of vaccination were never disturbed by epidemics."

SENATOR ALBERT B. FALL

For the purpose of acquiring information about the situation on the American-Mexican border Charles E. Hughes, republican candidate for the presidency, held a consultation in New York with United States Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico. The two men conferred for half an hour or more. Neither Senator Fall nor Mr. Hughes would discuss their interview, but it was said that some of their talk may be reflected in Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance. It was learned that the interview was of Senator Fall's seeking.

COMPLETE TIE UP OF NEW YORK CAR LINES THREATENED BY STRIKE OF TROLLEYMEN

STRIKERS AND SYMPATHIZERS BLOCK CARS

All New York city may have to walk in a few days if the plans of the organizers of street car workers are successful. The trolley strike for more pay, recognition of the union, etc., which started July 22 in Westchester county and extended to the Bronx, tying up completely the trolley system which serves a population of 700,000 in that borough, was expected to receive the support of the workers on the subway, elevated and surface transit lines in the entire city. That was the belief of Edwin A. Maher, Jr., vice president and general manager of the Union Railway company of the borough of the Bronx. When William B. Fitzgerald, the strong jawed, quiet voiced organizer of the railway men from Troy, N. Y., was asked about the report after he had spent an hour with William D. Mahon, international president of the street railway men, he smiled significantly and said: "You'll see what you'll see when it happens. We are making no predictions."

TRADING VERY LIGHT

POINTED PLAINLY TO LACK OF PUBLIC INTEREST IN MANY IMPROVEMENT LATER

NEW YORK, July 31.—The week opened with a resumption of the excessive apathy which featured last week's later dealings. Trading at the outset was the lightest and most superficial of any day so far this summer and pointed plainly to the lack of public interest. Changes in important trials were wholly nominal but specialties of various descriptions, such as American Car, American Steel Foundries, Atlantic Gulf & West Indies, Industrial Alcohol and Sears Roebuck were higher by 1 to 1 1/2 with nine points for American Brake Shoe pf. Local labor disturbances were reflected in the heaviness of Third Avenue, Canadian Pacific and allied rails were lower.

Prices hardened appreciably later under the stimulating influence of U. S. Steel which rose a substantial fraction to 87. Equipment stocks and industrial of the same class made further upward progress but automobile shares were irregular with fresh selling of Willys-Overland, which declined 2 points. All shipping shares were moderately better, but manitowos were relatively backward. Bonds were irregular with less activity in internationals. Barely thirty thousand shares were traded in during the mid-session but the list manifested further improvement especially in the special group, Lehigh Valley and Willys-Overland also rallied.

Heaviness in Kennecott Copper, which fell to its lowest price and a further advance in American Brake Shoe pf. were the features of the stagnant final hour. The closing was firm.

STRUCK A MINE JAILED AS SPY

Dutch Ship Damaged—Passengers Took to Life Boats

LONDON, July 31, 4:35 p. m.—The Dutch mail steamship Koninkin Wilhelmina was struck a mine near the North Hinder lightship, says a dispatch from The Hague to Reuters' Telegram Co. The passengers left the vessel in the lifeboats and made for the lightship.

The captain of the Koninkin Wilhelmina reported by wireless that his ship struck a mine near North Hinder and that only the fore part of the vessel was out of water.

Boats with passengers left the steamer but after a while returned. Later the passengers again took to the boats and are proceeding to the Dutch coast.

Siege and torpedo boats have been dispatched to the assistance of the Koninkin Wilhelmina.

The Dutch mail steamer Koninkin Wilhelmina was a steel paddle boat and piled between Flushing and Sheerness. The vessel was of 1964 tons gross and 320 feet long.

Cong. Olney Asks Sec. Polk to Take Up Case of Doring, a Suicide

BOSTON, July 31.—Congressman Richard Olney today instructed his secretary at Washington to lay before Acting Secretary of State Polk the case of Frank Doring of Quincy who committed suicide here last Saturday, leaving letters telling of alleged sufferings while confined in British prisons charged with being a spy. "Poor Doring is gone," the congressman wrote, "but a precedent might be established which would prevent the recurrence of so gross an imposition as seems to have been practiced upon him by the British government. All the evidence points to his absolute innocence, and he seemed to be on his way to France to engage in the manufacture of artificial limbs." According to Congressman Olney, English officials put the young man into prison because he carried names in a notebook which he carried "were of German inclination."

SMITH AND KELLY BARRED

HOME SECRETARY EXPLAINS—NO OBJECTIONS TO IRISH MEMBERS COMING TO AMERICA

LONDON, July 31.—In reply to a question in the house of commons today by Albert Byrnes, nationalist member for the harbor division of Dublin, as to whether any difficulty would be placed in the way of Irish members desiring to go to America to collect funds for the relief of dependents of persons shot in North King street, Dublin, in the fighting during the rebellion there, Herbert L. Samuel, the home secretary, said he was not aware that any application had been made for a passport for such a purpose.

The home secretary said there was no desire to place any difficulty in the way of the collection of funds for persons who had suffered through the Dublin rebellion, and any application for a passport would be considered on its merits.

Answering a further question by Mr. Byrnes as to why Thomas Hughes Kelly of New York and his assistant, Joseph Smith, were not allowed to travel to the United States, the home secretary said:

"There is no objection to persons from America assisting in the administration of relief funds for Ireland, and two individuals were admitted for this purpose. In the case of one of the men mentioned in the question, the ostensible object was stated, permission was refused on the ground that he was engaged in business hostile to this country. The other man was so closely associated with him that he also was refused permission to land."

MATRIMONIAL

George H. Sanborn and Miss Sarah M. Boyd were married this morning at 10 o'clock, the ceremony being performed at St. John's rectory, North Chelmsford, by the pastor, Rev. Edmund T. Schofield. The bride wore blue taffeta and a white picture hat, and carried bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Mabel Sanborn, who was attired in blue taffeta and wore a picture hat. She carried pinks. The best man was George H. Boyd, brother of the bride. The ceremony was held at the home of the bride, 57 Chestnut street, North Chelmsford. Present at the wedding were friends and relatives from Fitchburg, Granville, Forge Village and Lowell. The happy couple will make their home in Fitchburg.

Lowell Batters Not "There" In the Pinches — Chance to Win Passed Up in Ninth

Lowell lost its seventh straight game at Spalding park yesterday and dropped into ninth place in the league standing while Bridgeport, the team that conquered Lowell, got out of the cellar position for the first time in many weeks. The score was 4 to 2.

Thirteen men left on the bases explains Lowell's defeat. Twice during the game the side was retired with three men waiting to score, but strikeouts or pop flies was the best that Lowell could do, except on one occasion when Robinson walked out the pitcher and forced in a run with a base on balls. The finish was a heart-breaker for the handful of fans that were present. With one man out, two bases on balls and a single filled the sacks. Greenhalge fanned. As forecast, Robinson took advantage of Pitcher Mulrennan's wildness and was passed, forcing in Kane, but Torphy, the next man up, swung at the first ball pitched and the result was an easy fly to Warner.

Mulrennan twirled for Bridgeport and though wild at times he was effective in the tight places. In only the fourth inning Lowell found his delivery pleasing and then a two-run lead was taken, but this was soon overcome by the Bridgeport sluggers, who hit Ziesler for 11 hits.

First Inning
Blake, the first man up, struck out and Duggan sent a grounder to Torphy and was retired at first. Deninger went out on a fly to Kilhullen.

No runs, no hits, no errors.
In the latter half of the inning Stimpson drew a free pass. Kane bunted to Mulrennan, but Deninger dropped the ball and both runners were safe. Parker struck out. Warner took Helfrich's grounder and threw to Horkleimer, forcing Kane at second. The ball was then thrown to first, getting Helfrich on a double play. No runs, no hits, no error.
Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Second Inning
Baker struck out and Warner fanned to Kane. Briggs singled over second base but Horkleimer sent a grounder to Greenhalge and was out at first.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
Greenhalge fanned to Blake and Robinson was out on his grounder to Mulrennan. Torphy struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Inning. Deninger fanned to Kilhullen in back of the plate. Baker bunted to Ziesler and was out at first. Warner sent one too hot for Ziesler to handle and the runner reached first. Briggs followed with a single to right field and when Horkleimer singled to center Warner scored. Flaherty was third out on a fly to Stimpson.

One run, three hits, no errors.
Robinson singled to left field and Torphy was retired on strikes. Kilhullen fanned to Blake and Ziesler fanned to Briggs.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 2.

Seventh Inning
Bridgeport scored another run in the seventh inning. Mulrennan opened with a two bagger to right field and scored on Blake's single to center. Blake was later doubled up between first and second, Ziesler making the put out. Duggan hit to Ziesler and died at first. Deninger walked but Moshier went out on a grounder to Greenhalge.

One run, two hits, no errors.
Stimpson walked and went to second on Kane's sacrifice. Parker sent a grounder to Warner and was out at first. Stimpson going to third. Helfrich grounded to Horkleimer and failed to reach first.

No runs, no hits, no errors.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 3.

Eighth Inning
Warner singled to right field. Briggs bunted to Kane who threw to Torphy to get Warner. But "Red" again dropped the ball and Warner was safe. Both men advanced on a passed ball. Warner scored and Briggs went to third on Horkleimer's sacrifice fly to Robinson. Flaherty fanned to Greenhalge. Ziesler made a nice stop of Mulrennan's hot one and threw the ball to Kane for a put out.

One run, one hit, one error.
Greenhalge fanned to Briggs. Robinson fanned to Duggan. Moshier dropped Torphy's fly and the latter was safe. Kilhullen walked to first after being hit by a pitched ball. Ziesler foul fanned to Flaherty.

No runs, no hits, one error.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 4.

Ninth Inning
Blake fanned to Greenhalge. Duggan singled through the pitcher's box. Deninger fanned to Stimpson. Duggan was out while trying to steal second. Greenhalge taking the throw.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
Stimpson fanned to Warner. Kane drew a base on balls. Parker singled to right field, sending Kane to third.

Helfrich walked, filling the bases. Greenhalge struck out. Robinson walked, forcing in Kane. Torphy hit up a high fly to Warner.

One run, one hit, no errors.

COX WINS TWICE

Yesterday Was New England Day on Grand Circuit

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 1.—It was very much of a New England day at Recreation park yesterday when the day Grand Circuit opened, for Walter Cox, two Massachusetts-owned horses and won with both of them, one the feature event, the $2000 Rickman stake for 212 trotters.

The stake winner was Worthy Prince, now racing his second season on the Grand Circuit. It was a disastrous day for favorite players, all three first choices being beaten.

The opening failed to attract as large a crowd as in former years, the terrific heat keeping the attendance to the smallest figure seen on the Grand Circuit this season.

Azora Axworthy was favorite for the trotting stake, selling at $50 against $35 for the field. The mare from the Murphy stable had won at both North Randall and Detroit and was naturally figured best.

She led into the stretch in the first heat, when Cox made his drive with Worthy Prince and the big stallion nosed her out at the wire in 2:05 1/2. The mare broke in the second and the Cox stallion had no trouble in beating Blindfold. In the final Murphy trailed Worthy Prince to the stretch, then pulled out and the pair fought it out.

Worthy Prince overcame and went to a short break close to the wire, but finished a neck to the good and got the decision in 2:05 1/2. The winner is owned by Sanford Small of Boston.

The 2:05 trot was a long drawn out, split heat affair, going the limit, and in this Cox also put his mount, Director Todd, across Bonington, from the Geers stable, with John Benyon driving, was the favorite at even money against the field. He put his head down and trotted all the way in the first round, winning rather easily, but in the second he broke and Director Todd was first at the pay station.

McCloskey and Bonington were the contenders in the third, the former beating the Geers stallion in a close finish. The big surprise came in the fourth, when the California gelding, Kid Cupid, sprinted to the front and won, Cox had ridden an easy heat this time, and in the fifth heat he took Director Todd to the front, and the little stallion never was headed. He is owned by Chauncey Sears of Fall River, Mass.

Derby Custer, a member of the Murphy stable, was favorite for the 215 pace, but had to take second place to Thomas Earl, an Indiana pacer, who was the class of a rather cheap field at all stages.

REDS WERE PILOTED BY SEVERAL OLD TIMERS BEFORE CHRISTY MATHEWSON TOOK THE HELM

Charley Herzog and himself in plenty of company since giving up the management of the Cincinnati Reds. He found on the horizon of his many former managers who failed to last in that city. Scanning the list of names, it is wondered if there is a man in baseball who could be successful in that town.

Charley Comiskey, Bid McPhee, Buck Ewing, Joe Kelley, Clark Griffith, Hank O'Day and Joe Tinker are numbered with those who have tried the job, only to give up in disgust and depart with the title of failure behind their names.

New comes Christy Mathewson, for years the idol of New York fans, to try his hand at the wheel.

The best showing of the club in recent years was when Hank O'Day had charge. It finished well up in the race, but the next year Hank drew his release and the club has been floundering around last place since.

Those in a position to know declare that the large board of directors that controls the destinies of the club is responsible, as no trade or deal can be put over unless the said board gives its approval. Baseball clubs controlled by such boards never have been a success and the reason making good are those under the leadership of one man.

Piloting the Reds is pretty much like leading army troops in the war, for the manager never knows what plans the directors are framing to change the lines of battle which are different from those the manager has in view for the opposing teams.

MANAGER HEADS LOWELL BATTERS WITH 303—NEXT MAN HITTING FOR 200

Manager Joe Kilhullen remains the only Lowell player leading in the 300 class, his average being just three points better than that mark. Clarence Parker is stinging the pill at a .290 clip and Stimpson and Greenhalge have held their own during the past week. The averages follow:

DIAMOND DAZZLES

The Braves are back in their old place, four games behind Brooklyn and one-half game ahead of Philadelphia.

Yesterday was a hard day for pitchers in the big leagues and few went through the entire nine innings.

Babe Ruth performed a great feat by holding the Tigers, with Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford, to two hits. Allowing a team like Detroit but two hits at this stage of the season is no easy task.

A record for straight wins for the 1916 season in the American league has been made by the St. Louis Browns, who registered their 11th consecutive victory yesterday. It was the fifth straight game taken from the Yankees, who led the league before their visit to St. Louis.

Are the New York Giants out to equal their recent record? Yesterday they won their sixth straight game from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was hard to see old Larry Lajoie throw away yesterday's game between Philadelphia and the White Sox in the 11th inning after the youngsters had tried so hard to win.

Cleveland, without the services of Tris Speaker, was trounced by the Senators yesterday by the score of 11 to 1.

The Braves are up against it now in their catching department. Gandy received a split finger in the second game and Transgressor was injured when he collided with Allen, when both were endeavoring to field a slow roller. It looks as though Rico, who is having his first year in professional baseball, will have to do the backstop work for a few days to come.

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Harry Donovan, the star New Haven pitcher, will be given a try-out by Connie Mack at the end of the Eastern league season. Donovan was recommended by Danny Murphy, a former Mackman.

"Shorty" Dee might fit in well on the Lowell team right now.

Joe Kane plays the initial sack like a veteran and yesterday he made some fine stops of bad throws. Kane is one of the hardest workers on the team.

Ralph O'Connell's absence from the game at this time comes hard. The speedy shortstop will not return for about two weeks on account of the injury to his hand sustained Saturday.

George Spires, who belongs to the Lowell club, has been traded by Hartford to Springfield for Fletcher Low, the former Dartmouth college and Boston Braves player. Spires is now playing in the Springfield lineup. Owner Roach has notified Manager Flynn of Spires' connection with the local club.

Report has it that Manager Billy Hamilton of Worcester is angling for the services of Ray Keating, the New York American pitcher, who is about to be dropped. Gene McCann of the Millwaukees, also thinks well of the former Lawrence twirler.

Lowell and Hartford are playing the same type of baseball. Each team lost six and failed to win a game last week and now Hartford has Lowell beaten for last place by a half game.

Charlie Klechmer put some life in the game and provided some fun for the crowd by his chatter on the third base coaching lines. Charlie will be at the park for the next few days.

Joe Briggs, with two singles, helped the visitors to score two of their four runs. Joe had no mercy for his old team mates.

and with Russell Boy and Braden Direct was expected to furnish a great contest.

A proprietary medicine like everything else that comes before the public has to prove its merit. It has to meet competition. The law of the "Survival of the Fittest" applies to this as to other things. The fact that Lydia E. LAUDS MUNITION MAKERS

French Under Secretary of War and Munitions Tells of Terrific Results of French Shell Fire

LYONS, France, Aug. 1.—The terrific results of French shell fire was described by Albert Thomas, under secretary of war and munitions, addressing a gathering of workers in munition factories here.

"During the long months we have just passed through," he said, "there have been hours when a slight mistake of misjudgment existed between citizens doing their duty in the interior of the country and those fulfilling the nobler and more dangerous task on the front. It was said that the workers slackened and did not supply the army with all it needed. Well, here is a pleasant fact we observed recently on the Somme: When the Twentieth corps, the Colonial corps, entered the villages of Hem and Curly and when they carried Monaca farm, do you know how they entered? Not by assault, not by risking all the infantry. No, they

IRISH TO FIGHT CABINET

Will Take First Chance to Turn Out. Coalition Ministry Say Redmond and Dillon

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The result of the home rule debate in the house of commons yesterday was to leave the Irish nationalists in a fighting mood and ready to war on the government on any question except the winning of the great conflict with Germany.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said the action of the government left the nationalists free to watch, criticize and oppose, if necessary, the coalition government when and where they pleased.

Joseph Devlin, the Belfast nationalist, and the one who was chiefly instrumental in getting the Ulster nationalists to agree to the exclusion of six Ulster counties, went even further when he said he hoped on the next division the nationalists would be able to turn out the coalition government.

The debate seems to have left the prospect of an amicable settlement of the Irish problem as distant as before.

Premier Asquith made a conciliatory speech, and expressed the conviction that a permanent settlement would be reached sooner than any persons imagined.

John Redmond, the nationalist leader, made it clear that his party was satisfied and would henceforth consider itself absorbed from association with the coalition government and free to criticize and oppose it independently in any circumstances.

The main ground for his objections to the government's plan for an interim government was that it would be in the hands of the new secretary of Ireland, Henry Edward Duke, and the attorney general, Sir Frederick E. Smith, both unionists; that, in fact, it was a revival of the old government.

The leading features of Premier Asquith's speech were the announcement of the new secretary for Ireland, his leading of the so-called Plunkett scheme for an advisory council which had been strongly supported outside of the house, but which the premier declared was impracticable, and the announcement that there would be no reduction of the military force in Ireland.

Premier Asquith also indicated that all the unionist members of the cabinet were in practical agreement with Lord Lansdowne. This was further confirmed by Andrew Bonar Law, secretary for

WAY CLEAR TO DECLARE WAR

Italy Denounces Treaty Signed With Germany in 1891 and 1904

Treaty Subordinated Italy to Germany Economically

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The only reason which has so far prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy, says the Petit Parisien, is a commercial treaty signed between the two countries in 1891 and renewed in 1904. This treaty subordinated Italy to Germany economically, according to the paper, and was considered of the greatest importance by Germany. The Parisien says that it understands Italy has now denounced this treaty and thereby left the way clear for a declaration of hostilities.

LABORERS ON STRIKE

MEN EMPLOYED IN CONSTRUCTION WORK DEMAND INCREASE OF 5 CENTS AN HOUR

About 75 laborers employed in construction work throughout the city went on strike this morning because their employers refused them an increase of five cents an hour in wages. As a result building in many parts of the city is somewhat tied up.

The 75 men on strike do not include all the building laborers in Lowell. Some of the contractors, it is said, agreed to give the increase asked for and in such cases the men remained at their regular work.

The regular wage schedule for building laborers is 35 cents an hour and the men want 40 cents. They give the high cost of living as the reason for their demands. Some of the contractors readily agreed to grant the increase, but others held out and the men quit work.

The headquarters of the building laborers are located at 32 Middle street, where a meeting was held last night with President Cassidy in the chair. It was then voted to strike, wherever the five cent increase was refused. Another meeting will be held soon.

Loomfixers Union

The regular meeting of the Loomfixers' union was held last evening in Carpenter's hall with a large attendance. A feature of the evening was an address by Thomas F. McElhannon, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, who will make his headquarters in Lowell for some time.

Moulders

The members of the Moulders' union held their regular meeting last evening in Middle street and transacted routine business. Plans for the Labor day celebration were also discussed.

Lathers

At a recent meeting of the Lathers' union it was voted to open the charter of the organization from now until Aug. 26.

MORE FIREMEN

to the fire fighting force, but said in order to do that he would ask the council to transfer the sum of $3500 to the purchase of an automobile chassis to the fire department. Mr. Morse opposed the proposition of transferring, although he agreed that more firemen were needed while the mayor also informed Mr. Putnam he would not vote in favor of the transfer. Action was deferred to a later date.

GENOA CLUB INVADDED

MEMBERS OF JUNIOR HOLY NAME SOCIETY HOLD ANNUAL OUTING IN TYNGSBORO

Over 300 happy, noisy boys, members of the Junior Holy Name society of St. Michael's church, swooped down today on Genoa's club in Tyngsboro, the summer home of the Knights of Columbus, to enjoy their annual outing.

With a fine program of sports, prizes for the winners, plenty of ice cream and lemonade it is needless to say that every boy on the trip had one jolly good time.

Three big special cars were required to convey the boys from this city to the club grounds. The cars were lined up at the corner of Bridge and First streets shortly after 8 o'clock and within 15 minutes all were literally packed with youngsters wearing happy faces. The boys started right in to have a good time and they made things merry en route to the grounds.

At the destination sports were enjoyed, including races, jumping, etc., and a red hot baseball game was played. At noon luncheon was served and the afternoon was spent in games and other amusements. The return trip will be made this evening.

HERBERT BISHOP INJURED

Herbert L. Bishop, of 25 May street, a paymaster at the United States Customhouse, suffered a fracture of the left leg last night when he was struck and run over by an automobile in Chestnut street.

Mr. Bishop had just stepped from an electric car at Parkhurst's store and while crossing the street an automobile belonging to J. J. Jackson and operated by Mrs. Jackson struck him. He was thrown to the ground and two of the wheels passed over his left leg.

Dr. J. C. Howard was summoned and after having been made as comfortable as possible Mr. Bishop was removed to the Lowell hospital.

O.M.I. CADETS' ENCAMPMENT

All arrangements for the annual encampment of the O.M.I. Cadets will be made at a meeting in the immaculate Conception school hall this evening. The meeting is arranged for the benefit of the parents of the cadets, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Each cadet is to bring a member of his family. Major Conroy and others will explain all matters pertaining to the encampment, and a short drill will follow.

COUNTER BLOW AT RUSSIANS

Turkish Officers Now Familiar Sight in Streets of Lemberg

Teutons to Disregard Indecisive Successes of Gen. Brussiloff

BERLIN, July 31, via London, Aug. 1.—Turkish officers are now a familiar sight in the streets of Lemberg and the Turkish troops being sent to the southeastern battle front already have been detained, according to dispatches from the Gallian capital. The Ottoman forces, however, apparently have not yet been thrown into the struggle. The German commanders are biding their time to launch their counter blow at the Russians disregarding the indecisive successes which Gen. Brussiloff and his associate army commanders may be able to attain by the tremendous expenditure of force.

The Teutonic treatment of the Lemberg front and the abandonment of the convoluted line following the meandering course of the Stokhod is regarded here without apprehension and, in fact, is in a certain way a hopeful sign, as the new line, cutting across the Big Bend in the Stokhod is only about 25 miles long, in contrast with the approximate 50 miles of the former front. A proportionately smaller force is capable of defending it, the surplus thus being released for employment elsewhere.

On the western front the British, according to German war correspondents, appear to be on the point of again attempting the task which they found impossible on July 1—namely, to crush the German front north of the Ancre brook in an effort to reach Bapaume from the west. The British artillery fire on the front between Gommecourt and Beaumont-Hamel on Saturday and Sunday was of the most violent character, being apparently preliminary to a new onslaught against the German fortified line upon which the British divisions dashed themselves valiantly but vainly in the first days of their storming attack.

to the Columbia street sewer; of C. L. Hanson for the widening of Chelmsford street at its junction with Appleton street; Sam Deane for the acceptance of Chapel street and the laying of cinders and John J. Mahoney for the acceptance of Bell avenue, were read and referred.

Arthur J. Hubbard was appointed a member of the Lowell Electric Light and Power board, to represent a pole in Temple street and the laying of a pole in Temple street and a hearing was set for Sept. 5.

The following claims were referred: Mary E. Flynn, personal injury; Della Higgins, personal injury; Adela Dufresne and Napoleon Forrest and E. F. Finnegan, damage to property.

WIDENING CENTRAL STREET

Charles Kittredge petitioned for the widening of Central street from Prescott street to the New American hotel and the petition was referred to the school committee, asking for a special appropriation of $5000 for the maintenance of the year and the communication was referred to the commissioner of finance. An invitation from the Trades and Labor council to receive the Labor day parade was read and accepted. Agent Bates of the health department was authorized to purchase through the purchasing agent's office 10 tons of loose hay for the health yard.

The Bellevue, Temple and Hillside street sewer assessments were presented, but action was deferred to a later date. An order for the printing of the names from the jury list and the placing of the same in the jury box was presented and adopted. At 10:30 o'clock a 15-minute recess was taken.

The council reconvened at 10:30. Discussion of sewer assessments in Bellevue, Temple and Hillside streets was resumed and it was stated that the order for the suit was passed on April 27, 1915. The assessment was approved.

WANTS MORE FIREMEN

Commissioner Putnam spoke on the necessity of appointing new firemen. He gave the following statement having reference to the time the men are on duty in the various houses.

Mr. Putnam's Statement

After careful investigation and due consideration, I am convinced of the imperative need of additional men in the fire department, and I believe that you will acquiesce in that belief when you understand the situation that exists at some of the fire houses. For your information I have prepared a tabulated statement showing the number of men on duty at the several houses at various hours of the day. This shows that in certain houses there are long periods during the day in which there are but two men at a house, even at a time when none of the company is on a vacation.

In the beginning, permit me to state that in 1914 the underwriters recommended that the engine companies should have nine men on duty at all times, a similar number for the Protective company and seven men for each hose company. That standard has never been attained and we are much farther from it than we were when that recommendation was made. To illustrate: While no new men have been added to the department since 1913, the force has been decreased by the retirement of three men on pensions during the past two and one-half years. This year, for the first time, the one-day-off-in-five rule is in operation which, naturally, has the effect of reducing the number of men on duty.

The total number of permanent men

RUSSIANS RESOLVE TO FIGHT TO END

Second Anniversary of Germany's Declaration of War on Russia

Special Articles in French Papers—Premier Sturmer's Statement

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Today, the second anniversary of Germany's declaration of war on Russia, was commemorated in the French press by special articles and features. A number of messages were printed from prominent personalities in allied and neutral countries, including the kings of Serbia and Montenegro, E. H. B. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Gen. Cadorna, Premier Ramonones of Spain, Gen. Alexieff, chief of the Russian staff and the Russian and Belgian premiers.

Premier Sturmer of Russia says: "At the moment when the allies are entering upon the third year of the war the Russian government is more than ever resolved to continue the struggle to the end and is firmly convinced, that with the help of the Almighty the allies and their cause of justice and equity will triumph."

credited to each house at the present time is as follows: Engine 1, Gorham street, 3; Engine 2, Branch street, 10; Engine 3, Palmer street, 9; Engine 4, High street, 11; Engine 5, Fourth st., 8; Engine 6, Fletcher street, 8; Engine 7, Central street, 8; Hose 8, Race street, 9; Hose 9, Lincoln street, 5; Hose 10, Mammoth road, 12; Hose 11, Lawrence street, 5; Hose 12, West Sixth street, 5; Truck 1, Lawrence street, 7; Truck 2, West Sixth street, 7; Truck 3, Palmer street, 6; Protective, Warren street, 7.

Of course there is no time when all of these men are on duty. In the smaller companies of five men, there is one man off every day, so that the actual strength of each such company is but four men. Then if one of them is absent on a vacation, there are but three left at the house. Each of these three is away from the house for these three times a day, so that for nine hours each day there are but two men at the house to make immediate response to alarms.

The Ayer city and the Lawrence street houses, both in the center of manufacturing districts, come within this category. Last week at High 10, upon which the Pawtucketville district largely depends for its fire protection, there were six and one-half hours each day when there were but two men on duty, although no member of that company was away on a vacation. Gentlemen, I don't consider that proper protection, but I am unable to discover any feasible way of improving this situation under existing conditions.

It might be suggested, I suppose, that transfers be made from some of the larger companies and sent to the house that would work out. Engine 4 of High street has the largest number of men, 11. That means that there are two men off duty every day and on one day in every five three are off duty. That leaves a total of eight men, and with one man on a vacation, the strength of the company is reduced to seven men. During meal hours there are but five men at the house to man two pieces of apparatus. Would it be wise to reduce this minimum still further by transferring any of the men from this house, leaving the strength of the company in a district must rely on this house for protection? It is my recollection that the project to erect a firehouse in the Oakland district was abandoned on the promise of better facilities at the High street house. Consequently, I am apprehensive that any reduction of the High street force would result in a vigorous protest from the Oakland. Personally, I don't consider it good policy to make such transfers.

The next largest company is Engine 2 on Branch street, which has a force of ten men. That means eight men on duty each day, as two are off every day. One man is off on his vacation at the present time, so that the actual strength of the company is seven. During meal hours there are but five men at the house to man two pieces of apparatus. The entire stretch of territory from the depot to the North Chelmsford line depends mainly upon this house for its protection. The creation of another house at the corner of Middlesex and Webster streets has been recommended by the underwriters, and the residents of that section also are urging the necessity of another firehouse in the vicinity of Middlesex village. In view of the manifest need for better fire protection in that section, it does not impress me as good policy to decrease it by transferring any member of the Branch street house to another place. In fact, I incline to the belief that such developments would bring a strong protest from residents and manufacturers on the outskirts of the Highlands.

That some of these smaller companies need strengthening, there appears to be no question in my mind. That it cannot safely be done at the expense of the larger companies, I am also satisfied. The only solution of the problem that I can find is to enlarge the force. Realizing that it means increased cost to the city, I make this recommendation reluctantly, but feel it my duty as commissioner of fire protection to face the situation as I find it.

KAISER'S PROCLAMATION

Says Second Year of War, Like First, Was for Germany's Arms a Year of Glory

AMSTERDAM, August 1, via London, 11 a. m.—Emperor William, according to a telegram received here today from Berlin, has issued the following proclamation to the German forces on land and sea:

"Comrades, the second year of the world war has elapsed. Like the first year it was for Germany's arms a year of glory. On all fronts you inflicted new and heavy blows on the enemy."

"Whether the enemy, retreated, borne down by the force of your attacks, or whether, reinforced by foreign assistance collected and pressed into service from all parts of the world he tried to rob you of the fruits of former victories, you always proved yourselves superior to him."

"Even where England's tyranny was uncontested, namely on the free waves of the sea, you victoriously fought against gigantic superiority. Your Kaiser's appreciation and your country's proud admiration are assured to you for these deeds, for your unshaken loyalty, for your bold daring and for your tenacious bravery."

"Like the memory of our dead heroes your fame also will endure through all time. The laurels which our ever-confident forces have won against the enemy in spite of trials and dangers, are inseparably linked with the devoted and untiring labor at home."

"This strength at home has sent an ever-fresh inspiration to the armies in the field. It has continually quickened our swords, has kindled Germany's enthusiasm and has terrified the enemy. My gratitude and that of the fatherland are due the nation of the fatherland and the greatness of the empire."

"Whether the enemy's wages war with the force of arms, or with cold, calculating malice, we shall continue as before, into the third year of the war. The spirit of duty to the fatherland and an unbending will to victory permeate our homes and our fighting forces today as in the first days of the war. With God's gracious help, I am convinced that your future deeds will equal those of the past and present."

"Main headquarters. "Wilhelm."

MESSAGE TO CHANCELLOR

BERLIN, Aug. 1, via London.—Emperor William today sent the following message to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor:

"For the second time the anniversary of the day arrived when our enemies forced me to call Germany's sons to arms to protect the honor and existence of the empire."

"The German nation has been through two years of unprecedentedly heroic deeds and suffering. The army and navy, in union with our loyal and brave allies, have gained the highest glory in attack and defense. Many thousands of our brethren have sealed

New Jersey Officials to Demand Federal Action as Result of Big Explosion—More Arrests

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Representatives John J. Egan and James A. Hanlon of New Jersey announced this afternoon at the conclusion of a conference of city, county, state and federal officials on the Black Tom munitions explosion which caused loss of life and heavy property damage that they would go to Washington tomorrow, accompanied by Mayor Pagan of Jersey City, to demand an embargo on the export of munitions from Atlantic coast ports.

Representative Egan said he would introduce a resolution in the house asking for an immediate embargo and Representative Hanlon said he was framing a bill of similar design.

The three men also will go before the interstate commerce commission in Washington tomorrow, they said, and demand the adoption by the commission of stringent regulations pending remedial legislation for the removal of the immediate danger from the storage of high explosives at this port.

McKenzie Held in $5000 Bail

The fourth arrest growing out of the separate inquiries underway was made today when E. L. McKenzie, president of the National Dock & Storage Co., the scene of the explosion, was taken into custody and released in $5000 bail for examination Friday.

MORE ARRESTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Three additional arrests were made today as a result of the investigation by New Jersey and Jersey City officials of the great munitions explosion on Black Tom Island Sunday. With three men already held in jail on charges of manslaughter, a warrant had been issued for the arrest of E. L. McKenzie, president of the National Dock & Storage Co., at whose pier the disaster started. The commissioner of public safety of Jersey City, Frank Hague, said that two railroad pres-

MAY DASH OUT TODAY

ACTIVITIES INDICATING EARLY DEPARTURE OF DEUTSCHLAND NOTICED

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 1.—Activities indicating the early departure of the German submarine Deutschland on her homeward voyage to Germany were noticed at the pier at which she is berthed today.

The logs forming the outer barrier about the vessel were towed into mid-stream and anchored. Then the tug Tiramia and a launch swept the channel from the dock out to the main channel with a heavy weight suspended under water from a line between the two craft. This was done evidently as a precaution against possible obstructions in the path.

The United States coast guard cutter Wiscaticum arrived from Philadelphia while these operations were in progress, and took up a position off the end of the slip.

It was learned from a trustworthy source that Capt. Koenig has asked for a pilot to guard the under-water line to the Virginia Capes. The pilot designated was said to be Capt. Owen Coleman who brought the Deutschland into this port.

Later the spar barricade was replaced just outside the line of covered barges which screen the Deutschland from view from the river and the Tiramia returned to her position alongside the submarine.

The city police boat Lannan meanwhile had joined the Wiscaticum and in response to a signal both boats steamed to the pier. After a conference between the captains of these two craft and Deutschland officers, the Wiscaticum and Lannan steamed away and it became apparent that the Deutschland would not leave immediately.

It is known that the submarine was expected to leave at high tide this forenoon. Owing to the strong adverse wind, however, the flood stage was not as high as required by the Deutschland necessitating a postponement of the start. The pilot was aboard. The next tide occurs between 7 and 9 o'clock this evening.

Arrangements were made it was said by an official connected with the company operating the Deutschland, for the submarine to leave this afternoon or this evening.

DEPARTURE IMMINENT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Ernest von Hatzfeldt, counselor of the German embassy, said today that he had talked with the long distance telephone with Baltimore and that the departure of the merchant submarine Deutschland was imminent. "May be today; I don't know, but very soon," said the prince.

HAND TO HAND STRUGGLE IN NEW YORK COURTROOM

As 12 Alleged Anarchists Were Being Led From Tombs 75 Friends Set Upon Guards and Attempted to Free Prisoners—Panic Followed—Books and Papers Hurlled at Magistrate—Reserves Called and Rioters Driven Out by Use of Night Sticks

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A hand to hand struggle in a panic-stricken court room between twelve alleged anarchists and their sympathizers on the one side and policemen and court attendants on the other, during which papers and books were hurled at Magistrate Murphy, resulted in the injury today of several persons and the arrest of three.

As the twelve men after a hearing on a charge of inciting to riot in wrecking the office of Il Progresso, an Italian newspaper, last Saturday, were being led from the Tombs court seventy-five of their friends, who were in attendance throughout the hearing, leaped to their feet and attempted to sweep aside the guards and free the prisoners.

Police reserves were summoned and the rioters were driven from the court room by the use of night sticks. One woman, just before fainting, sank her teeth into the wrist of a court attaché.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING

PRESENT TREND ALONG LINES TENDING TO A MORE PERMANENT PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The monthly summary of business in the United States, prepared by the federal reserve board today shows domestic demand gradually taking the place of foreign orders.

BATTLE WITH U-BOAT

BRITISH STEAMER ARRIVES—COMMANDER TELLS OF BATTLE IN MEDITERRANEAN

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The British steamer Clodmoor, just in port from Genoa, Italy, had a battle in the Mediterranean with a German or Austrian submarine, her commander, Charles Hunter, reported today. He believes that he left the submarine in a sinking condition.

The Clodmoor plainly shows the marks of the submarine's gunfire. The steamer is armed with one gun for defensive purposes and it was with this, her captain said, that she shelled the submarine when she attacked and so seriously damaged her that she drew off in apparently a sinking condition. The battle lasted half an hour, according to Capt. Hunter, but only one shell did serious damage to the Clodmoor. This pierced the vessel near the engineer's and mate's quarters. Several shells, however, dropped on the vessel's decks.

SHARK SCARE AT HAMPTON

Visitors at Hampton beach Sunday experienced a double shark scare, but both proved to be illusory. The first "shark" proved, after investigation by Lifeguard George McDonald in a boat, to be a piece of driftwood covered with seaweed. At 5:30 o'clock in the evening, another exemplification of "seeing things at night" took place. This time the "shark" proved upon investigation to be a five-foot porpoise, which was later joined in frolicking in the water in front of Cutler's Sea View house by three smaller companions.

HUGHES ATTACKS WILSON

FEATURES OF MR. HUGHES' SPEECH

Declares the republican party restored, alert and effective. Preaches "America first and America efficient."

Condemns President Wilson's diplomatic appointments, especially the replacing of Ambassador Herrick at Paris.

Administration's dealings with Mexico "a confused series of blunders."

Policy toward Mexico should be to "insist in a firm and candid manner upon the performance of international obligations." A short period of firm, consistent dealing will accomplish more than years of vacillation.

Stands "for the unflinching maintenance of all American rights on land and sea."

Declares firm stand on "strict accountability" would have averted the Lusitania tragedy.

Charges administration has been remiss in protection of American property and American commerce, and has failed to use the resources at our command.

Blames administration for unpreparedness shown by militia movement to Mexican border; says policy of army increase has been vacillating; incompetent naval administration imposed upon the country.

Demands adequate national defence; adequate protection on both Western and Eastern coasts.

Calls present prosperity a "fool's paradise," predicts industrial depression under democratic tariff at end of war.

Declares for protection.

Strongly indorses woman suffrage.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Charles E. Hughes made his eagerly awaited speech of acceptance as republican candidate for president last evening and outlined the leading issues of his campaign. He assailed the present administration, more especially for its conduct of Mexican affairs and for its foreign policy, condemned alien intrigues on American soil, came out for a program of domestic reforms, including adequate national defence, and endorsed the republican suffrage plank.

A Message To Thin Weak Scrawny Folks

An Easy Way to Gain 10 to 30 Pounds of Solid, Healthy Permanent Flesh

Thin, nervous, undeveloped men and women everywhere are heard to say, "I can't understand why I do not get fat. I eat plenty of good nourishing food. The reason is just this: You cannot get fat, no matter how much you eat, unless your digestive organs assimilate the fat-making elements of your food instead of passing them out through the body as waste."

What is needed is a means of gently urging the assimilative functions of the stomach and intestines to absorb the oils and fats and hand them over to the blood, where they may reach the starved, shrunken, run-down tissues and build them up. The thin person's body is like a dry sponge—tender and hungry for the fatty materials of which it is being deprived by the failure of the alimentary canal to take them from the food. A splendid way of working to overcome this stultifying waste of flesh building elements and to stop the leakage of fats is to try Sargol, the famous flesh building agent that has been so widely sold in America in recent years. Take a little Sargol tablet with every meal and see if your cheeks don't quickly fill out and rolls of firm, healthy flesh form over your body, covering each bony angle and projecting point. The Lowell Pharmacy and other good druggists have Sargol or can get it from their wholesaler, and will refund your money if you are not satisfied with the gain in weight it produces as stated on the guarantee in each large package. It is inexpensive, easy to take and highly efficient.

NOTE:—Sargol is recommended only as a flesh builder and while excellent results in cases of nervous indigestion, etc., have been reported, care should be taken about using it unless a gain of weight is desired.

is convinced that we contemplate no meddlesome interference with what does not concern us, but that we propose to insist in a firm and candid manner upon the performance of international obligations. To a stable government, appropriately discharging its international duties, we should give ungrudging support. A short period of firm, consistent and friendly dealing will accomplish more than many years of vacillation."

Dealing with the subject of our relation to the European war, Mr. Hughes accused the present administration of lack of firmness in protecting American life and property, saying, in part:

"We have had brave words in a series of notes, but despite our protests the lives of Americans have been destroyed. What does it all have to do with the strongest words known to diplomacy? If ambassadors can receive the impression that the words are not to be taken seriously? It is not words, but the strength and resolution behind the words, that count. If this government by the use of both informal and formal diplomatic opportunities left no doubt that when we said 'strict accountability' we meant precisely what we said, and that we would unhesitatingly vindicate that position, I am confident that there would have been no destruction of American lives by the sinking of the Lusitania. There had ample notice; in fact, published notice. Furthermore, we knew the situation and we did not require specific notice. Instead of whittling away our formal statements by equivocal conversations, we needed the straight, direct and decisive representations which every diplomat and foreign office would understand."

I do not put life and property on the same footing, but the administration has not only been remiss with respect to the protection of American lives; it has been remiss with respect to the protection of American property and American commerce. It has been too much disposed to be content with leisurely discussion. I cannot now undertake to review the course of events, but it is entirely clear that we failed to use the resources at our command to prevent injurious action, and that we suffered in consequence."

On the question of preparedness Mr. Hughes said: "It is apparent that we are shockingly unprepared, and we have incurred the administration of following rather than leading in the recent agitation for better things. In a general way he espoused a stronger army and navy, industrial mobilization, and all that is involved in the term 'preparedness.'"

Leading up to the subject of business and commerce after the war, the candidate said that he believes in the "organization of peace" and this, he said, includes a return to protection for American industries. He was very specific in his treatment of this phase of his speech, as the following excerpt will show:

"It is plain that we must have protective, upbuilding policies. It is idle to look for relief to the democratic party, which as late as 1912 declared in its platform that it was 'a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, had no right to power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue.' We are told in its present platform that there have been 'momentous changes' in the past two years, and hence repudiating its former attitude the democratic party now declares for a 'non-partisan tariff commission.' But have the 'momentous changes' incident to the European war changed the constitution of the United States? Is it proposed to use a tariff commission to frame a tariff for revenue only? Is the opposing party ready to consent that for generations to be misread the constitution? Is that party now prepared to accept the protective principle? Rather, so far as the tariff is concerned, it would appear to be without principle. Witness its action in connection with sugar duties, its re-affirmation of the doctrine of a revenue tariff, its dysfactual proposal, and its formulation in lieu of protective duties of an 'anti-dumping' provision, the terms of which are sufficient to show its ineffective character!"

The various other issues in his campaign outline were dealt with briefly. Mr. Hughes came out in favor of "the conservation of the just interests of labor," federal workmen's compensation laws, conservation of agriculture; government of the Philippines "with a full recognition of our international duty," votes for women—according to the method prescribed in the republican platform; administrative efficiency, civil service reform and economy in the budget. He closed with the following summary:

We live in a fateful hour. In a true sense, the contest for the preservation of the nation is never ended. We must still be imbued with the spirit of heroic sacrifice which gave us our country and brought safely through our crisis of civil war. We renew our pledge to the ancient ideals of individual liberty, of opportunity denied to none because of race or creed, of unswerving loyalty. We have a vision of America prepared and secure; strong and just; equal to her tasks;

ed him rather better than did any other. He not only got to be the despair of the federal marshals, but other outlaws rather took a dislike to him. Now, in the course of time, he learned for a ticket puncher, and he so he laid an elaborate plan to hold up the Pacific express, carried it through and got the ticket puncher, he wanted. And this he gave to a girl, who sort of attracted him.

Even good bad-men run against snags and one day a big marshal placed "Bass" through under arrest. And the marshal's name was "Bob Evans." A big hulk of a man with an eye as quick as lightning. The name occurred somewhere in a letter which "Bass" had written. He had been told to ask "Bob Evans" if he ever ran across him, just what the tragedy was which sent his mother to her grave. And the marshal told him. Years before "Bass" through's mother had been a western dance hall employer and there she changed to meet a good man, and him she married. But the keeper of the hall, "Bud Frazer," had wanted her for his wife. "Bass" through's mother after her marriage he just naturally killed her husband. "Bass" through's father—on sight. And then he looked her.

The recital of this story made the young bandit more anxious than ever to do some bold work, and he set on the trail after "Bud Frazer," a member of "The Wolf" gang of outlaws. They met in a dance hall and the battle royal took place, with "Bud" getting the short end of it, though gone to the last. There is more to the story than this, for the natural love affair of "Bass" through for the girl, who was a part admirably played by Bessie Love, makes the concluding chapter one of great interest.

Although Fairbanks is known far and wide as a comedian, he is not unskilled in parts calling for a mixture of careful comedy and heroics. His "Bass" through is a mighty cleverly drawn character, with brief touches of unmistakable humor. Percy Cannon as the federal marshal also does some exceptionally good work.

"Tangled Threads," the tenth chapter of "The River of Romance," in which Miss Billie Burke is appearing, shows the suspicion deepening in the hero's mind that her dead lover was after all not dead. In his rapid, the odds and ends of evidence as to his past life, certain facts make a deep impression on her. But the murderer of the man is not suspected. Miss Burke does some splendid acting in this chapter.

"A Dash of Courage," with Harry Gibson as the master crook, is the name of the Triangle-Keystone comedy, which runs along at the usual pace. A slick-baited film-flasher enters a town and is entertained by the police of the place as the man who first put the town on the map. A rack in money and valuables before he is finally caught.

How the police department is humorously made up of the funniest of spectacles. In addition to these pictures there are several shorter ones of merit.

HUGHES' CAMPAIGN ON

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Having outlined his issues in his speech of acceptance at Carnegie hall last night, Charles E. Hughes was fairly embarked today upon his campaign for the presidency. "America first and America efficient," was the assertion in his speech that generally was selected as the keynote of the coming political battle.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will be guests of the Women's Roosevelt League at a tea this afternoon and the candidate is expected to address the members of the League and delegates from the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Women's Suffrage party, the Women's Congressional union and other women's organizations.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

"The Good Bad-Man," with Douglas Fairbanks, the light comedy, playing the title part, is on exhibition at the B. F. Keith theatre the first half of the present week. Yesterday, notwithstanding the recent heat, the theatre held large crowds which greatly enjoyed the thread of the unusual story and the excellent acting of the star and his support.

"The Good Bad-Man" touches an unusual theme, to wit, the brigandage of a man who hates society because he firmly believes that he is inferior. This particular character is well known much about his early life, but there had always occurred to him the belief that a great wrong had been committed somewhere. In his rapid, his quick work his last consisted only of tinkers. He gave these to little waifs he knew, and it pleased him greatly to see them laugh at his "Bass" through. This laughing bandit took, and it suit-

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Rita Jolivet, who is the star in the photo-drama, "An International Marriage," is a sure-enough comedienne. At yesterday's performance she portrayed the part of the American daughter of a multi-millionaire with compelling power and great attractiveness. A very interesting story goes with this play in which the complications of the suitors for the hand of Florence Brent, the rare beauty, make quite a contest. The third suitor, a quite capable American, follows the other two, a duke and a count, abroad and shows up their deceitful and devious conduct and subtle ways and solves a seemingly impossible tangle in a masterly way. This love story of international complications and situations is a most attractive setting for beautiful Rita Jolivet, who played with convincing reality and irresistible charm, displaying her great ability to express strong emotion. As usual, "Charlie Chaplin" pleased in his own version of "Carmen" which was a four-reel knockout. The pretty Mary Pickford appeared in a different setting in "Ramona," a re-issue of a Biograph in one reel. It was most interesting to see the difference in her pictures then and now. Screaming as usual were the audiences at the comedy, "Harold, the Nurse Girl." Some very beautiful travel pictures and other films were shown. A re-program will be repeated today and tomorrow.

OWD THEATRE

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, two of the most popular artists in the motion picture world, will again be seen at the Owd theatre this afternoon and evening in the pleasing five-part Metro "The River of Romance." "The Mysteries of Nyra" and other excellent attractions will also be presented at the cool Owd today.

ROYAL THEATRE

The second episode of the new Pathé serial, "The Grip of Evil," will be shown tomorrow and Thursday at the Royal theatre. Laurin Jaddy, 37 Royal theatre, Laura Lovely in a five-reel play and others also shown.

CANOBIE LAKE PARK

Everybody at Canobie was well pleased with the big vaudeville show and pictures that the theatre management presented to be in force for the coming week. After trying several weeks with both the musical comedy and vaudeville and finding the vaudeville attractions much more pleasing the management decided to keep on with this form of entertainment.

While vaudeville the nature of which is offered at the big summer resort costs a great deal more than the average musical comedy production, the management of the road as well as the theatre wishes to present that which is the more appreciated regardless of the cost, thus the offering of the varied form of entertainment two weeks successively. The largest Monday evening of the season was in evidence yesterday and if this can be taken as a criterion, the attendance for the week should prove to be vastly superior to any previous week. There is every form of vaudeville entertainment on the week's bill that one could wish for, and in addition there are several of the latest films from the movie world. While the greater part of the bill is of comedy singing and talking yet there is enough of novelty work to give the bill a versatile appearance.

The vaudeville for the week consists of the following acts:—Weston and Miss "Pancake De Luxe," Dick and Alice Gray in song and talk, the Zora Carmen trio of "Hoopologists," Lew Fitzgibbons, xylophone artist and Lorenzo Cox in "Original Silhouettes."

An added feature at the dance hall for the week will be the presenting of the latest society tetrachoreon steps by The Van Dyke, an event which for every evening during intermission.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughed at on account of your fat, but go to A. W. Dows & Co., or any good druggist, and get a box of Oil of Korden capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Wash yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body.

HOT WAVE HITS WAR ZONE

Allied Soldiers Made Attack in Sweltering Mid-Summer Heat—Fearful Carnage

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN THE FIELD, July 30, via London, July 31.—French and British soldiers made today's attack in sweltering mid-summer heat. The first real hot wave of the season struck northern France last night, and this morning British and French infantry co-operated in an action north of the Somme, in front of Guillemont and Maurepas.

Persistent hot light, which did not permit the gunners to register their targets, had delayed any important infantry action. Yesterday the light became better as the heat grew tropic and offensive operations were renewed.

Every day the Germans have been increasing the number of guns and men in the Guillemont sector which is among the last portions of the line held by them. By prisoners taken from German battalions, or by those found in the trenches, it has been learned that the Germans are still in their old second line fortifications with maze trenches and deep dugouts built long ago and strengthened since the offensive began. The Germans appear to regard this sector of critical importance since the British broke the second line on the adjoining front for a length of two miles on July 14.

Fight Under Broiling Sun

Part of the British attack struck from the bloody Tones wood and the other part on the flank while the Germans tried to man machine guns as usual after a British bombardment. The Germans resisted the British bitterly, fighting under the broiling sun as every inch of ground was precious.

The British got possession of the railroad station which they had reached in a previous attack, and this time, according to last reports, were still holding it. Some of the attackers got into Guillemont and reached the church, where the Germans, swarming in dugouts, outnumbered the advance party which fought against their toe on all sides. It was one of those hand to hand and hide and seek conflicts in the village ruins of indescribable ferocity. The British had to retire from the edge of Guillemont, but made good a considerable advance southward on the flank of the town, where, through the hot night, fighting continued.

Fearful Carnage

Perspiration made white water courses in the dust of the men's faces today and their eyes looked out through masks so thick that their faces seemed to be covered with some kind of armor. Motor trucks passed like phantoms in thick clouds on the road. Gunners, stripped to their skin, kept on serving their guns at top speed.

Soldiers who reached Guillemont speak of the fearful carnage among the Germans from the British gunfire, owing to the masses of Germans concentrated before the British bombardment. They said they could hear the moans of the German wounded for water above the bombing and rifle and machine gun fire. With the news of the shooting of Capt. Fryatt fresh in their minds, the British went into the charge in a fury, swearing they would avenge his murder.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Appropos of all the talk concerning the high cost of living in these enlightened days, a glance at the columns of The Sun of a quarter of a century ago, reveals the fact that it also costs considerably more to bury the dead today, than it did quarter of a century ago. The Sun of quarter of a century ago, this date, had a lengthy article headed "Burial Reform," in which it presented an argument favoring less extravagance and ostentation at funerals. In his article The Sun compared the prices charged by undertakers of that day with those charged 25 years prior to that time or half a century ago, together with comparative costs for coffins, flowers, etc., in each case a big increase in cost being noted. Among other things, The Sun said: "One item of expense now entering into the cost of burials is the embalming. Nowadays most bodies are so prepared, thus dispensing largely with the clumsy ice-boxes so common in former years."

The embalming process was then coming into general use, and as usual with reforms of a radical nature, at first met with much opposition on the part of those who didn't understand it. Old timers will recall the unsightly ice-boxes referred to, and popularly called "freezers," in which bodies were placed on ice to preserve them. Those have all passed away and the younger generation has never seen one, and it's just as well. If embalming is a barbarous process, freezing was 100 times more so. The added expense of embalming is one to which nobody now will object, but just ask any old time undertaker and he will tell you of the trouble he once had trying to convince the friends of dead persons that embalming was a better process than that offered by the "freezer."

Reference to the "freezer" recalls the old story of the variety stage about the party who were travelling on a railroad train one hot day and were "crazy" with the thirst. The host of the railroad offered them some lukewarm water, and when one of the party remarked that he'd give a dollar for a piece of ice, a little Hebrew, who overheard the remark, suddenly left his seat and went into another car, returning in a short time with a good sized piece of ice, for which he was paid a dollar.

A short time afterward he was offered another dollar if he could get two more and he went forth and returned with a second piece. Later, when made a third offer, he again disappeared, but returning empty-handed said to the startled company: "I can't get any more, the undertaker says he can't spare it, as he's going a long distance."

Perhaps some will recall the pest of trouble that a local provision dealer once got into, as the result of idle gossip. An undertaker moved next door to him, and some was started the story that the undertaker used to preserve bodies in his neighbor's big ice chest. There were actually some people easy enough to believe the yarn, and the dealer was in "ditch" with some of his customers, for a time, as a result.

In regard to the cost of burials at funerals, the old Sun said: "The cost of burials was only $1.50 in 1891. It is now $3 in the forenoon and $2.50 in the afternoon, and the local backmen claim that they charge less than is charged in other cities." Today, the backmen charge $4 flat, regardless of the time of the funeral, though the cemeteries are so far away. The backmen today will tell you that they have to pay their drivers more, and that's a fact, and it is also a fact that since the industrial boom struck Lowell the backmen have difficulty in getting drivers when there is a large funeral. In days gone by men and boys hung around stables and picked up odd change driving and doing chores, but they have all gone in for steady employment during recent years, and drivers are scarce throughout the city.

The old Sun concluded its article with the following observations:

"Reform in funerals is earnestly needed. It will not come in its entirety until those whose pecuniary ability to afford the most expensive funerals no longer doubt, direct that their burials shall be as unostentatious as possible. Probably it will not do to expect a return of the old fashioned coffin, but if the real rich would insist upon being buried in the simplest and less expensive styles of caskets, the example might be powerful on the less well-to-do. It is the poor and the very poor who suffer most from the extravagant ideas pertaining to burials and it rests with the rich to set an example of Christian simplicity. A profusion of flowers, especially when they are wrought into the foolish shapes now affected, is vulgar, and any expense that is not in keeping with the means of those responsible for the burial is positively wicked. Extravagance in the employment of carriages, of flowers, of funeral trappings generally is to be condemned without cessation. We need better customs and there is no better work for the true reformer than to assist in promoting them in this matter of burials. Let every respect be shown to those who have gone before, but let it not be displayed by costly extravagance that we cannot afford."

Some people will say that the above holds good today, while others are of the opinion that the reform asked for in the above has taken place to a certain extent and there is a more general simplicity to the funerals of today than there was quarter of a century ago. The editor's belief that the rich should set the example to the poor might have caused the remark from some, that neither in life nor in death do the poor get close enough to the rich to observe how they do things within their home circles.

Ho, for the Beach!

While riding from Lynn to Nahant in a public conveyance, a short time ago, the chauffeur upon learning that I came from Lowell remarked: "Do you know that the Lowell people are beginning to come back to Lynn beach? It's a fact. For several years but few of them showed up here during the summer and we thought that they had left us forever, but a couple of years ago we began to notice them coming again, and this year there has been quite a number of them here."

Then he said: "Do you remember the old days when the Irish societies of Lowell came down here every year?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer, he replied:

"Those were the lively days around Lynn and Lynn beach. We made some money in those days. The Lowell people were good spenders. They always came down for a good time and they had it, and paid for it. They were no pikers, those Lowell people!"

The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society of quarter of a century ago occurred at this time of year, and the old Sun reported it as follows:

"The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society was held at Lynn Wednesday, and it was the most successful ever conducted by that organization. Early in the morning, as usual, the band paraded the streets to arouse from their slumbers all who intended making the trip, and soon the crowds were seen wending their way to the Boston & Maine depot. The company provided 25 cars, all that they could find at the time and although these were crowded, there were enough left behind to make another decent picnic. In about half an hour after 18 additional cars were despatched, while many took regular trains and went by way of Boston. The procession from the depot at Lynn to the beach was a leading attraction that was witnessed by thousands. For weeks previous, some of the Lynn people had been making preparations for the carnival and yet the supply of edibles at some of the refreshment stands early in the afternoon. The day was spent in roaming about the beach, bathing and dancing, everybody seeming to enjoy the occasion as much as possible. It is estimated that at least 3500 persons were present. The party returned to Lowell about 9 o'clock, the return in the cars apparently being not the least enjoyable part of the trip. John Doherty filled the part of chairman of the day with his customary solicitude for the comfort and good treatment of all. Post 42 band furnished music throughout the day. Charles H. O'Donnell was the treasurer and was loaded down with cash on his return home. In the afternoon Lynn bathing suits were at a premium, the price set upon them being from 50 cents upward and then not half that wanted them could get them."

For many years the late John Doherty ran the annual picnic of the Benevolents at Lynn beach, and with such pronounced success that none ever disputed his right to be the boss. As soon as the leaves appeared on the trees in the spring window-cards would appear on the land announcing the annual picnic to take place some few months later, for John believed in preparedness even in those ancient days, and gave the picnicers plenty of time in which to prepare for the event. Then while undoubtedly he had heard the old song, "You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear," Mr. Doherty took no chances on mother's forgetfulness, but had a band through the streets at sunrise on the morning of the picnic going up one side street and down another playing their heads off in an effort to wake up everybody. In fact before the band had left for the beach at all, it had done a hard day's work. The picnicers got to be such monster events for the city of Lynn that all the factories and workshops made it a practice to shut down half a day on what was called in that city "Lowell Irish Day." While the other Irish societies also held their annual picnics the one event that nobody missed was the "Ho, for the Beach," for as such it became known locally as that line headed all announcements of the event, and hence long ago an unkind was dubbed the event "The Annual Wash," a name which stuck to it until it went into history, and which quarter of a century ago drew down the wrath of the editor of the old Sun. In the following remarks: "It may be that there is something intensely humorous in alluding to the excursion of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society as the 'Annual Wash,' in fact there must be or the cheap newspaper wits who feed the local columns of carelessly edited sheets would not so frequently employ it. But to self-respecting people who are Irish of Irish extraction, and yet at the same time not unduly sensitive it carries a sting that its pleasantness doesn't hide."

When Bicycles Were New

Says the Sun of quarter of a century ago:

"An old man of Irish extraction, employed in sweeping the streets, was considerably shocked the other day upon seeing a woman by past him on a bicycle. Dropping his broom and retreating back a few steps as he saw the lady disappear, he said that it was the first time that he had ever seen a man wear petticoats. He would not believe that a woman would ever think of walking on wheels."

The bicycle race was only beginning quarter of a century ago, and not many women had taken to it at that time, hence the old gentleman's astonishment. A few years later, however, everybody was riding a bicycle and so numerous and popular were the bikes, that the city of Lowell in repaving Bridge street built a bicycle path along the curbing in that street from Merrimack square to 15th street. And now the bicycles are rarely seen.

Chaffeur in Birmingham

The Sun of quarter of a century ago reprinted from the Birmingham, Ala. News, the following:

"Bully for you! That's what Birmingham feels like saying to J. L. Chalfoux, the enterprising First Avenue clothiers and to S. Berthea & Co., the live real estate agents. The latter succeeded yesterday in closing a deal with J. L. Chalfoux & Co. for the sale of the 100x1000 foot lot on the southwest corner of First Avenue and Nineteenth street for $50,000 cash. It is the intention of the purchase to commence the construction of a five-story brick building on this lot at an early date and push it to completion. J. L. Chalfoux & Co. have not yet had an anniversary in Birmingham and therefore their purchase is another and convincing proof of the recognition by all live business men of the solidity of Birmingham."

That was probably more money than they had seen in one time in Birmingham since the war. Mr. Chalfoux went down there 25 years ago and woke up the town. He showed the natives some eastern methods of doing business and in a short time had them all "feeding out of his hand" as it were. Some of these days his son Harry may go down and show them a chip of the old block.

THE OLD TIMER.

REBECCA WARREN DEAD

WAS PUPIL OF URSULINE CONVENT—FATHER WAS PRESIDENT OF OLD LOWELL BANK

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Rebecca Bennett Warren, the last surviving pupil of the famous Ursuline convent in Charlestown, which was burned by a fanatical mob in 1831, died early yesterday at the Hotel Bristol, where she had made her home for years. She was in her 95th year.

Mrs. Warren was one of the best known of Boston's oldest residents. She was the daughter of Joshua Bennett of Billerica and Boston. He was a large real estate owner in Boston and Lowell, and president of the Old Lowell National bank.

Mrs. Warren had no brothers. Her only sister was Mrs. Ellen B. Holden, mother of the late Hon. Joshua B. Holden of Boston. Mrs. Fannie A. Tinkham, mother of Congressman George Holden Tinkham, was a niece. She and her sister, Mrs. Holden, and many other non-Catholic Boston girls attended the Ursuline convent in 1831 and 1832. During her life Mrs. Warren gave freely to public and private charities. A few years ago, after she had made a gift of $5000 to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Cardinal O'Connell called on her to express his thanks.

She had an interesting life, having spent many years abroad, meeting and being entertained by royalty.

She was a Unitarian and a member of the Second church, Boston. She was possessed of considerable wealth, owning much real estate in the North and West ends.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILE TRUCK

An automobile truck which was recovered in this city last week was yesterday identified by Harry G. Higbee of 13 Austin street, Hyde Park, as his machine. The car was stolen last week.

Last Friday Mark McCann of the City Hall garage received a telephone call to go to the Mammoth road and upon arriving there found a truck and it was towed to the garage in Moody street where it was stored. When no one called for it Mr. McCann became suspicious and notified the police.

Lieut. Martin Maher was assigned to the case and found that the registration number had been granted to Mr. Higbee of Hyde Park. The latter was notified and when he came to this city he identified the automobile as his.

HEAVY DAMAGE TO CROP

Reduction of 1,350,000 Bales in Prospective Production — Sensational Advance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Heavy damage to the growing cotton crop between June 25 and July 25 has caused a reduction of 1,350,000 bales in the prospective production. The August cotton report of the department of agriculture, announced today, indicates a production of 12,916,000, equivalent to 500 pound bales, compared with 14,266,000 bales forecast from the condition of the crop June 25.

The condition during the month dropped 8.8 per cent to 72.3 of a normal.

SENSATIONAL ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A sensational rapid advance of about $1.75 per bale followed the publication of the government's crop report on the cotton market here today. Just before the official condition of 72.3 per cent against $1.1 last month and the 10-year average of 78.5 was published, a canvass of local exchange members indicated an average of expectation of 76.3 per cent and the government report was also far below the most bullish of recent private figures.

HEAVY DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Condition of the growing cotton crop on July 25 indicates a total production of 12,916,000, equivalent 500-pound bales the department of agriculture today announced in its August cotton report. That compares with 14,266,000 bales forecast last month by the bureau of crop estimates basing its calculations on the condition of the crop on June 25, and with 11,191,520 bales, last year's final production, 16,134,530 in 1914, 14,156,486 bales in 1913, and 12,763,421 bales in 1912. The final output, however, will be larger or smaller than above forecast according as conditions hereafter are better or worse than average conditions.

Condition of the crop on July 25 as compiled from reports of agents, and correspondents in the cotton belt was placed at 72.3 per cent of a normal, compared with 81.1 on June 25, 75.4 on July 25 last year, 76.4 in 1914 and 75.5, the 10-year average on July 25.

During the month storms caused some damage to the crop. In the first week weather was favorable in most places and the crop made satisfactory growth but owing to earlier unfavorable conditions some fields were irregular and in places the plants were small and backward. Boll weevil were reported damaging the crop in Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Louisiana.

High winds and heavy rains of a tropical storm did serious damage in portions of the central and east Gulf states during the second week. Much of the crop in the lowlands was flooded and uplands were badly washed and the crop otherwise injured. In extreme western Florida the crop was damaged from 25 to 50 per cent by the storm. Continued rains favored boll weevil increase and prevented much needed cultivation. In the western portion of the belt and northern part east of the Mississippi, weather was generally favorable and the crop made good progress. During the latter part of the month some damage was sustained from floods in the northern section. The weather west of the Mississippi was favorable but in the east it was less so, especially in the lowlands. Increased damage by boll weevil was reported.

Statistics compiled by the bureau of crop estimates show the value of the 1915 cotton crop was 10 per cent more than that of 1914 while the production was 39 per cent less. Total value of the 1915 crop was $794,000,000 compared with $720,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop. The 1913 crop was valued at $1,027,000,000.

Lint was valued at $628,000,000 for the 1915 crop, paying producers about 11.22 cents a pound as calculated on average based upon monthly prices and monthly sales. For the 1914 crop the lint value was $591,000,000, paying producers about 7.33 cents a pound. The value of seed of the 1915 crop was $106,000,000, paying producers $33.66 a ton compared with $129,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop's seed which paid producers $17.90 a ton. The increase in the price of the seed over 1914 was greater than the increase in the price of lint.

the constitution manifestly requires that this work be done on the first Tuesday or soon thereafter. It is apparent that the Middlesex commissioners had already done the work because when they assembled this morning Chairman Levi S. Gould handed out to newspapers printed copies of the new plan.

The first district includes wards 1, 2 and 3 of Cambridge which at present elect two democratic representatives. Under the new plan only one representative is allowed, so the democrats lose one there. The second and third districts remain unchanged, both being in Cambridge and electing three representatives each, all of whom are republicans.

The fourth remains unchanged and consists of Newton with three representatives. The fifth, Waltham, will continue to elect two representatives. The sixth district is Natick with one democratic representative and the seventh consists of Framingham with one representative, republican.

The eighth district includes the towns of Ashland, Holliston, Hopkinton and Sherburne and is allowed one representative who will undoubtedly be a republican.

The ninth takes in Marlboro with one democratic representative and the tenth includes Roxbury, Hudson, Maynard and Stow. It is a republican district and is allowed one representative.

Change in Eleventh
In the 11th a change has been made. Ayer has been taken out and put in the 12th while Tyngsboro has been changed from the 12th into the 11th. Bedford is taken from the 13th so that the new 11th will consist of Acton, Bedford, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Littleton, Tyngsboro and Westford. It will have one representative who will be a republican. The 12th will be unchanged except that Ayer takes the place of Tyngsboro. It will include Ashby, Ayer, Dunstable, Groton, Pepperell, Shirley and Townsend. This district will be republican and will have one representative.

The 13th district will be unchanged except that Bedford is dropped out and put in the 11th. The new district will include Concord, Lexington, Sudbury, Wayland and Weston, all of which will be represented by one representative, republican.

The Lowell Districts

The 14th, as already explained, will consist of wards one, two and nine of Lowell and will be allowed two representatives. The 15th is made up of wards three, six, seven and eight of Lowell and will have three representatives. It is a republican district. The 16th district will include wards four and five of Lowell, both of which are strongly democratic.

The 17th is practically a new district and includes Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Tewksbury and Wilmington with one representative.

The 18th is changed by the addition of Stoneham which at present is in a district by itself. Under the new plan it goes in with Reading and Woburn and the district will be entitled to two representatives.

Wakefield continues a district by itself with a single representative, the number being 13 instead of 21 as before. The city of Everett, likewise will continue as before, with two representatives in a district numbered 20 instead of 24. The same is true of Malden, which will have three representatives, the district being numbered 21 instead of 23. The 22d remains unchanged consisting of Melrose with one representative.

Somerville will continue to have six representatives, all of whom will be republicans in two districts, numbered 23 and 24 instead of 25 and 26. Wards 1, 3, 4 and 5 make up the 23d and wards 2, 6 and 7 the 24th. In the 25th district wards 6 of Medford is dropped out of the present 25th district so that the 25th will hereafter consist of Winchester and ward 3 of Medford. All of the remaining wards of Medford grouped together in the 26th district will elect two representatives. Arlington which has heretofore been joined with Lex-

REJECTS ENGLAND'S OFFER

Germany Refuses to Permit Passage of Supplies Into Poland Under Conditions—Note to U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Germany has informed the United States that on account of the "impracticable conditions" imposed by Great Britain upon the shipment of foodstuffs from America into Poland, further negotiations for co-operation in Polish relief work are devoid of purpose.

Owing to favorable harvest prospects, however, the imperial government says relief apparently will be unnecessary after Oct. 1, next.

The German position is stated in a note handed to Ambassador Gerard on July 29 and made public today at the state department. It apparently is a final rejection of Great Britain's offer made in a recent communication acquiesced in by France to permit the passage of American food supplies into Poland on condition that the occupying Teutonic armies would not seize or remove native products.

No mention is made of President Wilson's personal letter to Emperor William, similar to those sent to other European rulers, appealing for joint action in arranging to feed the starving Poles.

"From the very beginning the imperial government declared its readiness to offer its assistance in order that the distress apparent in those parts of Russia which are occupied by German troops and systematically wasted and deprived of all vitals for the use of the remaining inhabitants by the retreating Russian hosts be eased by the relief work of the United States of America, which is organized on such a great scale.

The imperial government has particularly offered all guarantees consistent with the requirements of war that the imported foodstuffs will only serve the needs of the population of the territory occupied.

Accordingly the American relief might have been realized several months ago with the same provisions as in northern France, had not the government of Great Britain prevented its accomplishment by clinging to its unfounded and impracticable conditions. In this way it has become practically impossible to convey a considerable amount of foodstuffs from America to Poland for the expiration of the term set as the end of the relief work is October 1. Accordingly further negotiations are devoid of purpose.

"On the other hand, thanks to the intense culture of the land effected by the imperial government, by using the means available and every effort possible in the occupied territory, and owing to the favorable harvest prospects, a relief action after October 1, 1916, can apparently be dispensed with. The fact that the population of Poland and Lithuania will to some extent suffer until a new crop is lodged and later on will some times have to put up with straightened circumstances can, therefore, not be laid to the blame of the imperial government but to that of Great Britain."

TRAFFIC OFFICER HURT

GIRL DRIVER MISTOOK TRAFFIC OFFICER'S SIGNAL—TWO BONES FRACTURED

Officer William Pierce of Salisbury was painfully injured when an automobile owned by Thomas O'Neill of Newburyport and driven by Mr. O'Neill's daughter ran into him, knocked him down and ran over his right leg, while he was performing his duties as traffic officer at the Centre Sunday afternoon.

There were two girls in the car and they were rounding the curve at the eastern end of the Centre, near the pavilion, having started for Newburyport, when Officer Pierce gave them a signal. Pierce claims he signalled for them to stop, but the girls say that he beckoned for them to proceed. Pierce turned his back on the machine that the girls were in and turned his attention to another car that was backing into a space for parking. He stepped backwards into the path of the O'Neill car and before they could hit the car to a stop they had run over his legs.

He was taken into the machine and carried to the police station and Dr. Mullin of Amesbury was called. After making an examination, Dr. Mullin ordered his removal to the Anna Jacques hospital in Newburyport and he was found to have some small bones in his right foot broken and his right leg wrenched.

DISCUSS NAVAL PROMOTIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Navy department bureau chiefs were today called before house conferees considering the naval appropriation bill for opinions on a senate amendment proposing promotion of captains and rear admirals by selection by a naval commission instead of by seniority. Conferences between house and senate members will be resumed tomorrow. Promotion by selection is designed to get younger and more competent men into active fleet duty in the higher positions.

FOR LAWN TENNIS CLUB

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—William M. Johnston of San Francisco and Joseph J. Armstrong of Philadelphia were favored by the best weather of the tournament for their final match for the Longwood lawn tennis cup at the Longwood Cricket club today. Johnston, who is the national champion, has played strongly throughout a series in which many experts have succumbed and Armstrong has figured as the winner in some of these upsets.

TWO PAINTERS DROPPED ALDERMAN IN COURT

NOT FROM PAYROLL, BUT FROM THE ROOF—TWO MEN FELL 25 FEET

Edward Miller, living at 35 Albin street, and William E. Groux, residing at 318 Moody street, both painters, had a narrow escape from being seriously hurt this morning about ten o'clock when the ladder they were working on parted and both men were thrown to the ground 25 feet below. Fortunately they escaped with slight bruises and a shaking up. The men were painting a building belonging to John P. Quinn in Gorham street, near Wood street, and had a large extension ladder supported by ropes from the ridgepole of the roof. The ladder was about 25 feet above the ground when suddenly without warning the ladder parted and both men were precipitated to the ground. Those who witnessed the accident expected to find both men badly injured but after an examination it was found they were suffering from bruises and a general shaking up.

COMMISSIONER WOOD CHARGED WITH VIOLATING ORDINANCE HE MADE HIMSELF

HAVERHILL, Aug. 1.—Alderman Roswell L. Wood, a municipal councillor and the commissioner of streets and highways, applied at the office of the clerk-of-the district court yesterday afternoon and insisted that a complaint, charging him with a violation of the traffic ordinances which he himself made, be called for a hearing in court today. His request was acceded to and witnesses were summoned last night.

The alderman was charged by Traffic Officer Frank E. Kelly with having violated the traffic ordinance several days ago on Elm corner, when it is said the alderman turned from Main street to Water street. Alderman Wood has engaged Judge John J. Ryan to appear in court for him today. He also notified City Marshal Mack that he desired him to personally prosecute the case on behalf of the police department.

Patrolman Kelly, the complaining officer, will resign from the police department this week.

CONSUL MAHIN AND HIS WIFE WERE PASSENGERS ON DUTCH MAIL STEAMER SUNK BY MINE

THE HAGUE, via London, Aug. 1.—Frank W. Mahin, the American consul at Amsterdam, and his wife, Mrs. Abbie Mahin, were the only American passengers on board the Dutch mail steamer Koninklijk Wilhelmina, bound from Flushing for Sheerness, which was sunk by a mine yesterday morning off North Hinder Lightship. Both were saved.

This information was given to the Associated Press by the Zealand Steamship company.

FUNERALS

MURPHY—The funeral of the late Edward A. Murphy took place this morning at 9.30 o'clock from his home, 319 Broadway and was largely attended, including a delegation from the Flushing club, the following delegation from Lowell: Mr. F. O. Kelley, William Scanlon, Andrew Teague and William Kennedy. From the local bottlers No. 190, William Bagley and Harry L. Hemery. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church, where at 9.45 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. James Kerrigan. There was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were John F. Murphy, John J. Mahan, Joseph L. Cronin, Thomas Mahoney, James Kane and Patrick Royal. At the grave Rev. Fr. Kerrigan read the committal prayers and the burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

500 PEACE MEETINGS

PRAYERS FOR PEACE ON SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR

LONDON, August 1.—The second anniversary of the world war is being observed throughout the whole of Scandinavia, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co. Two hundred peace meetings are being held in Denmark and three hundred in Sweden. All the church bells are being rung and prayers for peace are being said.

of the maddened horse. Its hoofs struck the carriage and the infant was hurled through the air.

Mrs. Sherry, who had witnessed the accident from a window, ran from her home and attempted to snatch the baby as it fell. The wheels of the wagon bowled her over and she sustained cuts and bruises.

The onward rush of the horse crushed the carriage and threw the Duggan boy to one side of the road. The impact and the swerving of the team threw the McMahon boy from the seat to the sidewalk. Both boys were cut and bruised.

An ambulance was called and the baby hurried to a hospital. It was dead when the ambulance arrived there.

Five minutes after the start of its wild dash the horse was found peacefully munching grass in a neighboring street. Neither the horse nor the team was damaged.

LADY LOOKABOUT

I have been wading through reams of reports of the National Convention of Teachers recently held in New York city, trying to discover the word that would express the spirit of the convention.

The word I have decided on is "practical." The thirty thousand teachers in attendance at the convention came out strongly for the practical side of education and the teacher who clings to the old-time idea that the function of the public school is "to train the mind," is hopelessly out of the running. A clear-cut distinction is made between the social and human sides of a child and his intellectual side. It is the belief of present-day educators that training, which gives power, should be added to teaching which gives merely information; to the training of the mind should be added training of the body and of the conscience. To emphasize these features of education, pressure should be brought to bear upon vocational training, manual training, agriculture, home economics, and the education of humankind.

It has been said of woman that she cannot generalize, that she can specify only. I should not be true to the records of my sex if I did not at this point stop generalizing about the keynote of the convention, and bring home to my own city an application of what I have gathered from the voluminous reports. Here in Lowell, strong emphasis is brought to bear upon vocational training, manual training, agriculture, home economics, and the education of humankind.

have been in evidence with their little exhibits at various fairs and contests. The State Normal school, in conjunction with the local school department, has already planned an extensive course in the education of immigrants, under the direction of state university extension bureau. So, all in all, home conditions compare very favorably with the ideals and aims of the country's foremost educators, and wherever we may be, we need not blush for the schools of Lowell.

Up to Mr. Hughes

Women all over the country are on the qui vive to learn the attitude of Charles E. Hughes on the question of equal suffrage. It is a live issue and one which cannot be evaded by a seer of political preference. In his speech of acceptance to be given this week, Mr. Hughes must state clearly and without the possibility of equivocation, his actual position in regard to the Susan B. Anthony amendment. Many feel that he will pledge himself to its support without reservation, while more are confident that he will advocate state option. Needless to say, his election or failure of election depends largely on his position in regard to suffrage for women. The enfranchisement of women is no longer considered a radical principle. It has survived the period of its inception during which its sponsors met the ridicule of the world with a zeal which savored of the radical. It has passed the stage of laboriously converting this one and that one, or by proving a case here and a case there. In the war-stricken countries, suffragists have abandoned their propaganda work, declared a great political truce, and at once offered their organized strength to their stricken countries. They have taken up the work of the men who have been called to arms—in agricultural lines; in trades hitherto considered solely the province of men; in the commonest and hardest of labors; on the battlefield as nurses with a self-negation, a fortitude and a bravery equalling if not exceeding that of the soldiers themselves. They have kept their countries on a "going" basis in the absence of their men. The trials and struggles through which they have passed during these two years have placed both men and women on a higher plane of thinking where much of pettiness and unreason are left behind. They are meeting on common ground, as it were, which is as it should be: brothers and sisters, born of the same mother, brought up sharing the same family life, receiving the same training, from their education and environment sharing the same views of life, why should man-suffrage prevail to the exclusion of woman-suffrage? Through war, trouble, and stress, the struggling nations are awakening to a sense of right and justice in regard to the position of women in the economy of national life which was denied to these nations in times of peace and security.

There's Nothing New

Uncle Sam's discovery that preserving may be done without sugar is a timely one, but not altogether new. A practical housekeeper with whom I have been discussing the matter, has canned blueberries and other small fruit without sugar for many years, and finds the flavors fully as good as when the same fruits are canned with sugar. With the larger fruits, however, pears, peaches and peaches, she finds the sugarless method unsatisfactory, as the flavor is impaired and the appearance suffers. She likened the result to serving vegetables without salt. No addition of salt can equal the salting done while the vegetable is cooking. So in the case of canning without sugar, no subsequent addition of sugar is quite as satisfactory as using sugar at the time of canning. If Uncle Sam could devise a plan for keeping the price of sugar normal during canning time, he would gladden the hearts of a nation of resentful housekeepers.

She's Over Seven

Ever since advertising became the important element it is, the great aim of merchants has been to produce striking advertisements. Various schemes have been resorted to in order to make the appeal striking, and in the humble opinion of Lady Lookabout, a Merrimack street merchant, scored a climax a few days ago. The appeal was indeed striking, in fact it struck her on the top of the head. She was coming down the aforementioned street with eyes straight ahead, as you know women do in passing through a neighborhood of show-windows, when with a soft little rush, a small girl's dress left its overhead mooring outside the store and landed plump on her head. Lady Lookabout looked about as usual, and the dress slipped to the ground. As she stood looking at it, she observed a tag which said, "7 years." Clearly, the garment was not intended for Lady Lookabout, for, painful as it is for her to acknowledge it, many moons have passed since she was seven. She is over seven, emphatically, so she daintily (for her) stepped over the prostrate garment and proceeded on her way, doggedly "looking about" to keep herself from muttering—"Of all the sad words of tongue or pen"—and so on—I cannot bear to write it. Now if the progressive merchant had assailed the aforementioned lady with a charming bathing suit, decently long, yet smartly short, possibly he would have made a sale, but while his method is most striking, his knowledge of the psychology of selling to women is bad—very bad.

The Boys Like 'Em

All the summer fashion journals, and all the smart ladies' furnishing stores' advertisements designate the present fashions by one word—"sports." There are sports hats, sports waists, skirts, coats, sweaters, boots, gloves, and vests, everything is sports, and running the limit as they do in color they are positively refreshing to look upon, whatever the occasion. coats and sweaters of heavy silk, some in broad, brilliant stripes such as vivid green and white, red and white, black and white, gold and blue, and numerous other combinations. These brilliant coats and sweaters are worn over white skirts that are very short and therefore show considerable of the footgear. Sports hats to correspond with the coats add to these charming summer outfits.

IMPORTANT DECISION POLITICAL CALENDAR

Special to The Sun

STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 1.—Injured employees who develop, as a result of the injury, a mental condition which leads them to believe that they are unable to work, are entitled to recover compensation under the terms of the workmen's compensation act, even though the physical incapacity is as a matter of fact ended, under a decision handed down yesterday by the industrial accident board.

This decision, the first of its kind and one which undoubtedly opens the way for payments of much greater benefits to injured workmen, was reached in the case of Mercer Marlo of Benson, formerly employed by A. D. Ellis & Company of that city.

Marlo was employed as a picker tender, on Jan. 17 last he suffered an injury to his right knee and shoulder, and it was admitted by the insurance company that the injury was one for which compensation should be paid. Payments were made until March 20, when the company stopped them on the ground that the employee was able to return to work.

He immediately brought the matter to the attention of the accident board, and as a result an arbitration committee was appointed to determine the facts.

Before this committee evidence was introduced to show that the man made one attempt to work in the mill where he was injured, but gave up after ten minutes. Later he tried to work as a farm hand, but again had to quit.

It was found that Marlo could raise his right arm to the level of his shoulder, but no higher. One of the physicians testified that the man "is not working both because he lacks the desire to work and because of the pain in his arm; he lacks the desire to work because he is afraid it will hurt him. His mental attitude is such that he believes he has a great deal more pain than the injury would warrant his having; and this is as disabling as if the actual pain existed. His general appearance indicates that his condition is preying on him, and his mental condition is getting worse."

Accepting this testimony as final, the board finds that the injured employee is entitled to receive payments until he secures such light work as he can do. "While it may be true that physically he was able to return to work on March 20, 1916," the board says, "his mental attitude growing out of his injury was such that he himself did not feel that he was able to work, and his mind dwelling upon his troubles exaggerated them to a point where he was unable to work because of this neurotic condition. We find that this condition of neuroticism exists, and flows from the accident."

The employee is advised, however, that he should accept any position which may be offered him in which the work will be light, and his failure to do so will justify the suspension by the company of further payments.

His License Suspended

Following receipt of a copy of the record of the Lowell court, showing that Robert J. Ledwell of Somerville paid a fine of $25 last Wednesday after being convicted of operating a motor cycle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the highway commissioners announced yesterday that Ledwell's license to operate motor vehicles in this state has been revoked for a period of one year, as required by the new law, which went into effect July first.

BABY KILLED BY RUNAWAY

MOTHER AND TWO BOYS ARE INJURED AT LYNN—HORSE WAS CHAINED BY FLY BITE

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—A baby was killed, its mother and two boys injured, and a dozen pedestrians fled in panic, yesterday, when a runaway produce team dashed through River street place, Lynn.

The baby was Zimond Sherry, 4-months-old son of Mrs. J. Sherry of 8 River street place. The two boys injured were William Duggan, 8 years of age, of 65 Camden street, and Geo. McMahon, 7 years of age, of 59 Spencer street. All of those injured will recover.

Young Duggan was wheeling the Sherry infant in its carriage across the place. The horse, standing quietly in the street, suddenly became crazed, presumably from the bite of a fly. Despite all efforts of George McMahon, who was on the seat of the wagon, the horse ran wildly down the narrow street. Mothers and children fled from doorsteps.

The Duggan boy started running, but became confused and ran in front

Has Granted a Patent, Both on the Form of Flake and Process of Manufacture ofNew
Post Toasties

This remarkable recognition—no other corn flake on the market has achieved it—marks this new food as something distinctly different from "corn flakes" of the past.

What Is This Difference?

Compare New Post Toasties with the average corn flake—observe the tiny bubbles which cover their surface. These bubbles are caused by a new method of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat.

By this process the true corn flavour is developed in all its sweetness. Eaten dry they are a delicious morsel. With cream or milk they are a revelation to the taste. Note the "substance" of New Post Toasties. Unlike old-style "corn flakes" they do not break or "chaff" in the package. They do not mush down under milk or cream. They are wonderfully delicious.

And they come to you direct from the giant ovens of our three great Toastie Factories, untouched by human hand and triply sealed in a moisture-proof container which preserves their fresh Golden Goodness for your table.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

THE JERSEY CONFLAGRATION

A fire that started on the Leligh pier on the Jersey side across from the city of New York last Sunday exploded tremendous quantities of war munitions of the allies, inflicted a property loss estimated at $45,000,000, brought death and injury to many and afforded an awful lesson to the entire country. New York had never before seen anything so terribly spectacular. Blazing barges filled with shells drifted in the harbor, immense rockets exploded overhead, plate glass to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars fell from skyscrapers and state stores and millions of startled citizens fled from the homes, fearing that an earthquake or some other destructive force would wipe out the entire city.

It may be days before the true facts of the fire will become known and they may never be known, but already the inevitable investigation is under way. As in all accidents to munitions for the allies, plots are suspected that if proved will place an enormous responsibility on the shoulders of those guilty. Yet, plots or no plots, the blame may be partly laid to the door of those who permitted such enormous quantities of destructive commodities to lay in barges and freight cars so near to two teeming cities. Enough had transpired during the past two years to show the country the dangers attendant on the storing and transportation of high explosives and so far as precautions can go, New York and Jersey City should have been safeguarded.

In a glaring headline the New York World of Monday declared "Munitions Blow-up Due to Disregard of Law," and it remains for federal, state and city authorities to determine who broke the law. It is said that an independent transportation company tied a barge of high explosives to a railroad pier, but opinions differ as to whether the fire started on this barge or was communicated to it from a freight car nearby. A railroad agent, the superintendent of a warehouse and the president of a lumberage company will have to answer in the courts, but before the investigation is through, the courts may be face to face with a more complicated situation than is now anticipated.

Entirely apart from the awful destruction brought by the fire and the bursting shrapnel shells, the descriptive writers made the most of the sentimental value of the Statue of Liberty which, though bombarded by the fire winds, held its light aloft over the terrible scene. If the fire was the result of a plot—and there have been many such—the triumphant statue may serve as a symbol; if it was due to carelessness and indifference, we may well ask if officials do not often abuse the liberty afforded by a democratic government. Whatever the investigation may prove, it will be long before New York forgets this experience which gave it a slight impression of what has happened in many great cities of Europe during two years of war. Here indeed was a spectacle that to New York was far more vivid than the bombardment scene from the Fall of a Nation.

PROTEST AGAINST BLACKLIST

The protest of the American government against England's blacklisting of American firms is more emphatic than was expected, but the ground is given for every firm deduction. England is told that her policy is unfair and illegal; that it would impose hardships on neutrals and have effects which are not apparent on a superficial reading; that it would hurt legitimate American business which has no connection with the war and that it might react in a far different way from what is expected. One of the strongest declarations is that the United States has a perfect right to trade with the central powers, under the rules of international law which the government of the United States deems the government of Great Britain to have too lightly and too frequently disregarded.

The note is a fair and dispassionate statement of facts and opinions but in sporting parlance it has "the punch." It is shall not suffice to show to England how foolish her blacklist boycott has been, England does not care to be shown and has not weighed the possible consequences of a policy that may so easily prove a boomerang. In her zeal to get back at Germany for the successful voyage of the Deutschland, England may have thought she could ride roughshod over American rights, but with saner reflection she may think otherwise. In this note President Wilson cannot be accused of using veiled words, and there are intimations that it will have the desired effect, since to persist in the blacklist would eventually make England the victim of a sweeping American embargo. Incidentally, who can find in the note any proof of the political assertion that President Wilson is not a friend to business?

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

The New Bedford Mercury has decided to adopt the policy which The Sun has followed for years in refusing to accept liquor advertising. There are certain evils inseparable from the liquor business, and The Mercury like The Sun is doubtless unwilling to be responsible for them to the extent of offering the business the publicity of its columns.

In taking this step The Mercury like The Sun undergoes a very considerable financial loss as liquor advertising in any city like Lowell or New Bedford is worth thousands of dollars annually. What may have been The Mercury's experience in dealing with the liquor business we are not aware, although from a recent editorial in that paper, it would seem that some liquor advertisers thought they had a right to dictate the policy of the paper on certain matters pertaining to their interests.

Our New Bedford contemporary is to be congratulated upon taking a stand that will make it absolutely independent of the liquor interests. It is the attitude of perhaps most of the leading papers of this country and also of the more influential magazines. We firmly believe the day is not far distant when every decent and self-respecting publication will refuse the use of its columns for advertisements which in the most insidious manner invite both young and old to "put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains."

OUR YELLOW DAY

The old timers whose memories give them such conscious superiority over those of today had a chance to wag their heads and look wise last Sunday when the smoke from Canadian fires in our upper atmosphere gave us a repetition of "yellow day." It may not have been as the other day 20, or 30 or 50 years ago but it was yellow enough to get everybody talking about it and wondering what it portended. In the early morning there was a sort of orange glow in the air, like the light that comes through a stained glass window, and when the people were coming out of church it had changed into a parish light that made everybody look sickly and that hurt the eyes. It was like the light that is sometimes on land and sea when the sun is setting but it was not as soft and agreeable. Somehow, it seems to go with the times. So awful and in a sense unnatural have been the happenings of recent days that people almost expect to see the light of day streaming through a scarlet mist or obscured by a pall of darkness. These are morbid and decadent days and if some evening should send us a bloody dew or some morning should bring poison fumes from the trenches of France it would seem more fitting than the pure white light of day in this blessed land of peace and prosperity.

FOREST FIRES

No other country has forest fires in the same intensity as the countries of the American continent. Sometimes they sweep through the wooded areas of the United States and again they wreak havoc in the Canadian woods. At present a wide area of Ontario is being devastated, and it is feared that hundreds of lives have already been lost. From the meagre accounts obtainable it seems that the loss of life in most cases is due to the reluctance of householders to make their exit in time. They wait hopefully until all hope is cut off by walls of living fire. This is the season that the American government warns the people against carelessness in this same connection. The camp fire lighted for sport or the little cigarette stub carelessly thrown into the brush may start a forest fire that may cost the loss of life and millions of dollars' worth of property. We are learning conservation of the forests as well as of everything else and nothing can conduce to this more than the hearty and intelligent co-operation of the American public.

SWIM AFTER DARK

Persons who walk through Dutton street these evenings after dark may hear muffled laughter from the canal bank, punctuated by an occasional splash. Investigation will reveal hands of boys and young men having a surreptitious swim in the canal waters. When the mercury is as high as it has been for the past few days it is hard to blame them, but it is not a pretty state of affairs that Lowell cannot do better for its boys than to permit them to steal a swim in the canals after dark. In the absence of a more pretensions bathing pool we might at least have set aside canal areas and invited our boys to swim under adequate supervision, but though this sounds well in theory it is not likely to be put into practice until the powers that be take a different view of Lowell's official responsibility in this direction.

It is not to be supposed that the swimming in the canals is restricted to the evening but at any time it is a poor substitute for the supervised bathing which most progressive cities enjoy. The drowning of two more boys strengthens an argument for bathing facilities which is only too obvious.

PUBLIC SUFFERS MOST

The street car strikers in New York went on strike to punish the companies, but incidentally they are punishing the public—and the public suffers most. New York is notoriously a city of commuters and its myriads of workers live for the most part in the suburbs. No matter how just the claims of the car employees may be, the strike has brought about a situation that is well nigh intolerable. It has been held for a long time that a strike of large dimensions affecting the rights of the public would serve to show how the public will regard such a condition in future. If the present condition in New York should continue for any considerable time, the public may take steps to show that their rights should be considered by both sides in any controversy before final action is taken. This may prove the long-expected test.

Value of Sunlight

Sunlight is a great germicide. Our pioneer grandmothers did not know much about germs, but they acted on modern principles when they hung their milk pails and strainers in the sun "to sweeten," as they said. Sunlight, as well as fresh air, should be used as a part of the general processes of housecleaning. The thrifty habit of shutting out the sun in order to keep carpets and draperies from fading indicates a large degree of ignorance of modern methods of sanitation. The airing and sunning of bedding every week, all the year around, is a most important part of good housekeeping, but one which is much neglected, especially by women who live in flats, where the sun is very often sacrificed to esthetics. Therefore it becomes imperative that at housecleaning time the under side of rugs, carpets, mattresses and cushions should be exposed to the sun and air for as long a period as possible. Sunlight is free to all. Plants will not thrive without it. Animals love to bask in it. Only man shuns it and by so doing he incurs unnecessary danger from tuberculosis and many other diseases.—Salt Lake City Telegram.

The Sausage Story

One evening the proprietor of a small restaurant on returning from another part of the building was somewhat surprised as well as dismayed to see a patron hurriedly arise from the table without waiting for his order, and leave the room.

"James," said the proprietor, addressing one of the waiters, "what made that man leave without being served?"
"He ordered sausages, sir," answered the waiter, "and I went out into the kitchen to get them."
"Yes, yes," impatiently interrupted the proprietor, "but what did that have to do with it?"
"Everything, sir," answered the waiter in meekful voice. "In going into the kitchen I accidentally stepped on the tail of the dog, and the dog yelled, sir."

Another War Victim

"Mr. Interlocutor, can you tell me which is the richest country in the world?"
"Why, the United States is 'the richest country in the world,' Mr. Tambour."
"No, it isn't. Ireland is the richest country in the world."
"And why is Ireland the richest country in the world, Mr. Tambour?"
"Because it is always Dublin."

Boy Is About Right

Before he became bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Russell Wakefield, who is on a visit to the western front as the guest of Gen. Joffre, was a member of the London school board. One day he paid a surprise visit to a public school. Human anatomy was the subject under discussion at the moment. Dr. Wakefield took a hand in it.
"Now tell me," he asked one small boy, "what is a skeleton?"
"The small boy looked earnest and very thoughtful for a second or two. Then—
"Please sir," he replied, "a skeleton is a man with his inside out and his outside off."

The Glen of the Mist

My beautiful corrie! where cattle wander—
My misty corrie! my darling dell!
Mighty, verdant, and covered over
With wild flowers tender of the sweetest smell;
Dark is the green of thy grassy clothing—
Soft swelling thy hillocks most green and deep.
The catch blowing, the dandel growing—
While the deer troop past to the misty steep.

Fine for wear is thy beautiful mantle,
Strongly woven and ever-new,
With rough grass over it and, brightly gleaming,
The grass all spangled with diamond dew.
It's round, my corrie, my lovely corrie,
Where rushes thicken and long reeds blow.
Fine were the harvest to any reaper
Who through the marsh and the bog could go.

In every nook of the mountain pathway—
The garile-flower may be thickly found—
And out on the sunny slopes around it
Hansberries, juicy and red and round—
The pennyroyal and dandelion,
The downy camnach together lie—
Thickly they grow from the base of the mountain
To the topmost crag of his crest so high.

And not a crag but is clad most richly
For rich and silv'ry the soft moss clings.
Fine is the moss, most clean and stainless,
Hiding the look of unlovely things:
Down in the hollows beneath the summit
Where the verdure is growing rich and deep.

The little daisies are looking upwards,

NASHUA BOY HAS EASY JOB HITTING SNAKES, BUT WAS SHORT ON PAY

NASHUA, Aug. 1.—Jean Consigny, 16, of this city was brought back from Biddeford, Me., by Inspector Dean, as a runaway boy. He had been the girl "snake catcher" in the midway shows which played on the local circus grounds week before last. He ran away with the show when it went to Biddeford a week ago.

In the show he was supposed to be a "girl." He was dressed in red tights and put in the den of snakes. He was supposed to net snake and apparently sink his teeth in the bodies of the snakes with which he was surrounded. For it he was promised $10 a week. But when the first Saturday came he did not get his $10 and being a good collector he applied to the Biddeford police to aid him in collecting his stipend for "hitting snakes."

It was then found by questioning by the Biddeford police that Consigny was on probation from the Nashua police court, and he was returned to Nashua.

AVERY CHEMICAL CO.

SUPT. CLAFLIN SAYS COMPANY HAS COMPLIED WITH REQUIREMENTS OF THE COURT

According to Supt. Claflin of the Avery Chemical Co. his company has complied fully with the requirements of the court in the order set forth when the temporary injunction was issued.

He says that the judge asked him at that time how the company proposed to correct the defects in the plant, by which the fumes of the sulphurous gas were escaping, and he set forth three steps that were to be taken. The court directed that these improvements be made, and that they be installed within two and a half weeks. Mr. Claflin says that when the time limit expired yesterday, all the requirements had been met. He hopes that this will put an end to the escape of the gas, and says that if it does not do so, the company is prepared to seek a solution in some other way. Relative to the charge that there was an escape of the gas with attendant damage done last week, Mr. Claflin states that the odor of the gas was distinguishable at that time, but that no actual damage has been reported to him.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

LAWRENCE FREE FROM DISEASE, AS DONOHUE CHILD HAS RECOVERED

LAWRENCE, Aug. 1.—Lawrence is again free from infantile paralysis. It was announced at the office of the department of health yesterday.

Dr. W. V. Grant reported to the board of health that Joseph Donahue, six and a half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Donahue, has recovered clinically from the disease.

The case of the Donahue child was the one reported early in the month, the first to be recorded at the health department office since February 1915. Subsequently another case was reported but the latter proved fatal.

627 DIE FROM HEAT

NORTH WIND BROKE MURDEROUS HEAT WAVE IN CHICAGO AFTER 10 DAYS

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The murderous heat wave which settled upon Chicago and vicinity 13 days ago was broken at 6 o'clock this morning, when a lake breeze, at first a faint zephyr, increasing to a stiff, cool wind, crept through the smothering torridity and brought relief to the sweltering thousands. Doubtless it saved hundreds of lives, for the endurance of many persons who had withstood the long siege was exhausted, and another day's fight would have overwhelmed them.

The north wind, sweeping off the lake and bringing relief to wilted Chicago, means trouble for the south and east, as the tropical heat is being driven in those directions. Forecasters say the wind will continue three days at least. In time it will reach the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys, but driven ahead of it will be the great volume of heat which has taken such heavy toll here.

HOW WAVE AFFECTED CHICAGO

Duration of unbroken heat, 13 days. Average temperature for month, 82 degrees—20 above normal. Killed by heat directly, 325 persons; died of heat exhaustion and drowsiness, 392; total, 627. Babies killed by heat, 176. Seriously prostrated during heat siege, 2569. Bitten by rabid dogs during heat siege, 57. Horses dropped dead in streets, in five days, 690.

RISKS LIFE, SAVES GIRL

MRS. ADA V. TUOHY RESCUED TWO YOUNG WOMEN FROM DROWNING IN THE LAKE

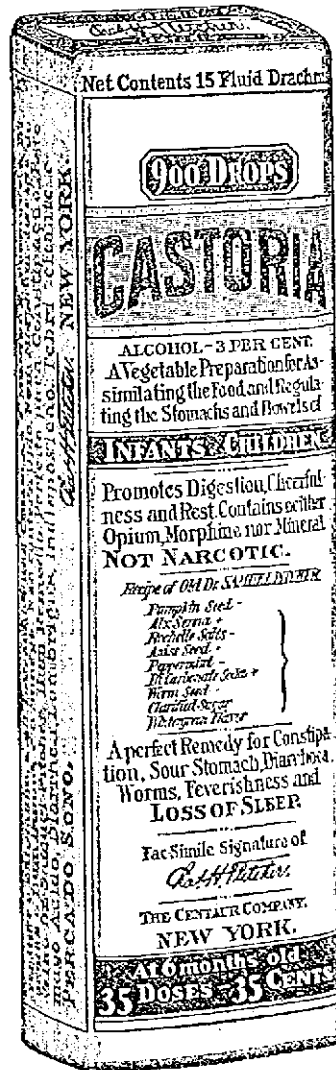

WORCESTER, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Ada V. Tuohy, wife of Geo. V. Tuohy, the Boston wrestling promoter, saved two young women from drowning in Lake Quinsigamond here yesterday afternoon, after a thrilling battle that nearly cost her own life.

But for the timely assistance of Mrs. Tuohy, 35, who happened to hear Mrs. Tuohy's calls for assistance, all three might have perished. The rescued young women were Margaret Walsh, 17, of St. John N. B. daughter of the Canadian Steamship company, and Alice Childs, 13, of this city.

About 3 o'clock this afternoon the two girls were bathing on the short stretch of beach off Mr. Tuohy's cottage at the lake when the swell from a passing motor boat caused both to lose their footing. As neither could swim they were speedily out of their depth.

As they floundered in the water their cries for help were heard by Mrs. Tuohy. Without stopping to divest herself of any clothing she rushed out of the house and into the water and a few moments later was grappling with the struggling girls. The Childs girl at that time had hold of

DOUBLE FUNERAL JAILED AS SPY

Cong. Olney Asks Sec. Polk to Take Up Case of Doring, a Suicide

BOSTON, July 31.—Congressman Richard Olney today instructed his secretary at Washington to lay before Nathan S. Doring, a Boston

James Secretary of State Fox in the case of Frank Doring of Quincy who committed suicide here last Saturday leaving letters telling of alleged sufferings while confined in British prisons charged with being a spy. "Fox Doring is gone," the congressman wrote, "but a precedent might be established which would prevent the recurrence of so gross an imposition as seems to have been practiced upon him by the British government. All the evidence points to his absolute in-way to France to engage in the manufacture of artificial limbs." According to Congressman Olney, English officials put the younger man into prison.

WEAK HITTING LOST GAME

Lowell Batters Not "There" In the Pinches—Chance to Win
Passed Up in Ninth

Lowell lost its seventh straight game at Spaulding park yesterday and dropped into ninth place in the league standing while Bridgeport, the team that conquered Lowell, got out of the cellar position for the first time in many weeks. The score was 4 to 2.

Thirteen men left on the bases explains Lowell's defeat. Twice during the game the side was retired with three men waiting to score, but strikeouts or pop flies was the best that Lowell could do, except on one occasion when Robinson waited out the pitcher and forced in a run with a base on balls. The finish was a heart-breaker for the handful of fans that were present. With one man out, two bases on balls and a single filed the sacks. Greenhalge fanned. As aforesaid, Robinson took advantage of Pitcher Mulrennan's wildness and was passed, forcing in Kane, but Torphy, the next man up, swung at the first ball pitched and the result was an easy fly to Warner.

Mulrennan twirled for Bridgeport and though wild at times he was effective in the tight places. In only the fourth inning Lowell found his delivery pleasing and then a two-run lead was taken, but this was soon overcome by the Bridgeport sluggers, who hit Zieser for 11 hits.

First Inning
Blake, the first man up, struck out and Duggan sent a grounder to Torphy and was retired at first. Deninger went out on a fly to Kilhullen.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

In the latter half of the inning Simpson drew a free pass. Kane bunted to Mulrennan, but Deninger dropped the ball and both runners were safe. Parker struck out. Warner took Helfrich's grounder and threw to Horkleimer, forcing Kane at second. The ball was then thrown to first, getting Helfrich on a double play.
No runs, no hits, one error.
Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Second Inning
Baker struck out and Warner fanned to Kane. Briggs singled over second base but Horkleimer sent a grounder to Greenhalge and was out at first.
No runs, one hit, no errors.
Greenhalge filed to Blake and Robinson was an easy out on his grounder to Mulrennan. Torphy struck out.
No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
Flaherty singled over short stop but was forced at second on Mulrennan's bunt to Zieser. Blake bunted in front of the plate and Mulrennan picked up the ball but threw wild and Mulrennan circled the bases, but Umpire Bannan said the runner did not touch third and he was tagged and declared out. Blake went to third on the play but he died there for Robinson made a fine catch of Duggan's fly against the right field fence.

No runs, one hit, one error.
Kilhullen singled to left field and went to third on Zieser's single to right garden. Stimpson singled by short stop and Kilhullen scored. Kane bunted in front of the plate and Flaherty in an attempt to get Zieser at third, threw wild and Zieser scored. At this point Baker was put out of the game for protesting the umpire's decision on the play and Blake was sent to third and Moshier went to left field. Parker and Helfrich struck out. Robinson sent a high fly which Horkleimer took care of.

Two runs, three hits, one error.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 0.

Fourth Inning
Bridgeport scored one run in the fourth. Deninger hit over Robinson's head for a three bagger. Blake bunted to Kane and was out at first. Greenhalge covering the bag. Warner walked. Briggs sent a grounder to Torphy and Deninger scored on the play. Deninger scored on the play. Briggs tried to steal second and was nailed.

One run, one hit, no errors.
Torphy grounded to Warner and was out at first. Kilhullen filed to Mulrennan. Zieser singled but was forced at second on Stimpson's grounder to Horkleimer.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 1.

Fifth Inning
Horkleimer singled by second base. Flaherty bunted to Kane, who threw to Torphy to get Horkleimer, but Torphy dropped the ball and the runners were safe. Mulrennan hit to Zieser and Horkleimer was forced at third. Moshier grounded to Torphy who threw to Greenhalge, forcing Mulrennan at second. Deninger struck out.

No runs, one hit, one error.
Kane was out at first on his grounder to Mulrennan. Parker dove a line fly to Deninger. Helfrich hit between Moshier and Duggan for two bases. Greenhalge was out at first on his grounder to Blake.

No runs, one hit, no errors.
Lowell 2, Bridgeport 1.

Sixth Inning
Bridgeport tied the score in the sixth.

Seventh Inning
Bridgeport scored another run in the seventh inning. Mulrennan opened with a two bagger to right field and scored on Blake's single to center. Blake was later doubled up between first and second. Zieser making the first and second. Zieser and died at first. Deninger walked but Moshier went out on a grounder to Greenhalge.

One run, two hits, no errors.
Stimpson walked and went to second on Kane's sacrifice. Parker sent a grounder to Warner and was out at first. Stimpson going to third. Helfrich grounded to Horkleimer and failed to reach first.

No runs, no hits, no errors.
Score: Lowell 2, Bridgeport 2.

Azzara Axworthy was favorite for the trotting stake, selling at $50 against $35 for the field. The mare from the Murphy stable had won both North Handicap and Detroit and was naturally figured best.

She led into the stretch in the first heat, when Cox made his drive with Worthy Prince, and the big stallion nosed her out at the wire in 2:05 1/4. The mare broke in the second and the Cox stallion had no trouble in beating Blindfold. In the final Murphy-trained Worthy Prince to the stretch, then pulled out and the pair fought it out.

Worthy Prince wavered and went to a short break close to the wire, but finished a neck to the good and got the decision in 2:05 1/4. The runner is owned by Sanford Small of Boston.

The 2:05 trot was a long drawn out, split heat affair, going the limit, and in this Cox also put his mount, Director Todd, across Bonington, from the Geers stable, with John Benyon driving, was the favorite at even money against the field. He put his head down and trotted all the way in the first round, winning rather easily, but in the second he broke and Director Todd was first at the pay station.

McCloskey and Bonington were the contenders in the third, the former beating the Geers stallion in a close finish. The big surprise came in the fourth, when the California gelding, Kid Capid, sprinted to the front and won. Cox had ridden an easy heat this time, and in the fifth heat he took Director Todd to the front, and the little stallion never was headed. He is owned by Chasney Sears of Fall River, Mass.

LAUDS MUNITION MAKERS

French Under Secretary of War and Munitions Tells of Terrific Results of French Shell Fire

LYONS, France, Aug. 1.—The terrific results of French shell fire was described by Albert Thomas, under secretary of war and munitions, addressing a gathering of workers in munition factories here.

"During the long months we have just passed through," he said, "there have been hours when a slight mistake or misunderstanding existed between citizens doing their duty in the interior of the country and those fulfilling the nobler and more dangerous task on the front. It was said that the workers slackened and did not supply the army with all it needed. Well, here is a pleasant fact we observed recently on the Somme: When the Twentieth corps, the Colonial corps, entered the villages of Hénin and Carlin and when they carried Moncau farm, do you know how they entered? Not by assault, not by risking all the infantry. No, they walked, as the soldiers said to me a few days ago, came in hand through the village, or rather, through an immense sea of broken red bricks which represented the village and in gratitude and friendship their thoughts turned toward their comrades in the rear.

"They asked me to thank in their name the workmen and women of the munition factories who had enabled them to enter there without shedding their blood. There were only five seriously wounded in the whole brigade. It was thus they entered in triumph a village occupied only a few moments before by the enemy.

"I appeal to you then to carry on the sustained work of liberation to the point of bliss and fatigue. The future of our land, victory and the independence of beloved France are all at stake. You are striving at once for the integrity of your country and the liberty of all peoples."

IRISH TO FIGHT CABINET

Will Take First Chance to Turn Out Coalition Ministry, Say Redmond and Dillon

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The result of the home rule debate in the house of commons yesterday was to leave the nationalists in a fighting mood and ready to war on the government on any question except the winning of the great conflict with Germany.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said the action of the government left the nationalists free to watch, criticize and oppose, if necessary, the coalition government and where they pleased.

Joseph Devlin, the Belfast nationalist, and the one who was chiefly instrumental in getting the Ulster nationalists to agree to the exclusion of six Ulster counties, went even further when he said he hoped on the next division the nationalists would be able to turn out the coalition government.

The debate seems to have left the prospect of an amicable settlement of the Irish problem as distant as before.

Premier Asquith made a conciliatory speech, and expressed the conviction that a permanent settlement would be reached sooner than any persons imagined.

John Redmond, the nationalist leader, made it clear that his party was dissatisfied and would henceforth consider itself absolved from association with the coalition government and free to criticize and oppose it independently in any circumstances.

the colonies, who admitted that Lord Lansdowne and himself had arrived at a compromise, and a permanent settlement was reached. He had never heard "a more idiotic" proposal than the one put forward by Mr. Asquith, and he suggested to Sir Edward Carson that what British statesmen failed to settle Irishmen might settle for themselves.

In bringing his motion before the house, John Dillon said he had entered into negotiations with David Lloyd George for a solution of the Irish question most unwillingly, knowing the enormous difficulties they had been confronted with in getting their own supporters to agree to any terms for a compromise.

He spoke of the great disappointment of the nationalists in finding the government going back on the arrangement reached.

The premier admitted that the present military control in Ireland was a makeshift arrangement, but it has succeeded in maintaining peace. It was not right to say that Lord Lansdowne was responsible for the insistence in the reduction of the representation in the imperial parliament, as all the unionists in the cabinet had adopted the same attitude. Dealing with release of these arrested during the rebellion, Premier Asquith said that it must not be supposed there was no prima facie case for the arrests of these liberated.

In regard to the destruction in Dublin, the premier said he hoped for loan from the treasury which would enable the undertaking of the arduous task of restoration.

GENOA CLUB INVADERS

MEMBERS OF JUNIOR HOLY NAME SOCIETY HOLD ANNUAL OUTING IN TYNGSDORO

Over 300 happy, hearty, noisy boys, members of the Junior Holy Name society of St. Michael's church, swooped down today on Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the summer home of the Knights of Columbus, to enjoy their annual outing.

With a fine program of sports, prizes for the winners, plenty of ice cream and lemonade it is needless to say that every boy on the trip had one jolly good time.

Three big special cars were required to convey the boys from this city to the club grounds. The cars were lined up at the corner of Bridge and First streets shortly after 5 o'clock and within 15 minutes all were literally packed with youngsters wearing happy faces. The boys started right in to have a good time and they made things merry en route to the grounds.

At the destination sports were enjoyed, including races, jumping, etc., and a red hot baseball game was played. At noon luncheon was served and the afternoon was spent in games and other amusements. The return trip will be made this evening.

Rev. James F. Lynch of St. Michael's church accompanied the boys on the outing and was busy carrying off the program that provided the youngsters with so much pleasure.

HERBERT BISHOP INJURED

Herbert B. Bishop, of 25 May street, a paymaster at the United States Customhouse, suffered a fracture of the left leg last night when he was struck and run over by an automobile in Chelmsford Centre.

Mr. Bishop had just stepped from an electric car at Parkhurst's store and while crossing the street an automobile belonging to J. J. Jarek and operated by Mrs. Jarek struck him. He was thrown to the ground and two of the wheels passed over his left leg.

Dr. Amasa Howard was summoned and after having been made as comfortable as possible Mr. Bishop was removed to the Lowell hospital.

O.M.I. CADETS' ENCAMPMENT

All arrangements for the annual encampment of the O.M.I. Cadets will be made at a meeting in the Immaculate Conception school hall this evening.

The meeting is arranged for the benefit of the parish and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Each cadet is to bring a member of his family. Major Conroy and others will explain all matters pertaining to the encampment, and a short drill will follow.

WAY CLEAR TO DECLARE WAR

Treaty Subordinated Italy to Germany Economically

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The only reason which has so far prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy, says the Petit Parisien, is a commercial treaty signed between the two countries in 1891 and renewed in 1904. This treaty subordinated Italy to Germany economically, according to the paper, and was considered of the greatest importance by Germany. The Parisien says that it is understood Italy has now denounced this treaty and thereby left the way clear for a declaration of hostilities.

LABORERS ON STRIKE

MEN EMPLOYED IN CONSTRUCTION WORK DEMAND INCREASE OF 5 CENTS AN HOUR

About 75 laborers employed in construction work throughout the city went on strike this morning because their employers refused them an increase of five cents an hour in wages. As a result, building on many parts of the city is somewhat tied up.

The 75 men on strike do not include all the building laborers in Lowell. Some of the contractors, it is said, agreed to give the increase asked for and in such cases the men remained at work.

The regular wage schedule for building laborers is 35 cents an hour and the men want 40 cents. They give the high cost of living as the reason for their demands. Some of the contractors readily agreed to grant the increase, but others held out and the men quit work.

The regular wage schedule of the building laborers is located at 32 Middle street, where a meeting was held last night with President Cassidy in the chair. It was then voted to strike wherever the five cent increase was refused. Another meeting will be held soon.

Loomfixers Union

The regular meeting of the Loomfixers' union was held last evening in Carpenters' hall with a large attendance. A feature of the evening was an address by Thomas F. McLaughlin, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, who will make his headquarters in Lowell for some time.

Moulders

The members of the Moulders' union held their regular meeting last evening in Middle street and transacted routine business. Plans for the Labor day celebration were also discussed.

Lathers

At a recent meeting of the Lathers' union it was voted to open the charter of the organization from now until Aug. 26.

to the fire fighting force, but said in order to do that he would ask the council to transfer the sum of $500 voted for the purchase of an automobile chassis to the fire department appropriation. Mr. Morse opposed the proposition of transferring, although he agreed that more firemen were needed, while the mayor also indicated that Mr. Putnam would not vote in favor of the transfer. Action was deferred to a later date.

Hearings on petitions to erect and maintain garages were held and other routine business was transacted.

The meeting was called to order shortly after 10 o'clock by Mayor O'Donnell with Commissioner Dunne absent. The first matter taken up had to do with hearings on the following petitions for permission to erect and maintain garages: William T. Trull, 791 Andover; A. W. Wentworth, Woodward avenue; Anthony Luz, Gorham street. There were no opponents and the petitions were referred.

A hearing on the petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co., the Lowell Electric Light Corp. and the New England Telephone Co. for a joint location of eight poles in Woburn street was held. A representative of one of the companies explained that the new poles would go away with 12 poles, there being 21 poles on Woburn street at the present time. There were no remonstrants and the petition was referred.

Commissioner Putnam reported favorably on the following petitions, which were granted: Edward J. Robb, garage in Arch street; and M. J. Child, W. Bryant, garage in Westford street. The Lowell Realty Co. petitioned for permission to erect a garage in Bellevue street; Victor Provencher petitioned for permission to erect and maintain a garage in West Third street, while Lull & Hartford petitioned to keep and store gunpowder in the rear of the Southwick building in Prescott street and all the petitions were referred, a hearing being set for Sept. 5. The petitions of John P. Mahoney for an extension of 50 feet

CONTER BLOW AT RUSSIANS

Turkish Officers Now in Streets of Lemberg

Teutons to Disregard In decisive Successes of Gen. Brussiloff

BERLIN, July 31, via London, Aug. 1.—Turkish officers are now a familiar sight in the streets of Lemberg and the vanguard of the Turkish troops being sent to the southeastern battle front already have been detained, according to despatches from the Galician capital. The Ottoman forces, however, apparently have not yet been thrown into the struggle. The German commanders are hiding their time to launch their counter blow at the Russians disregarding the indecisive successes which Gen. Brussiloff and his associate army commanders may be able to attain by the tremendous expenditure of force.

The Teutonic retirement on the Lusk front and the abandonment of the convoluted line following the meandering course of the Stokhod is regarded here without apprehension and, in fact, is in a certain way a hopeful sign, as the new line, cutting across the Big Bend in the Stokhod is only about 25 miles long, in contrast with the approximate 53 miles of the former front. A proportionately smaller force is capable of defending it, the surplus thus being released for employment elsewhere.

On the western front the British, according to German war correspondents, appear to be on the point of again attempting the task which they found impossible on July 1—namely, to crush the German front north of the Acre brook in an effort to reach Bapaume from the west. The British artillery fire on the front between Gommeceourt and Bapaume came on Sunday and Sunday was the most violent character, being, apparently, the vanguard of a new onslaught against the heavily fortified line upon which the British divisions dashed themselves valiantly but vainly in the first days of their storming attack.

to the Columbia street widening of C. H. Hanson for the severing of Chelmsford street at its junction with Appleton street; Sam Dean for the acceptance of Chapel street and the laying of cinders and John J. Mahoney for the acceptance of Bell avenue, were read and referred.

Arthur J. Hubbard was appointed a weigher of coal. The Lowell Electric Light Corp. petitioned for the erection of a pole in Temple street and three in Farmland road and a hearing was set for Sept. 5.

The following claims were referred: Mary E. Flynn for personal injury; David Higgins, personal injury; Adela Dunne and Napoleon Forrest and E. F. Finnegan, damage to property.

Widening Central Street

Charles Kittredge petitioned for the widening of Central street from Prescott street to the New American hotel and the petition was referred. A communication was received from the school committee, asking for a special appropriation of $5000 for the maintenance of the city schools for the remainder of the year and the communication was referred to the commissioner of finance. An invitation from the Trades & Labor council to review the Labor day parade was read and accepted. Agent Bates of the health department was authorized to purchase through the purchasing agent's office 10 tons of loose hay for the city.

The Bellevue Temple and Hillside street sewer assessments were presented by Commissioner Morse for approval, but action was deferred to a later date. An order for the printing of the names from the jury list and the placing of the same in the jury box was presented and adopted. At 10:50 o'clock a 15-minute recess was taken. The council reconvened at 10:50. Discussion of sewer assessments in Bellevue, Temple and Hillside streets was resumed and it was stated that the order for the suit was passed on April 27, 1915. The assessment was approved.

Wants More Firemen

Commissioner Putnam spoke on the necessity of appointing new firemen. He gave the following statement having reference to the line of men on duty in the various houses:

Mr. Putnam's Statement

After careful investigation and due consideration, an opinion of the imperative need of additional men in the fire department, and I believe that you will acquiesce in that belief when you understand the situation that exists at some of the fire houses. For your information I have prepared a tabulated statement showing the number of men on duty at the several houses, and various houses of the city. This shows that in certain houses there are long periods during the day in which there are but two men at a house, even at a time when none of the company is on a vacation.

In the beginning, permit me to state, that in 1914 the underwriters recommended that the fire companies should have nine men on duty at all times, a similar number for the Protective company and seven men for each hose company. That standard has never been attained and we are much farther from it than we were when that recommendation was made. To illustrate: While no new men have been added to the department since 1913, the force has been decreased by the retirement of three men on pensions during the past two and one-half years. This year, for the first time, the one-day-out-five rule is in operation (which, naturally, has the effect of reducing the number of men on duty).

The total number of permanent men

Special Articles in French Papers—Premier Sturmer's Statement

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Today, the second anniversary of Germany's declaration of war on Russia, was commemorated in the French press by special articles and features. A number of messages were printed from prominent personalities in allied and neutral countries, including the kings of Serbia and Montenegro, Elihu Root, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Gen. Cadorna, Premier Romanones of Spain, Gen. Alexieff, chief of the Russian staff and the Russian and Belgian premiers.

Premier Sturmer of Russia says: "At the moment when the allies are entering upon the third year of the war the Russian government is more than ever resolved to continue the struggle to the end and is firmly convinced, that with the help of the Almighty the allies and their cause of justice and equity will triumph."

SEEK EMBARGO ON THE EXPORT OF MUNITIONS

New Jersey Officials to Demand Federal Action as Result of Big Explosion—More Arrests

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Representatives John J. Egan and James A. Hamill of New Jersey announced this afternoon at the conclusion of a conference of city, county, state and federal officials on the Black Tom munitions explosion which caused loss of life and heavy property damage that they would go to Washington tomorrow, accompanied by Mayor Fagan of Jersey City, to demand an embargo on the export of munitions from Atlantic coast ports.

Representative Egan said he would introduce a resolution in the house asking for an immediate embargo and Representative Hamill said he was framing a bill of similar design.

The three men also will go before the interstate commerce commission in Washington tomorrow, they said, and demand the adoption by the commission of stringent regulations pending remedial legislation for the removal of the immediate danger from the storage of high explosives at this port.

MacKenzie Held in $5000

The fourth arrest growing out of the separate inquiries yesterday was made today when E. L. MacKenzie, president of the National Dock & Storage Co., the scene of the explosion, was taken into custody and released in $5000 bail for examination Friday.

MORE ARRESTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Three additional arrests are expected today as a result of the investigation by New Jersey and Jersey City officials of the great munitions explosion on Black Tom island Sunday. With three men already held in jail on charges of manslaughter, a warrant had been issued for the arrest of E. L. MacKenzie, president of the National Dock & Storage Co., at whose pier the disaster started. The commissioner of public safety of Jersey City, Frank Hague, said that two railroad presidents, E. B. Thomas of the Lehigh Valley, and W. G. Besler of the Central railroad of New Jersey, probably would be arrested today.

Want Shipments From Other Points

The New Jersey authorities declare that the $20,000,000 blast still be the end of the danger in which seven million persons have lived in this section for the last year, during which ammunition has been pouring through Jersey City for the use of the entire allies. They say that three-fourths of the ammunition shipped from America to Europe is loaded on board ships here, and they have begun proceedings with the determination to compel its shipment from points remote from New York.

Dispute Authority

The New Jersey authorities intend also to dispute the authority of the interstate commerce commission to regulate the traffic in ammunition. A conference was held today between state and federal officials to plan to eliminate the danger of a repetition of the disaster.

Millions Shipped Daily

It is declared that about 2,000,000 pounds of explosive are transhipped daily from railroads here to steamers lying in Gravesend Bay. Rules of the interstate commission require that the explosives must be unloaded within 21 hours after reaching the pier. New Jersey officials believe many of the railroads are violating this law.

McKenzie Arraigned

McKenzie arrived at Jersey City police headquarters in charge of detectives and was taken to court for arraignment.

Another Body Found

The body of another victim of the explosion was found today floating in the river.

INNINGS	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	R	H	E

Bridgeport and Lowell came together at Spalding park this afternoon in the second game of the series with the odds 1 to 0 in favor of the boys from Connecticut. One more game remains to be played with the Hustlers after which Lowell will journey to Worcester for a day and then return for the three games with the New London Planters.

Yesterday's poor showing when some of the men seemed to be beating the departments that have continually shown up weak and it is hoped that new men will put more life into the game. The team that will meet New London Friday will not be the same team that lost to Bridgeport yesterday.

Lohman did mound duty for Lowell this afternoon with Kilhullen as his first baseman. The rest of the team was the same as in the first game.

First Inning

Neither side scored in the first inning, the first three men on each team being retired in quick order.

Blake opened to a drive to Torphy who threw the runner out at first. Duggan sent a high fly to Kilhullen and Deninger flied to the ball falling to go outside of the infield.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Stimpson grounded to Horkleimer. Kane bunted in front of the plate and was thrown out at first by Flaherty. Parker was third out on a fly to Duggan.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Second Inning

Baker grounded to Torphy and was out at first. Warner hit along the third base line for a safe one. Briggs tied to Parker in deep center field and Horkleimer followed with a single over second. Flaherty sent a fly to Greenhalge in short right and was third out.

No runs, two hits, no errors.

Helrich hit to Walsh and died at first and Greenhalge singled to center field and went to second on a passed ball. Robinson flied to Horkleimer. Torphy reached first when Horkleimer made a bad throw to first. Torphy and Greenhalge attempted a double steal and Greenhalge was caught at the plate.

No runs, one hit, one error.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Third Inning

Walsh grounded to Torphy and never had a look at the first corner.

Blake singled to left field. Lowell then pulled off a double play which brought the first half of the inning to a close. Duggan hit to Torphy who threw to Greenhalge forcing Blake, and the ball was then shot to first and Kane nailed Duggan.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Kilhullen flied to Baker over near the third base bleachers. Lohman grounded out Warner to Deninger and Stimpson flied to Blake.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Fourth Inning

Lohman pitched but five balls in the first half of the fourth inning. Greenhalge gathered in Deninger's slow roller and threw him out at first. Baker grounded to Helrich and died at first and then Kilhullen made a sensational catch of Warner's foul fly up against the Bridgeport players' bench.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Kane struck out. Horkleimer juggled Parker's drive and recovered the ball in time to throw the runner out at first. Helrich drew a free pass and stole second but he remained there. Greenhalge hit a hard one which deflected from Walsh's hands to Horkleimer and the latter threw to first in time to get the runner.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Fifth Inning

Briggs flied to Parker and Horkleimer went out. Helrich to Kane. Flaherty got a Texas leaguer in back of second base and Walsh sent a line drive into Kane's mitt.

No runs, one hit, no errors.

Robinson flied to Blake but Torphy reached first when Warner booted his grounder. Kilhullen flied to Briggs and Lohman hit to Baker, forcing Torphy at second, no hits, one error.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Sixth Inning

Blake hit to Helrich and was out at first. Duggan also sent the ball to Helrich, but the latter made a bad throw and the runner was safe. Duggan a little later was forced at second on Deninger's grounder to Torphy. Deninger went to second on a passed ball, but Baker was third out on a grounder to Torphy.

No runs, no hits, one error.

Stimpson and Kane were out at first on grounders to Warner and Walsh, respectively. Parker walked to first, but Helrich flied to Duggan.

No runs, no hits, no errors.

Score: Lowell 0, Bridgeport 0.

Seventh Inning

ALDERMAN PUTNAM WANTS MORE FIREMEN

Statement Presented to City Council Showing Need of More Fire Fighters

The municipal council at a regular meeting this forenoon voted against repealing the jitney ordinance for Paige street and consequently Amos P. Best still has the right of way for his jitneys at the corner of Paige and Bridge streets. At the last meeting of the council a petition was presented, asking that the ordinance be repealed. The petition bore the signatures of over 500 voters, and D. J. Donahue, Esq., spoke in favor of the petition. At that time it was voted to instruct the city solicitor to draft an order for the repeal of the ordinance, the mayor voting against it. Mr. Putnam was absent. When the order was read this morning, Mr. Putnam enquired as to its meaning and then he and the mayor voted against it. Messrs. Morse and Donnelly voting in favor.

Commissioner Putnam gave a long statement concerning fire protection in this city and he told of his intentions to appoint five or six new men. Continued to Last Page

County Commissioners Met in Cambridge Today and Gave Out Copies of New Plan

SPECIAL TO THE SUN
EAST CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 1.—The county commissioners met this forenoon to rearrange the representative districts in Middlesex county and immediately after the meeting had been called to order the report was given out. The story appearing exclusively in The Sun of Thursday last relative to the commissioners' plan of rearranging the representative districts in Lowell was correct, as usual, in every detail.

The constitution requires that the county commissioners shall assemble on the first Tuesday of August at a shire town in the county and "proceed, as soon as may be, to divide same into representative districts." Although

OFFICER KILLED IN POLICE COURT

Another Injured — Auto in Which They Were Riding Hit Bridge

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Patrolman Patrick Carr was killed and Patrolman Daniel Murphy was injured today when an automobile in which they were hastening to an accident crashed into the side of the bridge connecting Castle Island with South Boston. Carr was thrown into the water after striking the bridge. His companion, notwithstanding his injuries, leaped after him, and held him about until help arrived. Carr died later in the hospital. The accident to which the officers were rushing was trivial.

HAND TO HAND STRUGGLE IN NEW YORK COURTROOM

As 12 Alleged Anarchists Were Being Led From Tombs 75 Friends Set Upon Guards and Attempted to Free Prisoners—Panic Followed—Books and Papers Hurlled at Magistrate—Reserves Called and Rioters Driven Out by Use of Night Sticks

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A hand to hand struggle in a panic-stricken court room between twelve alleged anarchists and their sympathizers on the one side and policemen and court attendants on the other, during which papers and books were hurlled at Magistrate Murphy, resulted in the injury today of several persons and the arrest of three.

As the twelve men after a hearing on a charge of inciting to riot in wrecking the office of Il Progresso, an Italian newspaper, last Saturday, were being led from the Tombs court seventy-five of their friends, who were in attendance throughout the hearing, leaped to their feet and attempted to sweep aside the guards and free the prisoners.

Police reserves were summoned and the rioters were driven from the court room by the use of night sticks. One woman, just before fainting, sank her teeth into the wrist of a court attaché.

HOT WAVE HITS WAR ZONE

Allied Soldiers Made Attack in Sweltering Mid-Summer Heat—Fearful Carnage

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN THE FIELD, July 30, via London, July 31.—French and British soldiers made today's attack in sweltering mid-summer heat. The first real hot wave of the season struck northern France last night, and this morning British and French infantry co-operated in an action north of the Somme, in front of Guillemont and Maurepas.

Persistent bad light, which did not permit the gunners to register their targets, had delayed any important infantry action. Yesterday the light became better as the heat grew tropic and offensive operations were renewed.

Every day the Germans have been increasing the number of guns and men in the Guillemont sector which is among the last portions of high ground they hold. By prisoners taken ten German battalions, or ten thousand men, have been identified on a front of 2000 yards, where the Germans are still in their old second line fortifications with maze trenches and deep dugouts built long ago and strengthened since the offensive began. The Germans appear to regard this sector of critical importance since the British broke the second line on the adjoining front for a length of two miles on July 14.

Fight Under Boiling Sun

Part of the British attack struck from the bloody Trones wood and the other part on the flank while the Germans tried to man machine guns as usual after a British bombardment. The Germans resisted the British bitterly, fighting under the boiling sun as if every inch of ground was precious.

The British got possession of the railroad station which they had reached in a previous attack, and this time, according to last reports, were still holding it. Some of the attackers got into Guillemont and reached the church, where the Germans, swarming in dugouts, outnumbered the advance party which fought against their foe on all sides. It was one of those hard to hand and hide and seek conflicts in the village ruins of indescribable ferocity. The British had to retire from the edge of Guillemont, but made good a considerable advance southward on the flank of the town, where, through the hot night, fighting continued.

Fearful Carnage

Perspiration made white water courses in the dust of the men's faces today and their eyes looked out through masks so thick that their faces seemed to be covered with some kind of armor. Motor trucks passed like phantoms in thick clouds on the road. Gunners, stripped to their skin, kept on serving their guns at top speed.

Soldiers who reached Guillemont speak of the fearful carnage among the Germans from the British gunfire, owing to the masses of Germans concentrated under the British bombardment before the infantry attacks. They said they could hear the means of the German wounded for water above the bombing and rifle and machine gun fire. With the news of the shooting of Capt. Fryatt fresh in their minds, the British went into the charge in a fury, swearing they would avenge his murder.

trouble he once had trying to convince the friends of dead persons that embalming was a better process than that offered by the "freezer."

Reference to the "freezer" recalls the old story of the variety stage about the party who were travelling on a railroad train one hot day and were "crazy" with the heat. The best the railroad offered them was some lukewarm water, and when one of the party remarked that he'd give a dollar for a piece of ice, a little Hebrew, who overheard the remark, suddenly left his seat and went into another car, returning in a short time with a good sized piece of ice, for which he was paid a dollar.

A short time afterward he was offered another dollar if he could get more and he went forth and returned with a second piece. Later, when made a third offer, he again disappeared, but returning empty-handed said to the startled company: "I can't get any more; the undertaker says he can't spare it, as he's going a long distance."

Perhaps some will recall the peak of trouble that a local provision dealer once got into, as the result of a gossip. An undertaker moved next door to him, and some was started the story that the undertaker used to preserve bodies in his neighbor's big ice-chest. There were actually some people easy enough to believe the yarn, and the dealer was in "hot water" with some of his customers for a time, as a result.

In regard to the cost of backs at funerals, the old Sun said: "The cost of backs was only $1.50 in 1856. It is now $2 in the forenoon and $2.50 in the afternoon, and yet the local hackmen claim that they charge less than is charged in other cities."

Today, the hackmen charge $4 that, regardless of the time of the funeral, though the cemeteries are no farther away. The hackmen today will tell you that they have to pay their drivers more, and that's a fact; and it is also a fact that since the industrial boom struck Lowell the hackmen have difficulty in getting drivers when there is a large funeral. In days gone by men and boys hung around stables and picked up odd change driving and doing chores, but they have all gone in for steady employment during recent years, and drivers are scarce throughout the city.

The old Sun, concluding its article with the following observations:

"Reform in funerals is earnestly needed. It will not come in its entirety until those whose pecuniary ability to afford the most expensive funerals no longer doubt, direct that their burials shall be as unostentatious as possible. Probably it will not do to expect a return of the old fashioned coffin, but if the real rich would insist upon being buried in the simplest and less expensive styles of caskets, the example might be powerful on the less well-to-do. It is the poor and the very poor who suffer most from the extravagant ideas pertaining to burials and it rests with the rich to set an example of Christian simplicity, a profession of flowers, especially when they are wrought into the foolish shapes now affected, is vulgar, and any expense that is not in keeping with the means of those responsible for the burial is positively wicked. Extravagance in the employment of carriages, of flowers, of funeral trappings generally is to be condemned without cessation. We need better customs and there is no better work for the true reformer than to assist in promoting them in this matter of burials. Let every respect be shown to those who have gone before; but let it not be displayed by costly extravagance that we cannot afford."

Some people will say that the above holds good today, while others are of the opinion that the reform asked for in the above has taken place to a certain extent and there is a more general simplicity to the funerals of today than there was quarter of a century ago. The editor believes that the rich should set the example to the poor and that neither in life nor in death do the poor get close enough to the rich to observe how they do things within their home circles.

Ho, for the Beach!

While riding from Lynn to Nahant in a public conveyance, a short time ago, the chauffeur upon learning that he came from Lowell remarked: "Do you know that the Lowell people are beginning to come back to Lynn beach? It's a fact. For several years but few of them showed up here during the summer and we thought that they had left us forever, but a couple of years ago we began to notice them coming again, and this year there has been quite a number of them here."

Then he said: "Do you remember the old days when the Irish societies of Lowell came down here every year?" Upon receiving an affirmative answer, he replied:

"Those were the lively days around Lynn and Lynn beach. We made some money in those days. The Lowell people were good spenders. They always came down for a good time and they paid for it, and paid for it. They were no pickers; those Lowell people!"

The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society of quarter of a century ago occurred at this time of year, and the old Sun reported it as follows: "The annual picnic of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society was held at Lynn Wednesday, and it was the most successful ever conducted by that organization. Early in the morning, as usual, the band paraded the streets to arouse from their slumbers all who intended making the trip, and soon the crowds were seen winding their way to the Boston & Maine depot. The company provided 35 cars, all that they could find at the time and although these were crowded, there were enough left behind to make another decent picnic. In about half an hour after, 15 additional cars were despatched, while many took regular trains and went by way of Boston. The procession from the depot at Lynn to the beach was a leading attraction that was witnessed by thousands. For weeks previous, some of the Lynn people had been making preparations for the carnival and yet the supply of edibles at some of the hotels was exhausted early in the afternoon. The day was spent in rambling about the beach, bathing and dancing, everybody seeming to enjoy the occasion as much as possible. It is estimated that at least 3500 persons were present. The party returned to Lowell about 9 o'clock, the return in the cars apparently being not the least enjoyable part of the trip. John Doherty filled the part of chairman of the day with his customary solicitude for the comfort and good treatment of all. Post 42 band furnished music throughout the day. Charles H. O'Donnell was the treasurer and was loaded down with cash on his return home. In the afternoon Lynn bathing suits were at a premium, the price set upon them being from 50 cents upward and then not half that wanted then could get them."

For many years the late John Doherty ran the annual picnic of the Benevolents at Lynn beach, and with such pronounced success that none ever disputed his right to be the boss. As soon as the leaves appeared on the trees in the spring window-cards would appear on the land announcing the annual picnic to take place some few months later, for John Doherty in preparedness even in those ancient days, and gave the picnicers plenty of time in which to prepare for the event. "Then while undoubtedly he had heard the old song, 'You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear,' Mr. Doherty took no chances on nothing's forgetfulness, but had a hand through the streets at sunrise on the morning of the picnic going up one side street and down another playing their heads off in an effort to wake up everybody. In fact before the band had left for the beach at all, it had done a hard day's work. The picnic got to be such a summer event for the city of Lynn that all the factories and workshops made it a practice to shut down half a day on what was called in that city 'Lowell Irish Day.' While the other Irish societies also held their annual picnics the one event that nobody missed was the 'Ho, for the Beach,' for as such it became known locally as that it headed all announcements of the event, and hence long ago an unkind was dubbed the event 'The Annual Wash,' a name which stuck to it until it went into history, and which quarter of a century ago drew down the wrath of the editor of the old Sun, in the following remarks:

"It may be that there is something intensely humorous in adding to the excursion of the Lowell Irish Benevolent society as the 'Annual Wash.' In fact there must be or the cheap newspaper with who feed the local columns of carelessly edited sheets would not so frequently employ it. But to self-respecting people who are Irish to Irish extraction, and yet at the same time not unduly sensitive it carries a sting that its pleasantness doesn't hide."

When Bicycles Were New

Says the Sun of quarter of a century ago:

"An old man of Irish extraction, employed in sweeping the streets, was considerably shocked the other day upon seeing a woman fly past him on a bicycle. Dropping his broom and retreating back a few steps as he saw the lady disappear, he said that it was the first time that he had ever seen a man wear petticoats. He would not believe that a woman would ever think of 'walking on wheels.'"

The bicycle craze was only beginning quarter of a century ago, and not many women had taken to it at that time, hence the old gentleman's astonishment. A few years later, however, everybody was riding a bicycle and so numerous and popular were the bikes, that the city of Lowell in repaving Bridge street built a bicycle path along the curbing in that street from Merrimack square to 15th street. And now the bicycles are rarely seen.

Challifoux in Birmingham

The Sun of quarter of a century ago reprinted from the Birmingham, Ala., News, the following:

"Bully for you! That's what Birmingham feels like saying to J. L. Challifoux, the enterprising First Avenue clothiers and to S. Berthea & Co., the live real estate agents. The latter succeeded yesterday in closing a deal with J. L. Challifoux & Co. for the sale of the 100x1000 feet lot on the southwest corner of First Avenue and Nineteenth street for $60,000 cash. It is the intention of the purchasers to commence the construction of a five-story brick building on this lot at an early date and push it to completion. J. L. Challifoux & Co. have not yet had an anniversary in Birmingham and therefore their purchase is another and convincing proof of the recognition by all live business men of the solidity of Birmingham."

That was probably more money than they had seen in one time in Birmingham since the war. Mr. Challifoux went down there 26 years ago and woke up the town. He showed the natives some eastern methods of doing business and in a short time had them all 'feeding out his hand' as it were. Some of these days his son Harry may go down and show them a chip of the old block.

REBECCA WARREN DEAD

—PUPIL OF URSULINE CONVENT—FATHER WAS PRESIDENT OF OLD LOWELL BANK

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Rebecca Bennett Warren, the last surviving pupil of the famous Ursuline convent in Charlestown, which was burned by a fanatical mob in 1831, died early yesterday at the Hotel Bristol, where she had made her home for years. She was in her 95th year.

Mrs. Warren was one of the best known of Boston's oldest residents. She was the daughter of Joshua Bennett of Billerica and Boston. He was a large real estate owner in Boston and Lowell, and president of the Old Lowell National bank.

Mrs. Warren had no brothers. Her only sister was Mrs. Ellen B. Holden, mother of the late Hon. Joshua B. Holden of Boston. Mrs. Fannie A. Tinkham, mother of Congressman George Holden Tinkham, was a niece. She and her sister, Mrs. Holden, and many other non-Catholic Boston girls attended the Ursuline convent in 1831 and 1832. During her life Mrs. Warren gave freely to public and private charities. A few years ago, after she had made a gift of $5000 to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Cardinal O'Connell called on her to express his thanks.

She had an interesting life, having spent many years abroad, meeting and being entertained by royalty.

She was a Unitarian and a member of the Second church, Boston. She was possessed of considerable wealth, owning much real estate in the North and West ends.

STOLEN AUTOMOBILE TRUCK

yesterday identified by Harry G. Higbee of 13 Austin street, Hyde Park, as his machine. The car was stolen last week.

Last Friday Mark McCann of the City Hall garage received a telephone call to go to the Mammoth road and upon arriving there found a truck and it was towed to the garage in Moody street where it was stored. When no one called for it Mr. McCann became suspicious and notified the police.

Lieut. Martin Maher was assigned to the case and found that the registration number had been granted to Mr. Higbee of Hyde Park. The latter was notified and when he came to this city he identified the automobile as his.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

Appropos of all the talk concerning the high cost of living in these enlightened days, a glance at the columns of The Sun, of quarter of a century ago, reveals the fact that it also costs considerably more to bury the dead today, than it did quarter of a century ago. The Sun of quarter of a century ago, this date, had a lengthy article headed "Burial Reform," in which it presented an argument favoring less extravagance and ostentation at funerals. In its article The Sun compared the prices charged by undertakers of that day with those charged 25 years prior to that time or half a century ago, together with comparative costs for backs, flowers, etc., in each case a big increase in cost being noted. Among other things, The Sun said: "One item of expense now entering into the cost of burials is the embalming. Nowadays most bodies are so prepared, thus dispensing largely with the clumsy ice-boxes so common in former years."

The embalming process was then coming into general use, and as usual with reforms of a radical nature, at first met with much opposition on the part of those who didn't understand it. Old timers will recall the unsightly ice-boxes referred to, and popularly called "freezers," in which bodies were placed on ice to preserve them. Those have all passed away and the younger generation has never seen one, and it's just as well. If embalming is a barbarous process, freezing was 100 times more so. The added expense of embalming is one to which nobody now will object, but just ask any old time undertaker and he will tell you of the

Reduction of 1,350,000 Bales in Prospective Production—Sensational Advance

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Heavy damage to the growing cotton crop by the two June 25 and July 25 has caused a reduction of 1,350,000 bales in the prospective production. The August report of the department of agriculture, announced today, indicates a production of 12,916,000 equivalent to 600 pound bales, compared with 14,266,000 bales forecast from the condition of the crop last July 25.

The condition during the month dropped 8.5 per cent to 72.3 of a normal.

SENSATIONAL ADVANCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—A sensational advance of about $1.75 per bale followed the publication of the government's crop report on the cotton market here today. Just before the official condition of 72.3 per cent against $11 last month and the 10-5-5 average, 72.3 was published, a canvass of the local exchange members indicated an average of expectation of 76.5 per cent and the government report was also far below the most bullish of recent private figures.

HEAVY DAMAGE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Condition of the growing cotton crop on July 25 indicates a total production of 12,916,000 equivalent to 600 pound bales the department of agriculture today announced in its August cotton report. That compares with 14,266,000 bales forecast last month by the bureau of crop estimates basing its calculations on the condition of the crop on June 25, and with 11,191,820 bales, last year's final production, 16,134,956 in 1914, 14,156,456 in 1915, and 12,703,424 in 1912. The final output, however, will be larger or smaller than above forecast according as conditions hereafter are better or worse than average conditions.

Condition of the crop on July 25 as compiled from reports of agents and correspondents in the cotton belt was placed at 72.3 per cent of a normal, compared with 81.1 on June 25, 75.4 on July 25 last year, 76.4 in 1914 and 78.5, the 10-year average on July 25.

During the month storms caused some damage to the crop. In the first week weather was favorable in most places and the crop made satisfactory growth but owing to earlier unfavorable conditions some fields were irregular and in places the plants were small and backward. Boll weevil was reported damaging the crop in Texas, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Louisiana.

High winds and heavy rains of a tropical storm did serious damage in portions of the central and east (United States) during the second week. Much of the crop in the lowlands was flooded and uplands were badly washed and the crop otherwise injured. In extreme western Florida the crop was damaged from 25 to 60 per cent by the storm. Continued rains favored boll weevil increase and prevented much needed cultivation. In the western portion of the belt and northern part east of the Mississippi, weather was generally favorable and the crop made good progress. During the latter part of the month some damage was sustained from floods in the northeastern section. The weather west of the Mississippi was favorable but in the east it was less so, especially in the lowlands. Increased damage by boll weevil was reported.

Statistics compiled by the bureau of crop estimates show the value of the 1915 cotton crop was 10 per cent more than that of 1914 while the production was 30 per cent less. Total value of the 1915 crop was $194,000,000 compared with $250,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop. The 1915 crop was valued at $187,000,000.

Lint was valued at $228,000,000 for the 1915 crop, paying producers about 11.22 cents a pound as calculated on averages based upon monthly prices and monthly sales. For the 1914 crop the lint value was $291,000,000, paying producers about 7.33 cents a pound.

The value of seed of the 1915 crop was $166,000,000, paying producers $32.59 a ton compared with $129,000,000, the value of the 1914 crop's seed which paid producers $17.90 a ton. The increase in the price of the seed over 1914 was greater than the increase in the price of lint.

the constitution manifestly requires that this work be done on the first Tuesday or soon thereafter, it is apparent that the Middlesex commission has already done the work because when they assembled this morning Chairman Levi S. Gould handed out to newspapers printed copies of the new plan.

The first district includes wards 1, 2 and 3 of Cambridge which at present elect two democratic representatives. Under the new plan only one representative is allowed, so the democrats lose one there. The second and third districts remain unchanged, both being in Cambridge and electing three representatives each, all of whom are republicans.

The fourth remains unchanged and consists of Newton with three representatives. The fifth, Waltham, will continue to elect two representatives. The sixth district is Natick with one democratic representative and the seventh consists of Framingham with one representative, republican.

The eighth district includes the towns of Ashland, Holliston, Hopkinton and Sherburne and is allowed one representative who will undoubtedly be a republican.

The ninth takes in Marlboro with one democratic representative and the 10th includes Roxbury, Hudson, Maynard and Stow. It is a republican district and is allowed one representative.

Change in Eleventh

In the 11th a change has been made. Ayer has been taken out and put in the 12th while Tyngsboro has been changed from the 12th into the 11th. Bedford is taken from the 13th so that the new 11th will consist of Acton, Bedford, Carlisle, Chelmsford, Littleton, Tyngsboro and Westford. It will have one representative who will be a republican. The 12th will be unchanged except that Ayer takes the place of Tyngsboro. It will include Ashby, Ayer, Dunstable, Groton, Pepperell, Shirley and Townsend. This district will be republican and will have one representative.

The 13th district will be unchanged except that Bedford is dropped out and put in the 11th. The new district will include Concord, Lexington, Sudbury, Wayland and Weston, all of which will be represented by one representative, republican.

The Lowell Districts

The 14th, as already explained, will consist of wards one, two and nine of Lowell and will be allowed two representatives. The 15th is made up of wards three, six, seven and eight of Lowell and will have three representatives. It is a republican district. The 16th district will include wards four and five of Lowell, both of which are strongly democratic.

The 17th is practically a new district and includes Billerica, Burlington, Dracut, Tewksbury and Wilmington with one representative.

Wakefield continues a district by itself with a single representative, its boundaries being 12 instead of 21 as before. The city of Everett, likewise will continue as before, with two representatives in a district numbered 20 instead of 24. The same is true of Malden, which will have three representatives, the district being numbered 21 instead of 23. The 22d remains unchanged consisting of Melrose with one representative.

Somerville will continue to have six representatives, all of whom will be republicans in two districts, numbered 23 and 24 instead of 25 and 26. Wards 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 make up the 23d and wards 6, 7 and 8 the 24th.

In the 25th district wards 6 of Medford is dropped out of the present 25th district so that the 25th will hereafter consist of Winchester and ward 3 of Medford. All of the remaining wards of Medford grouped together in the 26th district will elect two representatives. Avonington which has heretofore been joined with Lex-

REJECTS ENGLAND'S OFFER

Germany Refuses to Permit Passage of Supplies Into Poland Under Conditions—Note to U.S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Germany has informed the United States that on account of the "impracticable conditions" imposed by Great Britain upon the shipment of foodstuffs from America into Poland, further negotiations for co-operation in Polish relief work are devoid of purpose.

Owing to favorable harvest prospects, however, the imperial government says relief apparently will be unnecessary after Oct. 1, next.

The German position is stated in a note handed to Ambassador Gerard on July 29 and made public today at the state department. It apparently is a final rejection of Great Britain's offer made in a recent communication acquired in by France to permit the passage of American food supplies into Poland on condition that the occupying Teutonic armies would not seize or remove native products.

No mention is made of President Wilson's personal letter to Emperor William, similar to those sent to other European rulers, appealing for joint action in arranging to feed the starving Poles.

The text of the note follows: "From the very beginning the imperial government declared its readiness to offer its assistance in order that the distress apparent in those parts of Russia which are occupied by German troops and systematically wasted and deprived of all victuals for the use of the remaining inhabitants by the retreating Russian hosts be eased by the relief work of the United States of America, which is organized on such a great scale.

The imperial government has particularly offered all guarantees consistent with the requirements of war that the imported foodstuffs will only serve the needs of the population of the territory occupied.

Accordingly the American relief might have been realized several months ago with the same provisions as in northern France, had not the government of Great Britain prevented its accomplishment by insisting to its unfounded and impracticable conditions. In this way it has become practically impossible to convey a considerable amount of foodstuffs from America to Poland for the expiration of the term set as the end of the relief work is October 1. Accordingly further negotiations are devoid of purpose.

But on the other hand, thanks to the intense culture of the land effected by the imperial government, by using the means available and every effort possible in the occupied territory, and owing to the favorable harvest prospects, a relief action after October 1, 1916, can apparently be dispensed with. The fact that the population of Poland and Lithuania will to some extent suffer until a new crop is lodged and later on will some times have to put up with straightened circumstances can, therefore, not be laid to the blame of the imperial government but to that of Great Britain."

TWO PAINTERS DROPPED ALDERMAN IN COURT

NOT FROM PAYROLL, BUT FROM THE ROOF—TWO MEN FELL 25 FEET

Edward Miller, living at 35 Albion street, and William E. Giroux, residing at 215 Monday street, both painters, had a narrow escape from being seriously hurt this morning about ten o'clock when the ladder they were working on parted and both men were thrown to the ground 25 feet below. Fortunately they escaped with slight bruises and a shaking up.

The men were painting a building belonging to John P. Quinn in Gorham street, near Monday street, and had a large extension ladder suspended by ropes from the ridgepole of the roof. The ladder was about 25 feet above the ground when suddenly without warning the ladder parted and both men were precipitated to the ground.

Those who witnessed the accident expected to find both men badly injured but after an examination it was found they were suffering from bruises and a general shaking up.

TRAFFIC OFFICER HURT

GIRL DRIVER MISTOOK TRAFFIC OFFICER'S SIGNAL—TWO BONES FRACTURED

Officer William Pierce of Salisbury was painfully injured when an automobile owned by Thomas O'Neill of Newburyport and driven by Mr. O'Neill's daughter ran into him, knocked him down and ran over his right leg while he was performing his duties as traffic officer at the Centre Sunday afternoon.

There were two girls in the car and they were rounding the curve at the eastern end of the Centre, near the pavilion having started for Newburyport, when Officer Pierce gave them a signal. Pierce claims he signalled for them to stop, but the girls say that he beckoned for them to proceed. Pierce turned his back on the machine that the girls were in and turned his attention to another car that was backing into a space for parking. It slipped backwards into the path of the O'Neill car and before they could bring the car to a stop they had run over his legs.

He was taken into the machine and carried to the police station and Dr. Mullin of Amesbury was called. After making an examination, Dr. Mullin ordered his removal to the Anna Jacques hospital in Newburyport and he was found to have some small bones in his right foot broken and his right leg wrenched.

DISCUSS NAVAL PROMOTIONS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Navy department bureau chiefs were today called before house conference considering the naval appropriation bill for opinions on a senate amendment proposing promotion of captains and rear admirals by selection by a naval commission instead of by seniority. Conferences between house and senate members will be resumed tomorrow. Promotion by selection is designed to cut down the number of senior non-commissioned officers in the higher positions.

COMMISSIONER WOOD CHARGED WITH VIOLATING ORDINANCE HE MADE HIMSELF

HAVERHILL, Aug. 1.—Alderman Roswell L. Wood, a municipal councillor and the commissioner of streets and highways, applied at the office of the clerk of the district court yesterday afternoon and insisted that a complaint, charging him with a violation of the traffic ordinances which he himself made, be called for a hearing in court today. His request was acceded to and witnesses were summoned last night.

The alderman was charged by Traffic Officer Frank E. Kelly with having violated the traffic ordinance several days ago on Elm corner, when he is said the alderman turned from Main street to Water street. Alderman Wood has engaged Judge John J. Ryan to appear in court for him today. He also notified City Marshal Mack that he desired him to personally prosecute the case on behalf of the police department.

Patrolman Kelly, the complaining officer, will resign from the police department this week.

CONSUL MAHIN AND HIS WIFE WERE PASSENGERS ON DUTCH MAIL STEAMER SUNK BY MINE

THE HAGUE, via London, Aug. 1.—Frank W. Mahin, the American consul at Amsterdam, and his wife, Mrs. Abbie Mahin, were the only American passengers on board the Dutch mail steamer Konigin Wilhelmina, bound from Flushing for Sheerness, which was sunk by a mine yesterday morning off North Hinder Lightship. Both were saved.

IMPORTANT DECISION POLITICAL CALENDAR

Special to The Sun
 STATE HOUSE, Boston, Aug. 1.—Injured employees who develop, as a result of the injury, a mental condition which leads them to believe that they are unable to work, are entitled to recover compensation under the terms of the workmen's compensation act, even though the physical incapacity is as a matter of fact ended, under a decision handed down yesterday by the Industrial accident board.

This decision, the first of its kind and one which undoubtedly opens the way for payments of much greater benefits to injured workmen, was reached in the case of Mercer Mario of Monson, formerly employed by A. D. Ellis & Company of that city.

Mario was employed as a picker tender; on Jan. 17 last he suffered an injury to his right knee and shoulder, and it was admitted by the insurance company that the injury was one for which compensation should be paid. Payments were made until March 23, when the company stopped them on the ground that the employee was able to return to work.

He immediately brought the matter to the attention of the accident board, and as a result an arbitration committee was appointed to determine the facts. Before this committee evidence was introduced to show that the man made one attempt to work in the mill where he was injured, but gave up after ten minutes. Later he tried to work as a farm hand, but again had to quit.

It was found that Mario could raise his right arm to the level of his shoulder, but no higher. One of the physicians testified that the man "is not working both because he lacks the desire to work and because of the pain in his arm; he lacks the desire to work because he is afraid it will hurt him. His mental attitude is such that he believes he has a great deal more pain than the injury would warrant his having; and this is as disabling as if the actual pain existed. His general appearance indicates that his condition is preying on him, and his mental condition is getting worse."

Accepting this testimony as final, the board finds that the injured employee is entitled to receive payments until he secures such light work as he can do. "While it may be true that physically he was able to return to work on Mar. 23, 1915," the board says, "his mental attitude growing out of his injury was such that he himself did not feel that he was able to work, and his mind dwelling upon his troubles exaggerated them to a point where he was unable to work because of this neurasthenic condition. We find that this condition of neurasthenia exists, and flows from the accident."

The employee is advised, however, that he should accept any position which may be offered him in which the work will be light, and his failure to do so will justify the suspension by the company of further payments.

His License Suspended

Following receipt of a copy of the record of the Lowell court, showing that Robert J. Ledwell of Somerville paid a fine of $25 last Wednesday after being convicted of operating a motor cycle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the highway commissioners announced yesterday that Ledwell's license to operate motor vehicles in this state has been revoked for a period of one year, as required by the new law, which went into effect July first.

500 PEACE MEETINGS

PRAYERS FOR PEACE ON SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF WORLD WAR

LONDON, August 1.—The second anniversary of the world war is being observed throughout the whole of Scandinavia, says a despatch from Copenhagen to the Exchange Telegraph Co. Two hundred peace meetings are being held in Denmark and three hundred in Sweden. All the church bells are being rung and prayers for peace are being said.

Five minutes after the start of its wild dash the horse was found peacefully munching grass in a neighboring street. Neither the horse nor the team was damaged.

—Recognizing Something New

Has Granted a Patent, Both on the Form of Flake and Process of Manufacture of

New Post Toasties

This remarkable recognition—no other corn flake on the market has achieved it—marks this new food as something distinctly different from "corn flakes" of the past.

What Is This Difference?

Compare New Post Toasties with the average corn flake—observe the tiny bubbles which cover their surface. These bubbles are caused by a new method of cooking, rolling and toasting under quick, intense heat.

By this process the true corn flavour is developed in all its sweetness. Eaten dry they are a delicious morsel. With cream or milk they are a revelation to the taste. Note the "substance" of New Post Toasties. Unlike old-style "corn flakes" they do not break or "chaff" in the package. They do not mush down under milk or cream. They are wonderfully delicious.

And they come to you direct from the giant ovens of our three great Toastie Factories, untouched by human hand and triply sealed in a moisture-proof container which preserves their fresh Golden Goodness for your table.

tries, suffragists have abandoned their propaganda work, declared a great political truce, and at once offered their organized strength to their attack on the work of the men who have been called to arms—in agricultural lines; in trades hitherto considered solely the province of men; in the commonest and hardest of labors; on the battlefield as nurses with a self-negation, a fortitude and a bravery equalling if not exceeding that of the soldiers themselves. They have kept their countries on a "going" basis in the absence of their men. The trials and struggles through which they have passed during these two years have placed both men and women on a higher plane of thinking where much of pettiness and unreason are left behind. They are meeting on common ground, as it were, which is as good as brothers and sisters, born of the same mother, brought up sharing the same family life, receiving the same teaching, from their education and environment sharing the same views of life, why should man-suffrage prevail to the exclusion of woman-suffrage? Through war, trouble, and stress, the struggling nations are awakening to a sense of right and justice in regard to the position of woman in the economy of national life which was denied to these nations in times of peace and security.

There's Nothing New

Uncle Sam's discovery that preserving may be done without sugar is a timely one, but not altogether new. A practical housekeeper with whom I have been discussing the matter, has canned blueberries and other small fruit without sugar for many years, and finds the flavors fully as good as when the same fruits are canned with sugar. With the larger fruits, however, plums, pears and peaches, she finds the sugarless method unsatisfactory, as the flavor is impaired and the appearance suffers. She likened the result to serving vegetables without salt. No addition of salt can equal the salting done while the vegetable is cooking. So in the case of canning without sugar, no subsequent addition of sugar is quite as satisfactory as using sugar at the time of canning. If Uncle Sam could devise a plan for keeping the price of sugar normal during canning time, he would gladden the hearts of a nation of resourceful housekeepers.

She's Over Seven

Ever since advertising became the important element it is, the great aim of merchants has been to produce striking advertisements. Various schemes have been resorted to in order to make the appeal striking, and in the humble opinion of Lady Lookabout, a Merrimack street merchant scored a climax a few days ago. The appeal was indeed striking, in fact it struck her on the top of the head. She was coming down the aforementioned street with eyes straight ahead, as you know women do in passing through a neighborhood of show-windows, when with a soft little rush a girl's dress left its overhead mooring outside a store and landed plump on her head. Lady Lookabout looked about, as usual, and the dress slipped to the ground. As she stood looking at it she observed a tag which said, "7 years." Clearly, the garment was not intended for Lady Lookabout, for, painful as it is for her to acknowledge it, many moons have passed since she was seven. She is over seven, emphatically, so she daintily (for her) stepped over the prostrate garment and proceeded on her way, doggedly "looking about" to keep her self from muttering—

"Of all the sad words of tongue or pen"—and so on—I cannot bear to write it."

Now if the progressive merchant had assailed the aforesaid lady with a charming bathing suit, decently long, yet smartly short, possibly he would have made a sale, but while his method is most striking, his knowledge of the psychology of selling to women is bad—very bad.

The Boys Like 'Em

All the summer fashion journals, and all the smart ladies' furnishing stores' advertisements designate the present fashions by one word—"sports." There are sports hats, sports waists, skirts, coats, sweaters, boots, gloves, and vests; everything is sports, and running the limit as they do in color, they are positively refreshing to look upon, whatever the occasion. coats and sweaters of heavy silk, some in broad, brilliant stripes such as vivid green and white, red and white, black and white, gold and blue, and numerous other combinations. These brilliant coats and sweaters are worn over white skirts that are very short and therefore show considerable of the footgear. Sports hats to correspond with the coats add to these charming summer outfits.

THE JERSEY CONFLAGRATION

A fire that started on the Lehigh pier on the Jersey side across from the city of New York last Sunday exploded tremendous quantities of war munitions of the allies, inflicted a property loss estimated at $45,000,000, brought death and injury to many and afforded an awful lesson to the entire country. New York had never before seen anything so terribly spectacular. Blazing barges filled with shells drifted in the harbor, immense rockets exploded overhead, plate glass to the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars fell from skyscrapers and state stores and millions of startled citizens fled from the homes, fearing that an earthquake or some other destructive force would wipe out the entire city.

It may be days before the true facts of the fire will become known and they may never be known, but already the inevitable investigation is under way. As in all accidents to munitions for the allies, plots are suspected that if proved will place an enormous responsibility on the shoulders of those guilty. Yet, plots or no plots, the blame may be partly laid to the door of those who permitted such enormous quantities of destructive commodities to lay in barges and freight cars so near to two teeming cities. Enough had transpired during the past two years to show the country the dangers attendant on the storing and transportation of high explosives and so far as precautions can go, New York and Jersey City should have been safeguarded.

In a flaring headline "Munitions Blow-up Due to Disregard of Law," and it remains for federal, state and city authorities to determine who broke the law. It is said that an independent transportation company tied a barge of high explosives to a railroad pier, but options differ as to whether the fire started on this barge or was communicated to it from a freight car nearby. A railroad agent, the superintendent of a warehouse and the president of a lightering company will have to answer in the courts, but before the investigation is through, the courts may be face to face with a more complicated situation than is now anticipated.

Entirely apart from the awful destruction brought by the fire and the bursting shrapnel shells, the descriptive writers made the most of the sentimental value of the Statue of Liberty which, though bombarded by the fire fiends, held its light aloft over the terrible scene. If the fire was the result of a plot—and there have been many such—the triumphant statue may serve as a symbol; if it was due to carelessness and indifference, we may well ask if officials do not often abuse the liberty afforded by a democratic government. Whatever the investigation may prove, it will be long before New York forgets this experience which gave it a slight impression of what has happened in many great cities of Europe during two years of war. Here indeed was a spectacle that to New York was far more vivid than the bombardment scene from the Fall of a Nation.

PROTEST AGAINST BLACKLIST

The protest of the American government against England's blacklisting of American firms is more emphatic than was expected, but the ground is given for every firm deduction. England is told that her policy is unfair and illegal; that it would impose hardships on neutrals and have effects which are not apparent on a superficial reading; that it would hurt legitimate American business which has no connection with the war and that it might react in a far different way from what is expected. One of the strongest declarations is that the United States has a perfect right to trade with the central powers, under the rules of international law "which the government of the United States deems the government of Great Britain to have too lightly and too frequently disregarded."

The note is a fair and dispassionate statement of facts and opinions but in sporting parlance it has "the punch." It is shall not suffice to show to England how foolish her blacklist boycott has been. England does not care to be shown and has not weighed the possible consequences of a policy that may so easily prove a boomerang. In her zeal to get back at Germany for the successful voyage of the Deutschland, England may have thought she could ride roughshod over American rights, but with saner reflection she may think otherwise. In this note President Wilson cannot be accused of using weak words, and there are intimations that it will have the desired effect, since to persist in the blacklist would eventually make England the victim of a sweeping American embargo. Incidentally, who can find in the note any proof of the political assertion that President Wilson is not a friend to business?

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

The New Bedford Mercury has decided to adopt the policy which The Sun has followed for years in refusing to accept liquor advertising. There are certain evils inseparable from the liquor business, and The Mercury like The Sun is doubtless unwilling to be responsible for them to the extent of offering the business the publicity of its columns.

In taking this step The Mercury like The Sun undergoes a very considerable financial loss as liquor advertising in any city like Lowell or New Bedford is worth thousands of dollars annually. What may have been The Mercury's experience in dealing with the liquor business we are not aware, although from a recent editorial in that paper, it would seem that some liquor advertisers thought they had a right to dictate the policy of the paper on certain matters pertaining to their interests.

Our New Bedford contemporary is to be congratulated upon taking a stand that will make it absolutely independent of the liquor interests. It is the attitude of perhaps most of the leading papers of this country and also of the more influential magazines. We firmly believe the day is not far distant when every decent and self-respecting publication will refuse the use of its columns for advertisements which in the most insidious manner invite both young and old to "put an enemy in their mouths to steal away their brains."

OUR YELLOW DAY

The old timers whose memories give them such conscious superiority over those of today had a chance to wag their heads and look wise last Sunday when the smoke from Canadian fires in our upper atmosphere gave us a repetition of "yellow day." It may not have been as the other day 20, or 30 or 50 years ago but it was yellow enough to get everybody talking about it and wondering what it portended. In the early morning there was a sort of orange glow in the air, like the light that comes through a stained glass window, and when the people were coming out of church it had changed into a garish light that made everybody look sickly and that hurt the eyes. It was like the light that is sometimes on land and sea when the sun is setting but it was not so soft and agreeable. Somehow, it seems to go with the times. So awful and in a sense unnatural have been the happenings of recent days that people almost expect to see the light of day streaming through a scarlet mist or obscured by a pall of darkness. There are morbid and decadent days and if some evening should send us a bloody dew or some morning should bring poison fumes from the trenches of France it would seem more fitting than the pure white light of day in this blessed land of peace and prosperity.

FOREST FIRES

No other country has forest fires in the same intensity as the countries of the American continent. Sometimes they sweep through the wooded areas of the United States and again they wreak havoc in the Canadian woods. At present a wide area of Ontario is being devastated, and it is feared that hundreds of lives have already been lost. From the meagre accounts obtainable it seems that the loss of life in most cases is due to the reluctance of householders to make their exit in time. They wait hopefully until all hope is out off by walls of living fire. This is the season that the American government warns the people against carelessness in this same connection. The camp fire lighted for sport or the little cigarette stub carelessly thrown into the brush may start a forest fire that may occasion the loss of life and millions of dollars' worth of property. We are learning conservation of the forests as well as of everything else and nothing can conduce to this more than the hearty and intelligent co-operation of the American public.

SWIM AFTER DARK

Persons who walk through Dutton street these evenings after dark may hear muffled laughter from the canal bank, punctuated by an occasional splash. Investigation will reveal bands of boys and young men having a surreptitious swim in the canal waters. When the mercury is as high as it has been for the past few days it is hard to blame them, but it is not a pretty state of affairs that Lowell cannot do better for its boys than to permit them to steal a swim in the canal after dark. In the absence of a more pretentious bathing pool we might at least have set aside canal areas and invited our boys to swim under adequate supervision. But though this sounds well in theory it is not likely to be put into practice until the powers that be take a different view of Lowell's official responsibility in this direction.

It is not to be supposed that the swimming in the canal is restricted to the evening but at any time it is a poor substitute for the supervised bathing which most progressive cities enjoy. The drowning of two more boys strengthens an argument for bathing facilities which is only too obvious.

PUBLIC SUFFERS MOST

The street car strikers in New York went on strike to punish the companies, but incidentally they are punishing the public—and the public suffers most. New York is notoriously a city of commuters and its myriads of workers live for the most part in the suburbs. No matter how just the claims of the car employees may be, the strike has brought about a situation that is well nigh intolerable. It has been held for a long time that a strike of large dimensions affecting the rights of the public would serve to show how the public will regard such a condition in future. If the present condition in New York should continue for any considerable time, the public may take steps to show that their rights should be considered by both sides in any controversy before final action is taken. This may prove the long-expected test.

Value of Sunlight

Sunlight is a great germicide. Our pioneer grandmothers did not know much about germs, but they acted on modern principles when they hung their milk pails and strainers in the sun "to sweeten," as they said. Sunlight, as well as fresh air, should be used as a part of the general processes of housecleaning. The thrifty habit of shutting out the sun in order to keep carpets and draperies from fading indicates a degree of ignorance of modern methods of sanitation. The airing and sunning of bedding every week all the year around, is a most important part of good housekeeping, but one which is much neglected, especially by women who live in flats, where science is very often sacrificed to esthetics. Therefore it becomes imperative that at housecleaning time the under side of rugs, carpets, mattresses and cushions should be exposed to the sun and air for as long a period as possible. Sunlight is free to all. Plants will not thrive without it. Animals love to bask in it. Only man shuns it and by so doing he incurs unnecessary danger from tuberculosis and many other diseases. —Salt Lake City Telegram.

The Sausage Story

One evening the proprietor of a small restaurant on returning from another part of the building was somewhat surprised as well as dismayed to see a patron hurriedly arise from the table without waiting for his order, and leave the room.

"Jones," said the proprietor, addressing one of the waiters, "what made that man leave without being served?"

"He ordered sausages, sir," answered the waiter, "and I went out into the kitchen to get them."
"Yes, yes," impatiently interrupted the proprietor, "but what did that have to do with it?"
"Everything, sir," answered the waiter in meek voice. "In going into the kitchen I accidentally stepped on the tail of the dog, and the dog yelled, sir."

Another War Motto

"Mr. Interlocutor, can you tell me which is the richest country in the world?"
"Why, the United States is the richest country in the world, Mr. Interlocutor."

"No, it isn't. Ireland is the richest country in the world."
"And why is Ireland the richest country in the world, Mr. Interlocutor?"
"Because it is always Dublin."

"While the undertakers are gathering up the shattered remains of the war, Mr. Interlocutor, I think you will render the pathetic halloo, 'Here lies what's left of poor Jim Flynn. He's gone. He couldn't stop; he sang 'Guns mit der Kaiser in a German barber shop!'"

Boy is About Right

Before he became bishop of Birmingham, Dr. Russell Wakefield, who is on a visit to the western front as the guest of Gen. Joffre, was a member of the London school board. One day he paid a surprise visit to a public school. Human anatomy was the subject under discussion at the moment. Dr. Wakefield took a hand in it.

"Now tell me," he asked one small boy, "what is a skeleton?"
The small boy looked earnest and very thoughtful for a second or two. Then—

"Please sir," he replied, "a skeleton is a man with his inside out and his outside off."

The Glen of the Mist

My beautiful corral where cattle wander
Mighty verdant, and covered over
With wild flowers tender of the sweetest smell;
Dark is the green of thy grassy clothing.

Soft swelling thy hillocks most green
And deep
The canna blowing, the dandelion growing.
While the deer troop past to the misty deep.

Fine for wear is thy beautiful mantle,
Strongly woven and ever new,
With rough grass over it and, brightly
The grass all spangled with diamond dew.

It's round, my corral, my lovely corral,
Where rushes thicken and long reeds blow.
Fine were the harvest to any reaper
Who could go the marsh and the bog; could go.

In every nook of the mountain path—
The garlic-dower may be thickly found—
And out on the sunny slopes around
Hang berries, juicy and red and round.

The pennyroyal and dandelion,
The daisy canna together here—
Thickly they grow from the base of the mountain
To the topmost crag of his crest so high.

And not a crag but is clad most richly
For rich and silvery the soft moss rings.
Fine is the moss, most clean and stainless.
Hiding the look of unlovely things;
Down in the hollows beneath the summit
Where the verdure is growing rich and deep.

The little daisies are looking upwards,
And the yellow primroses often peep.

NASHUA BOY HAS EASY JOB BITING SNAKES, BUT WAS SHORT ON PAY

NASHUA, Aug. 1.—Jean Consigny, 15, of this city was brought back from Biddeford, Me., by Inspector Dean, as a runaway boy. He had been the girl "snake eater" of the midway show which played on the local circus grounds week before last. He ran away with the show when it went to Biddeford a week ago.

In the show he was supposed to be a "girl." He was dressed in red tights and put in the den of snakes. He was supposed to get savage and apparently sink his teeth in the bodies of the snakes with which he was surrounded. For it he was promised $10 a week. But when the first Saturday came he did not get his $10 and being a good collector he applied to the Biddeford police to aid him in collecting his stipend for "biting snakes."

It was then found by questioning by the Biddeford police that Consigny was on probation from the Nashua police court, and he was returned to Nashua.

AVERY CHEMICAL CO.

SUPT. CLAFFIN SAYS COMPANY HAS COMPLIED WITH REQUIREMENTS OF THE COURT

According to Supt. Claffin of the Avery Chemical Co., his company has complied fully with the requirements of the court in the order set forth when the temporary injunction was issued.

He says that the judge asked him at that time how the company proposed to correct the defects in the plant, by which the fumes of the sulphurous gas were escaping, and he set forth three steps that were to be taken. The court directed that these improvements be made, and that they be installed within two and a half weeks. Mr. Claffin says that when the time limit expired yesterday, all the requirements had been met. He hopes that this will put an end to the escape of the gas, and says that if it does not do so, the company is prepared to seek a solution in some other way. Relative to the charge that there was an escape of the gas with attendant damage done last week, Mr. Claffin states that the odor of the gas was distinguishable at that time, but that no actual damage has been reported to him.

NORTH WIND BROKE MURDEROUS HEAT WAVE IN CHICAGO AFTER 19 DAYS

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The murderous heat wave which settled upon Chicago and vicinity 19 days ago was broken at 6 o'clock this morning, when a lake breeze, at first a faint zephyr increasing to a stiff, cool wind, crept through the smothering torridity and brought relief to the sweating thousands. Doubtless it saved hundreds of lives, for the endurance of many persons who had withstood the long hours was exhausted, and another day's fight would have overwhelmed them.

The north wind, sweeping off the lake and bringing relief to wilted Chicago, means trouble for the south and east, as the tropical heat is being driven in these directions. Forecasters say the wind will continue three days at least. In time it will reach the Ohio and middle Mississippi valleys, but driven ahead of it will be the great volume of heat which has taken such heavy toll here.

HOW WAVE AFFECTED CHICAGO

Duration of unbroken heat, 19 days. Average temperature for month, 33 degrees—20 above normal.
Killed by heat directly, 325 persons; and of heat exhaustion and drownings, 202; total, 527.
Babies killed by heat, 176.
Seriously prostrated during heat siege, 2500.
Bitten by rabid dogs during heat siege, 37.
Horses dropped dead in streets, in five days, 650.

RISKS LIFE, SAVES GIRL

MRS. ADA V. TUOHY RESCUED TWO YOUNG WOMEN FROM DROWNING IN THE LAKE

WORCESTER, Aug. 1.—Mrs. Ada V. Tuohy, the Boston wrestling promoter, saved two young women from drowning in Lake Quabbin here yesterday afternoon, after a thrilling battle that nearly cost her own life. But for the timely assistance of Estes McMillan, 15, who happened to hear Mrs. Tuohy's calls for assistance, all three might have perished.

The rescued young women were Margaret Walsh, 17, of St. Albans, N. H., daughter of J. H. Walsh, superintendent of the Canadian Steamship company, and Alice Childs, 15, of this city.

About 3 o'clock this afternoon the two girls were bathing on the short stretch of beach off Mr. Tuohy's cottage at the lake when they were caught in a swirling motor boat caused both to lose their footing. As neither could swim they were speedily out of their depth.

As they floundered in the water their cries for help were heard by Mrs. Tuohy. Without stopping to dress herself of any clothing she rushed out of the house and into the water and a few moments later was grappling with the struggling girls. The Childs girl at that time had held of the Walsh girl, so grabbing her Mrs. Tuohy started for shore and safety.

She had proceeded but a short distance, however, when the Walsh girl threw her arms about Mrs. Tuohy's neck, pulling her under her arm, forcing her to let go the other girl. The latter caught hold of Mrs. Tuohy's shoulder and all went under the surface. By this time the Walsh girl had swallowed so much water as to become unconscious and released her hold about Mrs. Tuohy's neck. Exhausted by the struggle and burdened by the two girls Mrs. Tuohy was unable to get in nearer shore and was in a serious predicament. It was then that her cries brought McMillan to the rescue. He rushed into the water, and getting the Walsh girl by the wrist started for shore. A human chain was formed by Mrs. Tuohy, holding the other wrist with one hand and the Childs girl with the other, and all succeeded in getting ashore.

At the Tuohy cottage where all received medical aid, the Walsh girl regained her senses, but it will be several days before the trio fully recover from the effects.

ACTIVITIES INDICATING EARLY DEPARTURE OF DEUTSCHLAND NOTICED

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 1.—Activities indicating the early departure of the German submarine Deutschland on her homeward voyage to Germany were noticed at the pier at which she is berthed today.

The boat forming the outer harbor about the vessel were towed into mid-stream and anchored. Then the tug Timmins and a launch swept the channel from the dock out to the main channel with a heavy weight suspended under water from a line between the two craft. This was done evidently as a precaution against possible obstructions in the path. The United States coast guard cutter Wisashickon arrived from Philadelphia while these operations were in progress, and took up a position off the end of the slip.

It was learned from a trustworthy source that Capt. Koenig has asked for a pilot to guard the Deutschland from seaward to the Virginia-Capes. The pilot designated was said to be Capt. Owen Coleman who brought the Deutschland into this port.

Later the spar barricade was replaced just outside the line of covered barges which screen the Deutschland from seaward. The river and the Timmins returned to her position alongside the submarine.

The city police boat Lannan meanwhile had joined the Wisashickon and in response to a signal both boats steamed to the pier. After a conference between the captains of these two craft and the German officers, the Wisashickon and Lannan steamed away and it became apparent that the Deutschland would not leave immediately.

It is known that the submarine was expected to leave at high tide this forenoon. Owing to the strong adverse wind, however, the flood stage was not as high as required by the Deutschland, necessitating a postponement of the start. The pilot was aboard. The next tide occurs between 7 and 9 o'clock this evening.

Arrangements were made it was said by an official connected with the company operating the Deutschland, for the submarine to leave this afternoon or this evening.

DROWNED AT LAKEVIEW

BODY OF YOUNG MAN SUPPOSED TO BE JAMES GARVIN OF NASHUA, FOUND TODAY

The body of a young man, believed to be that of James H. Garvin of Nashua, N. H., was found floating in Lake Massachusett between Lakeview and Willow Dale this forenoon. The body was removed to the funeral parlors of Undertaker James W. McKenna in Bridge street, where it awaits identification.

The body was found by Jesse Corburn, who conducted a boat house at the entrance to Willow Dale. It was floating near the shore on the Willow Dale side of the lake, about half way between the two summer resorts. After an investigation on the shore Mr. Corburn found a pair of gray trousers, a gray coat and a blue cap, the latter bearing the first name of Jesse Corburn. The body was found in a pocketbook containing $2.15 as well as a receipt for photographs to James H. Garvin and signed "Boynton". The Sun reporter learned from the Nashua police that there is a photographer in Nashua by the name of Boynton.

This description of the body is as follows: Age, about 23; height, about 5 feet and 7 inches; weight, about 130 pounds; gray hair and fair complexion. With the clothing were also found a pair of black lace Oxford shoes. It is believed the young man was drowned while bathing and according to the condition of the body it did not remain in the water more than two or three days. The Nashua police have been notified of the finding of the body.

BATTLE WITH U-BOAT

BRITISH STEAMER ARRIVES—COMMANDER TELLS OF BATTLE IN MEDITERRANEAN

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—The British steamer Clodmoor, just in port from Genoa, Italy, had a battle in the Mediterranean with a German or Austrian submarine, her commander, Charles Hunter, reported today. He believes that he hit the submarine in a sinking condition.

The Clodmoor plainly shows the marks of the submarine's gunfire. The steamship is armed with one gun for defensive purposes and it was with this, her captain said, that he shelled the submarine when she attacked and so seriously damaged her that she drew off in apparently a sinking condition. The battle lasted half an hour, according to Capt. Hunter, but only one shell did serious damage to the Clodmoor. This pierced the vessel near the engine's and water's quarters. Several shells, however, dropped on the vessel's decks.

BUSINESS IS BOOMING

PRESENT TREND ALONG LINES TENDING TO A MORE PERMANENT PROSPERITY

WASHINGTON, August 1.—The monthly summary of business in the United States, prepared by the federal reserve board today shows domestic demand gradually taking the place of foreign orders.

"The present trend of business is more along the line of conservatism which bankers and business men have been urging," the summary stated. Boston reports that while business in almost all lines continues good, the present trend is more along lines tending to a more permanent prosperity.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Cool winds from the Great Lakes today had dissipated almost completely the wave of heat under which most of the country had sweated for a week. Generally fair and cooler weather is forecast for New England during the next few days.

K. OF C. CONVENTION

DAVENPORT, Ia., Aug. 1.—The membership of the Knights of Columbus on June 29 was 363,123, an increase of 21,517 over the preceding year, according to the annual report of the supreme secretary made before the annual convention today.

The report shows assets for the order totaling nearly $7,000,000, which is an increase of more than $500,000. Total collections during the year just ending were $2,119,133, and death benefits paid out were $459,305, the report said. The total insurance in force was given as $123,000,000.

Forty-two new councils were instituted during the year and 2340 members died.

SHARK SCARE AT HAMPTON

Visitors at Hampton beach Sunday experienced a double shark scare, but both proved to be illusory. The first "shark" proved, after investigation by Lifeguard George McDonald, to be a boat, to be a piece of driftwood covered with seaweed. At 6:30 o'clock in the evening, another exemplification of "seeing things at night" took place. This time the "shark" proved upon investigation to be a five-foot porpoise which was later joined in frolicking in the water in front of Cutler's Sea View house by three smaller companions.

Two good-sized whales have been noticed a mile off shore at Salisbury beach during the past few days.

COX WINS TWICE

Yesterday Was New England Day on Grand Circuit

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 1.—It was very much of a New England day at Recreation park yesterday when the five-day Grand Circuit opened, for Walter Cox, from New Hampshire, started two Massachusetts-owned horses and won with both of them, one the feature event, the $2000 Rickman stake for 212 trotters.

The stake winner was worthy of the name, for Cox, who is a disarming first for favorite players, all three first choices being beaten. The opening failed to attract as large a crowd as in former years, the terrific heat keeping the attendance to the smallest figure seen on the Grand Circuit this season.

Azora Axworthy was favorite for the trotting stake, selling at $50 against $35 for the field. The mare from the Murphy stable had won at both North Andover and Detroit and was naturally figured best.

She led into the stretch in the first heat, when Cox made his drive with worthy Prince, and the big stallion nipped her out at the wire in 2:08 1/4. The mare broke in the second and the Cox stable had no trouble in beating Highland. In the final Murphy trailed worthy Prince to the stretch, then pulled out and the pair fought it out. Worthy Prince wavered and went to a short break close to the wire, but finished a neck to the good and got the decision in 2:02 1/4. The winner is owned by Sanford Small of Boston.

The 2:05 trot was a long drawn out, split heat affair, going the limit, and in this Cox also put his mount, Director Todd, across Beaton, from the Cox stable, with John Benyon driving, was the favorite at even money, against the Green stallion in a close finish. The big surprise came in the fourth, when the California gelding, Kid Cupid, spinted to the front and won. Cox had ridden an easy heat this time, and in the fifth heat he took Director Todd to the front, and the little stallion never was headed. He is owned by Chaucery Sears of Fall River, Mass.

Worthy Prince, a member of the Murphy stable, was favorite for the 2:15 pace, but had to take second place to Thomas Earl, an Indiana pacer, who was the class of a rather cheap field at all stages.

HAD MANY MANAGERS

REDS WERE PILOTED BY SEVERAL OLD TIMERS BEFORE CHRISTY MATHEWSON TOOK THE HELM

Charley Herzog finds himself in plenty of company since giving up the management of the Cincinnati Reds. He found on the horizon of life many former managers who failed to last in that city. Scanning the list of names, it is wondered if there is a man in baseball who could be successful in that town. Charley Coniskey, Sid McPherson, Buck Ewing, Joe Kelley, Clark Griffith, Hank O'Day and Joe Tinker are numbered with those who have tried the job, only to give up in disgust and depart with the title of failure behind their names. Now comes Christy Mathewson, for years the idol of New York fans, to try his hand at the wheel.

The last showing of the club in recent years was when Hank O'Day had charge. It finished well up in the race, but the next year Hank drew his release and the club has been floundering around last place since.

Those in a position to know declare that the large board of directors that controls the destinies of the club is responsible, as a trade or deal can be put over unless the said board gives its approval. Baseball clubs controlled by such boards never have been a success and the teams making good are those under the leadership of one man.

Piloting the Reds is pretty much like leading army troops in the war, for the manager never knows what plans the directors are framing to change the lines of battle which are different from those the manager has in view for the opposing teams.

MANAGER HEADS LOWELL BATTING WITH .306—NEXT MAN HITTING FOR .239

Manager Joe Kilhullen remains the only Lowell player batting in the .300 class, his average being just three points better than that mark. Clarence Parker is striding the pill at a .239 clip and Stimpson and Greenleaf have held their own during the past week. The averages follow:

EASTERN LEAGUE COMMENT

Harry Donovan, the star New Haven pitcher, will be given a try-out by Connie Mack at the end of the Eastern league season. Donovan was recommended by Danny Murphy, a former Mackman.

"Shorty" Dee might fit in well on the Lowell team right now.

Joe Kane plays the initial sack like a veteran and yesterday he made some fine stops of bad throws. Kane is one of the hardest workers on the team, also.

Ralph O'Connell's absence from the game at this time comes hard. The speedy shortstop will not return for about two weeks on account of the injury to his hand sustained Saturday.

George Spires, who belongs to the Lowell club, has been traded by Hartford to Springfield for Fletcher Lord, the former Dartmouth college and Boston Braves player. Spires is now playing in the Springfield lineup. Owner Roach has notified Manager Flynn of Spires' connection with the local club.

Report has it that Manager Billy Hamilton of Worcester is angling for the services of Ray Keating, the New York American pitcher, who is about to be dropped. Gene McCall of the Millionaires, also thinks well of the former Lawrence twirler.

Lowell and Hartford are playing the same type of baseball. Each team lost six and failed to win a game last week and now Hartford has Lowell beaten for last place by a half game.

Charlie Kolbner put some life in the game and provided some fun for the crowd by his chatter on the third base coaching lines. Charlie will be at the park for the next few days.

Joe Briggs, with two singles, helped the visitors to score two of their four runs. Joe had no mercy for his old team mates.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

The Braves are back in their old place, four games behind Brooklyn and one-half game ahead of Phillies.

Yesterday was a hard day for pitchers in the big leagues and few went through the entire nine innings.

Babe Ruth performed a great feat by leading the Tigers, with Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford, to two hits. Allowing a team like Detroit but two hits at this stage of the season is no easy task.

Matty Zieser fielded his position in line style and also contributed a brace of singles. Mulrennan drove out a double in the seventh, showing that some pitchers can hit.

And Welser has dropped into third place in batting in the Eastern league, yielding second place to Pat Maloney of Worcester. Hammond of Springfield is still on top and is showing no signs of slumping.

Portland is going along with one catcher and yesterday Chief Sweet had to go behind the bat when Gaston was lamed by Empire Stafford. Fletcher Tuckey is a good utility man and he filled in at first base, while Dowell went to second.

New Haven is getting along well without the Shannon twins. Chouinard is taking Joe's place in center field and Manager Murphy is covering second. Whalen, recently released by Bridgeport, has been signed to play third base and Lou Courtney was shifted to shortstop.

John J. O'Hara, the new owner of the Lawrence club, has no intention of moving to another city. It was thought that Dan O'Neil, vice president of the league, was concerned in the affair with O'Hara, but this could not be confirmed. The sale means the elimination of Theo O'Donnell as manager, for O'Hara will take the reins himself and may even play. O'Hara is well known in these parts. He started his baseball career at Niagara university, and since then he has played with Waterbury, Holyoke, New Britain and Springfield in the Connecticut league. His managerial experience consists of active campaigns in the Twin State league, where he piloted Brattleboro and Clarendon at different times. There was some talk of O'Hara taking over the Bridgeport franchise some weeks ago, but this fell through with the sale of the club to the American chain company.

1916 season in the American league has been made by the St. Louis Browns, who registered their 11th consecutive victory yesterday. It was the fifth straight game taken from the Yankees, who led the league before their visit to St. Louis.

Are the New York Giants out to equal their recent record? Yesterday they won their sixth straight game from the Pittsburgh Pirates.

It was hard to see old Larry Lajota throw away yesterday's game between Philadelphia and the White Sox in the 11th inning after the youngsters had tried so hard to win.

Cleveland, without the services of Tris Speaker, was trounced by the Senators yesterday by the score of 11 to 1.

The Braves are up against it now in their catching department. Goudy received a split finger in the second game and Transue was injured when he collided with Allen, when both were endeavoring to field a slow roller. It looks as though Rico, who is having his first year in professional baseball, will have to do the backstop work for a few days to come.

A Sensible Cigarette

Here's cigarette-comfort

FATIMA may never become the only cigarette smoked by keen, substantial men of this type. But Fatima has already become more popular with such men than almost any other cigarette.

This is because men who smoke wisely want a SENSIBLE cigarette—a cigarette that is comfortable to the tongue and throat and that leaves a man feeling "fit" and clear-headed even after smoking more often than usual. You should try Fatimas.

French Under Secretary of War and Munitions Tells of Terrific Results of French Shell Fire

LYONS, France, Aug. 1.—The terrific results of French shell fire was described by Albert Thomas, under secretary of war and munitions, addressing a gathering of workers in munition factories here.

"During the long months we have just passed through," he said, "there have been hours when a slight mistake or misunderstanding existed between citizens doing their duty in the interior of the country and those fulfilling the nobler and more dangerous task on the front. It was said that the workers slackened and did not supply the army with all it needed. Well, here is a pleasant fact to be observed in the summer. When the Tenth regiment of the colonial corps, entered the villages of Hemi and Curly and when they carried Monaca farm, do you know how they entered? Not by assault, not in risking all the infantry. No, they walked, as the soldiers said to me a few days ago, came in hand through the village, or, rather, through an immense sea of broken red bricks which represented the village, and in gratitude and friendship their thoughts turned toward their comrades in the rear.

"They asked me to thank in their name the workmen and women of the munition factories who had enabled them to enter there without shedding their blood. There were only five seriously wounded in the whole brigade. It was thus they entered in triumph a village occupied only a few moments before by the enemy.

IRISH TO FIGHT CABINET

Will Take First Chance to Turn Out Coalition Ministry Say Redmond and Dillon

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The result of the home rule debate in the house of commons yesterday was to leave the Irish nationalists in a fighting mood and ready to war on the government on any question except the winning of the great conflict with Germany.

John Redmond, the Irish leader, said the action of the government left the nationalists free to watch, criticize and oppose, if necessary, the coalition government when and where they pleased. Joseph Devlin, the Belfast nationalist, and the one who was chiefly instrumental in getting the Ulster nationalists to agree to the exclusion of six Ulster counties, was even further when he said he hoped on the next division the nationalists would be able to turn out the coalition government.

The debate seems to have left the prospect of an amicable settlement of the Irish problem as distant as before. Premier Asquith made a conciliatory speech, and expressed the conviction that a permanent settlement would be reached sooner than any persons imagined.

John Redmond, the nationalist leader, made it clear that his party was dissatisfied and would henceforth consider itself absolved from association with the coalition government and free to criticize and oppose it independently in any circumstances.

The main ground for his objections to the government's plan for an interim government was that it would be in the hands of the new secretary of Ireland, Henry Edward Duke, and the attorney general, Sir Frederick E. Smith, both unionists; that, in fact, it was a revival of the old coalition.

The leading features of Premier Asquith's speech were the announcement of the new secretary for Ireland, his side tracking of the so-called Plunkett scheme for an advisory council which had been strongly supported outside of the house, but which the premier declared was impracticable, and the announcement that there would be no reduction of the military force in Ireland.

Premier Asquith also indicated that all the unionist members of the cabinet were in practical agreement with Lord Lansdowne. This was further confirmed by Andrew Bonar Law, secretary for the colonies, who admitted that Lord Lansdowne and himself had arrived at the same point by different paths. Joseph Devlin, who followed, said he hoped that the next time he marched with the nationalists through the division lobby it would be for the purpose of turning out the coalition government.

He warned the government not to kill the constitutional movement for home rule and charged the premier with cowardice in turning over to Mr. Lloyd-George the attempt to reach a settlement. It was, he said, another example of the premier's method of shifting responsibility.

Mr. Devlin said he could never agree to a reduction of representation in Westminster until a permanent settlement was reached. He had never heard of a "more idiotic" proposal than the one put forward by Mr. Asquith, and he suggested to Sir Edward Carson that the British statesmen failed to realize that the Irish might settle for themselves.

In bringing his motion before the house, John Dillon said he had entered into negotiations with David Lloyd George for a solution of the Irish question most unwillingly, knowing the enormous difficulties they had been confronted with in getting their own supporters to agree to any terms for a compromise.

He spoke of the great disappointment of the nationalists in finding the government going back on the arrangement reached. The premier admitted that the present military control in Ireland was a makeshift arrangement, but it was a revival of the old coalition.

Italy Denounces Treaty Signed With Germany in 1891 and 1904

Treaty Subordinated Italy to Germany Economically

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The only reason which has so far prevented Germany from declaring war on Italy, says the Petit Parisien is a commercial treaty signed between the two countries in 1891 and renewed in 1904. This treaty subordinated Italy to Germany economically, according to the paper, and was considered of the greatest importance by Germany. The Parisien says that it understands Italy has now denounced this treaty and thereby left the way clear for a declaration of hostilities.

LABORERS ON STRIKE

MEN EMPLOYED IN CONSTRUCTION WORK DEMAND INCREASE OF 5 CENTS AN HOUR

About 75 laborers employed in construction work throughout the city went on strike this morning because their employers refused them an increase of five cents an hour in wages. As a result building in many parts of the city is somewhat tied up.

The 75 men on strike do not include all the building laborers in Lowell. Some of the contractors, it is said, agreed to give the increase asked for, and in such cases the men remained at their work.

The regular wage schedule for building laborers is 35 cents an hour and the men want 40 cents. They give the high cost of living as the reason for their demands. Some of the contractors readily agreed to grant the increase, but others held out and the men quit work.

The headquarters of the building laborers are located at 32 Middle street, where a meeting was held last night with President Cassidy in the chair. The five cent increase was refused. Another meeting will be held soon.

The regular meeting of the Loomfixers' union was held last evening in Carpenter's hall with a large attendance. A feature of the evening was an address by Thomas F. McElroy, organizer for the United Textile Workers of America, who will make his headquarters in Lowell for some time.

The members of the Moulders' union held their regular meeting last evening in Middle street and transacted routine business. Plans for the Labor day celebration were also discussed.

At a recent meeting of the Lathers' union it was voted to open the charter of the organization from now until Aug. 26.

to the fire fighting force, but said in order to do that he would ask the council to transfer the sum of $2500 voted for the purchase of an automobile chassis to the fire department appropriation. Mr. Morse opposed the proposition of transferring, although he agreed that more firemen were needed, while the mayor also informed Mr. Putnam he would not vote in favor of the transfer. Action was deferred to a later date.

Hearings on petitions to erect and maintain a water tower and other routine business was transacted. The meeting was called to order shortly after 10 o'clock by Mayor O'Donnell with Commissioner Duncan absent. The first matter taken up had to do with hearings on the following petitions for permission to erect and maintain garages: William T. Trull, 31 Audover; A. W. Wentworth, Woodward avenue; Anthony Luz, Gorham street. There were no remonstrants and the petitions were referred.

A hearing on the petition of the Bay State Street Railway Co., the Lowell Electric Light Corp. and the New England Telephone Co. for a joint location of eight poles in Woburn street was held. A representative of one of the companies explained that the new poles would do away with 15 poles, there being 21 poles on Woburn street at the present time. There were no remonstrants and the petition was referred.

Commissioner Putnam reported favorably on the following petitions, which were granted: Edward J. Robbins, garage in Arch street and Madeline W. Bryant, garage in Westford street. The Lowell Realty Co. petitioned for permission to erect a garage in Bedford street. The petition was referred for permission to erect and maintain a garage in West Third street, while Lull & Hartford petitioned to keep and store gunpowder in the rear of the Southwick building in Prescott street and all the petitions were referred, a hearing being set for Sept. 5. COUNTER BLOW

AT RUSSIANS

Turkish Officers Now Familiar Sight in Streets of Lemberg

Teutons to Disregard Indecisive Successes of Gen. Brussiloff

BERLIN, July 31, via London, Aug. 1.—Turkish officers are now a familiar sight in the streets of Lemberg and the vanguard of the Turkish troops being sent to the southeastern battle front already have been detained, according to despatches from the Galician capital. The Ottoman forces, however, apparently have not yet been thrown into the struggle. The German commanders are biding their time to launch their counter blow at the Russians regarding the indecisive successes which Gen. Brussiloff and his associate army commanders may be able to attain by the tremendous expenditure of force.

The Teutonic retirement on the Lutska front and the abandonment of the convoluted line following the meandering course of the Stokhod is regarded here without apprehension and, in fact, is in a certain way a hopeful sign, as the new line, cutting across the Big Bend in the Stokhod is only about 25 miles long, in contrast with the approximately 63 miles of the former front. A proportionately smaller force is capable of defending it, the surplus thus being released for employment elsewhere.

On the western front the British, according to German war correspondents, appear to be on the point of again attempting the task which they found impossible on July 15, namely, to crush the German front north of the Ancre brook in an effort to reach Bapaume from the west. The British artillery fire on the front between Gommecourt and Beaumont-Hamel on Saturday and Sunday was of the most violent character, being, apparently, preliminary to a new onslaught against the heavily fortified line upon which the British divisions dashed themselves vainly but valiantly in the first days of their storming attack.

to the Columbia street sewer; of C. H. Hanson for the widening of Chelmsford street at its junction with Appleton street; Sam Dean for the acceptance of Chapel street and the laying of cinders and John J. Mahoney for the acceptance of Bell avenue, were read and referred.

Arthur J. Hubbard was appointed a weigher of coal. The Lowell Electric Light Corp. petitioned for the erection of a pole in Temple street and three in Farmland road and a hearing was set for Sept. 5.

The following claims were referred: Mary E. Flynn, personal injury; Delia Higgins, personal injury; Adair Dufresne and Napoleon Forrest and E. F. Finnegan, damage to property.

WIDENING CENTRAL STREET

Charles Kittredge petitioned for the widening of Central street from Prescott street to the New American hotel and the petition was referred to the school committee, asking for a special appropriation of $5000 for the maintenance of the city schools for the remainder of the year and the communication was referred to the commissioner of finance. An invitation from the Trades & Labor council to the Labor day celebration was read and accepted. Agent Bates of the health department was authorized to purchase through the purchasing agent's office 10 tons of loose hay for the health yard.

The Bellevue, Temple and Hillside street sewer assessments were presented by Commissioner Putnam for approval, but action was deferred to a later date. An order for the printing of the names from the jury list and the placing of the same in the jury box was presented and adopted. At 10:30 o'clock a 15-minute recess was taken. The council reconvened at 10:45. Discussion of sewer assessments in Bellevue, Temple and Hillside streets was resumed and it was stated that the order for the suit was passed on April 27, 1915. The assessment was approved.

WANTS MORE FIREMEN

Commissioner Putnam spoke on the necessity of appointing new firemen. He gave the following statement having reference to the time the men are on duty in the various houses.

Mr. Putnam's Statement
After careful investigation and due consideration, I am convinced of the imperative need of additional men in the fire department, and I believe that you understand the situation that exists at some of the fire houses. For your information I have prepared a tabulated statement showing the number of men on duty at the several houses at various hours of the day. This shows that in certain houses there are long periods during the day in which there are but two men at a house, even at a time when none of the company is on a vacation. In the beginning, permit me to state, that in 1914 the underwriters recommended that the engine companies should have nine men on duty at all times, a similar number for the Protective company and seven men for each hose company. That standard has never been attained and we are much farther from it than we were when that recommendation was made. To illustrate: While no new men have been added to the department since 1913, the force has been decreased by the retirement of three men on pensions during the past two and one half years. This year, for the first time, the one-day-off-in-five rule is in operation which, naturally, has the effect of reducing the number of men on duty. The total number of permanent men

Germany's Declaration of War on Russia

Special Articles in French Papers—Premier Sturmer's Statement

PARIS, Aug. 1.—Today, the second anniversary of Germany's declaration of war on Russia, was commemorated in the French press by special articles and features. A number of messages were printed from prominent personalities in allied and neutral countries, including the kings of Serbia and Montenegro, Elitch Rost, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Gen. Cadorna, Premier Romanoff of Spain, Gen. Alexieff, chief of the Russian staff and the Russian and Belgian premiers.

Premier Sturmer of Russia says: "At the moment when the allies are entering upon the third year of the war the Russian government is more than ever resolved to continue the struggle to the end and is firmly convinced, that with the help of the Almighty the allies and their cause of justice and equity will triumph."

credited to each house at the present time is as follows: Engine 1, Gorham street; Engine 2, Branch street; Engine 3, Palmer street; Engine 4, Hill street; Engine 5, Temple street; Engine 6, Fletcher street; Engine 7, Central street; Engine 8, Race street; Engine 9, Lincoln street; Engine 10, Mammoth road; Engine 11, Lawrence street; Engine 12, West Sixth street; Engine 13, Trunk street; Engine 14, West Sixth street; Engine 15, Trunk street.

Now, of course, there is no time when all of these men are on duty. In the smaller companies of five men there is one man off every day, so that the actual strength of each such company is but four men. Then if one of them is absent on his vacation, each of these three is away from the house for meals three times a day, so that for nine hours each day there are but two men at the house to make immediate response to alarms.

The Ayer city and the Lawrence street companies, in the center of manufacturing districts, come within this category. Last week at House 10, upon which the Pawtucketville district largely depends for its fire protection, there were six and one-half hours each day when there were but two men on duty, although on duty each day as two are off every day. The company was away on a vacation. Gentlemen, I don't consider that proper protection, but I am unable to discover any feasible way of improving this situation under existing conditions.

It might be suggested, I suppose, that transfers be made from some of the larger companies. Let us see how that would work out. Engine 4 of High street has the largest number of men, 11. That means that there are two men off duty every day and on one day in every five three are off duty. That leaves a total of eight men, and with one man on his vacation the strength of the company is reduced to seven men. During meal hours there are but five men at the house to man two pieces of apparatus. Would it be wise to reduce this minimum still further by transferring any of the men from this house, leaving the High street company with only seven men? Must I rely on this house for protection? It is my recollection that the project to erect a firehouse in the Oakland district was abandoned on the promise of better facilities at the High street house. Consequently, I am apprehensive that any reduction of the high street force would result in a vigorous protest from the Oakland. Personally, I don't consider it good policy to make such transfers.

The next largest company is Engine 2 on Branch street, which has a force of ten men. That means eight men on duty each day as two are off every day. One man is off on his vacation at the present time, so that the actual strength of the company is seven. During meal hours there are but five men at the house to man two pieces of apparatus. The entire stretch of territory from the depot to the North Chelmsford street depends mainly upon this house for its protection. The creation of another house at the corner of Middlesex and Webster streets has been recommended by the underwriters, and the residents of that section also are urging the necessity of another firehouse in the vicinity of the North Chelmsford street. In view of the manifest need of better fire protection in that section, it does not impress me as good policy to decrease it by transferring any member of the Branch street house to another place. In fact, I incline to the belief that such developments would bring a strong protest from residents and manufacturers on the outskirts of the Highlands.

That some of these smaller companies need strengthening, there appears to be no question in my mind. That it cannot safely be done at the expense of the larger companies, I am also satisfied. The only solution of the problem that I can find is to enlarge the force. Realizing that it means increased cost to the city, I make this recommendation reluctantly, but feel it my duty as commissioner of fire protection to face the situation as I find it.

MORSE ASKS QUESTIONS

Mr. Morse—"How much of a force have you altogether?"
Putnam—"127 men."
Morse—"How many call men?"
Putnam—"32."
Morse—"How many more do you wish to put on?"
Putnam—"Five or six."
Morse—"That will be ample?"
Putnam—"No, but it will be some

KAISER'S PROCLAMATION

Says Second Year of War, Like First, Was for Germany's Arms a Year of Glory

AMSTERDAM, August 1, via London, Aug. 1.—The emperor William, according to a telegram received here today from Berlin, has issued the following proclamation to the German forces on land and sea:

"Comrades, the second year of the world war has elapsed. Like the first year it was for Germany's arms a year of glory. On all fronts you inflicted new and heavy blows on the enemy. Whether the enemy retreated, borne down by the force of your attacks, or whether, reinforced by foreign assistance collected and pressed into service from all parts of the world he tried to rob you of the fruits of former victories, you always proved yourselves superior to him. Even where England's tyranny was untested, namely on the free waves of the sea, you victoriously fought against gigantic superiority. Your Kaiser's appreciation and your country's proud admiration are assured to you for these deeds, for your unshaken loyalty, for your bold daring and for your tenacious bravery.

"Like the memory of our dead heroes your fame also will endure through all time. The laurels which our ever-confident forces have won against the enemy in spite of trials and dangers, are inseparably linked with the devoted and untiring labor at home.

"This strength at home has sent an ever-fresh inspiration to the armies in the field. It has continually quickened our swords, has kindled Germany's enthusiasm and has fortified the enemy's My gratitude and that of the fatherland are due the nation at home.

"But the strength and will of the enemy are not yet broken. We must continue the severe struggle in order to secure the safety of our beloved homeland, to preserve the honor of the fatherland and the greatness of the empire.

"Whether the enemy wages war with the force of arms or with cold, calculating malice, we shall continue as before, into the third year of the war. The spirit of duty to the fatherland and an unbending will to victory force today as in the first days of the war. With God's gracious help I am convinced that your future deeds will equal those of the past and present.

"Main headquarters. "Wilhelm."

MESSAGE TO CHANCELLOR

BERLIN, Aug. 1, via London.—Emperor William today sent the following message to Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor:

"For the second time the anniversary of the day arrived when our enemies forced me to call Germany's sons to arms to protect the honor and existence of the empire.

"The German nation has been through two years of unprecedentedly heroic deeds and suffering. The army and navy, in union with our loyal and brave allies, have gained the highest glory in attack and defense. Many thousands of our brethren have sealed improvement."

Morse—"If you have the money put them on."
Putnam—"I have not the money, but I would like to have the $3500 for a chassis transferred to the maintenance appropriation."

Mr. Morse—"You have some money for a chassis and you want it transferred for the men?"
Putnam—"Yes."

Morse—"Couldn't you do this before?"
Putnam—"I did not know the condition of the department before."

Morse—"I think the money for the chassis should remain where it is. Some time ago you wanted money from the street department."

Putnam—"Yes, but that was for the water department. I believe those men should be appointed."

Morse—"I agree with you, but if you haven't got the money what are you going to do? I believe if you could have had $3500 from the street department, the money would be transferred to the chassis money for the appointment of firemen."

Putnam—"The street department money was for the water department and not for the fire department."

Morse—"Let's go back to 1913 and see the patching that was done at that time."
Putnam—"I was not a commissioner at that time."

Morse—"No, but you were superintendent of streets."

Action on the matter was postponed until a later date, for Mr. Putnam wishes to confer with the commissioner of finance in reference to the transfer of money. The mayor then informed the commissioner that he would vote against the transfer.

The Jitney Ordinance
An order repealing the jitney ordinance governing stands in the street was presented by the city solicitor and read. It was then moved to have it enrolled, but the mayor and Mr. Putnam voted against it and the order was killed.

Commissioner Donnelly was authorized to spend $175 for sketches for the decorating of the Memorial building. The meeting adjourned at 11:30 Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

DOG BIT LIFE BOUY
BOYS THOUGHT DOG WAS BROWNING AND GAVE HIM FIRST AID
So many complaints have reached the police station relative to the destruction and larceny of the life apparatus placed at different points along the banks of the canal that Sgt. Welch of the police department has issued an order to the members of the department to keep strict tabs on the apparatus and if any of the vandals are caught and brought into court they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law which is $20.

This morning a report reached the police station that one of the long hooks near the Saco-Lowell shops had been stolen and complaints have been made that apparatus in other parts of the city have been tampered with. Yesterday afternoon a bull dog, evidently suffering from the heat, jumped into the canal near the Chelmsford street and some boys took one of the life buoys and threw it into the water. The dog, probably feeling that the boys wanted to play with him, grabbed the buoy with his mouth and succeeded in biting a hole in it.

Over 300 happy, hearty, noisy boys, members of the Junior Holy Name society of St. Michael's church, swarmed today on Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the summer home of the Knights of Columbus, to enjoy their annual outing.

With a fine program of sports, prizes for the winners, plenty of ice cream and lemonade it is needless to say that every boy on the trip had one jolly good time.

Three high special cars were required to convey the boys from this city to the club grounds. The cars were lined up at the corner of Bridge and First streets shortly after 8 o'clock and within 15 minutes all were literally packed with youngsters wearing happy faces. The boys started right to work and had a good time and they made things merry on route to the grounds.

At the destination sports were enjoyed, including races, jumping, etc., and a red hot baseball game was played. At noon luncheon was served and the afternoon was spent in games and other amusements. The return trip will be made this evening.

HERBERT BISHOP INJURED

Herbert L. Bishop, of 25 May street, a paymaster at the United States Cartridge Co., suffered a fracture of the left leg last night when he was struck and run over by an automobile in Chelmsford Centre.

Mr. Bishop had just stepped from an electric car at Park street and while crossing the street an automobile belonging to J. Jarek and operated by Mrs. Jarek struck him. He was thrown to the ground and two of the wheels passed over his left leg.

Dr. Amasa Howard was summoned and after having been made as comfortable as possible Mr. Bishop was removed to the Lowell hospital.

O.M.I. CADETS' ENCAMPMENT

All arrangements for the annual encampment of the O.M.I. Cadets will be made at a meeting in the Immaculate Conception school hall this evening. The meeting is arranged for the benefit of the parents of the cadets, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance. Each cadet is to bring a member of his family. Major Conroy and others will handle all matters pertaining to the encampment, and a short drill will follow.
